BYRNES URGES HEAT CUT; BANS LIGHTED SIGNS

Ask F. D. R. Be Czar of All Jobs.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 [Special].—The government today cracked down on the civilian front with a series of orders, threats, and demands for power striking deep into the warp and woof of American life and covering fuel, forced labor, travel, food, and entertainment.

Developments included:

1. War Mobilization Director Byrnes, predicting a 40 million ton coal shortage, directed the war production board to put an end to all outdoor advertising, ornamental, and display lighting which draws on the coal supply and demanded a 68 degree ceiling on maximum home temperatures.

Asks F. D. R. Be Job Czar.

2. Navy Undersecretary Bard, demanding work or fight legislation before the house military affairs committee, asked a law delegating to the President blanket authority to compel men and women in all age groups to take or leave any job he may designate; also a law, in which he was joined by Army Undersecretary Patterson, ordering fines and imprisonment for draft age men who quit war jobs without government approval, or fail to take jobs specified by local draft boards. [Details on page 11.]

3. Byrnes called on the office of defense transportation to bar all special and excursion trains and any increase in service to resort areas. He also asked heads of government agencies to curtail travel by members of their staffs. [Details of the latter on page 10.]

See Beef Curtailment.

4. Senators and congressmen predicted that the flow of beef to markets will be slowed to such an extent that choice cuts will be virtually unobtainable as a result of Stabilization Director Vinson's order setting a ceiling of $18 per 100 pounds on live beef cattle. [Details on page 24.]

5. Dr. James S. Thomas, deputy director for Florida of the office of price administration, said that a "request" to the night clubs of the Miami area and elsewhere in the nation "to close their doors probably for the duration" is being seriously considered in Washington officialdom. He said such a request might be made not to obtain man power employed by night clubs but to "alleviate absenteeism among war workers participating in too much night club activity."

Byrnes said that his orders designed to enforce fuel conservation were issued because dwindling stocks of coal have become a matter of concern to President Roosevelt and his cabinet.

In his appeal for less heat, Byrnes made no exceptions for people who heat with oil or gas. Compliance was left on a voluntary basis.

Bans Display Lighting.

With soft coal consumption expected to exceed production for the third straight year, Byrnes said it was necessary to cut the former by 25 million tons in 1945.

The saving from curtailing out-

Allied Unity Plan Drawn by Vandenberg

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—Deploring the lack of a firm, constructive American foreign policy and President Roosevelt's depreciation of the Atlantic Charter, Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], speaking in the senate today, proposed a three point program designed to restore allied unity, now impaired by European power politics, and to promote victory over the axis.

The Vandenberg proposals were:

1. An immediate allied treaty under which the President would be authorized without further reference to congress to employ the American army and navy in conjunction with the other allied powers to keep Germany and Japan demilitarized.

2. A provision in the Dumbarton Oaks post-war world peace plan authorizing the new league of nations, in order to correct injustices, to revise unilateral actions such as Russia is taking in Poland and Great Britain in Greece.

3. A declaration to the enemy peoples indicating to them "that the quicker they 'unconditionally surrender' the cheaper will be the unconditional surrender's price."

Foe Offered Incentive to Quit.

The Michigan senator bespoke "honest candor" with our allies and also with our foes. He said he made his third proposal "without any remote suggestion of appeasement" as an incentive to the German and Japanese peoples "to desert their tottering tyrannies."

Plain speaking to our foes as well as our friends "has been too conspicuous by its absence, and upon at least one calamitous occasion, by its error," said Vandenberg, who was referring to Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's scheme to de-industrialize Germany completely and reduce it to an agricultural country.

The Morgenthau plan, at first approved by the President, banished any thought of surrender the Germans might have had and caused them to fight with renewed fury at tragic cost in casualties to the allies.

Allied Council Proposed.

Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] called on the senate to reaffirm the principles of the Atlantic Charter and proposed immediate formation of an allied nations council "to supervise, when necessary, the life of liberated territories until stable governments can be set up by free choice of the people involved."

Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, replying to Vandenberg in defense of the administration, urged that action be withheld and discussion of foreign policy avoided pending the meeting of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, and Dictator Stalin after the Roosevelt inauguration Jan. 20.

Vandenberg said he found himself in accord with much of the President's message. Realizing that the clash of foreign interests which have motivated wars for centuries will not be ended suddenly by some man-made formula, Vandenberg said he approached the question of our for-

THE TIGER AND THE TRAP

$250,000 Won by Woman Aid of Thompson

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell last night announced that under the terms of a settlement Miss Ethabelle Green will receive $250,000 of the cash left by her late employer, William Hale Thompson, former mayor, who died last March. Miss Green, who is 36, had filed a claim for half of the 2 million dollars the 76 year old ex-mayor had secreted in numerous safety deposit boxes.

The payment to Miss Green was agreed to by the widow, Mrs. Mary Wyse Thompson, whom Thompson married in 1901. The widow had been reported too ill to appear in court to fight the younger woman's claim to half of what Thompson left.

Wishes Widow a Long Life.

"I hope Mrs. Thompson has a speedy recovery and lives long to enjoy the fortune Mr. Thompson left her," Miss Green told newspaper men and women who had waited in an anteroom while Judge O'Connell was in chambers interviewing the various parties to the cash cut-up.

How the settlement was effected, and for what reason the payment of $250,000 is to be made to Miss Green were not explained. In her preliminary legal maneuvers she sought to establish herself as a sort of daughter to the ex-mayor, or as his custodian, guardian, and playmate.

In a stormy hearing before Judge O'Connell a few weeks ago Miss Green's attorney shouted at James W. Breen, attorney for Mrs. Thompson:

"Well, what if she [Miss Green] were his mistress; what is it worth for a millionaire to have a mistress?"

Remained in Seclusion.

Miss Green's petition was filed with Judge O'Connell a month ago. She remained in seclusion and denied admission to interviewers or photographers.

When Miss Green appeared in court as a claimant to half of Thompson's estate, she refused to discuss herself, her past, or her claim. Her court petition set forth the information she had been married, but briefly, and her marriage had been annulled because Thompson wished it so.

"He is a New York doctor," was all that was said of the husband she forsook.

There was no court adjudication of the validity or justice of her claim. The case came to a hearing before Judge O'Connell on a petition by Atty. Joseph T. Harrington, representing Miss Green, that Mrs. Thompson and her attorney be compelled to tell what they had done with some of Miss Green's clothing and other personal effects she had left in the hotel room where Thompson died.

Breen Found the Cash.

The only witness was Atty. Breen, who had been first assistant corporation counsel during most of the 12 years Thompson was mayor. It was Breen who found Thompson's cash in safety boxes in three banks and it was Breen who was hired by Mrs. Thompson to represent her.

Atty. Harrington questioned Breen fiercely. He demanded to know whether Breen had drawn a will for Thompson and, if so, what had become of it.

"This is a case of blackmail," Breen charged.

Yesterday was the day set by Judge O'Connell for an answer from Breen as to whether Mrs. Thompson was going to appear in court. Early in the afternoon Miss Green appeared in Judge O'Connell's chambers. No announcement was made.

Harrington, perturbed, hurried over.

"You can write, can't you?" he asked Miss Green. "Well, if you want to fire me, put it in writing."

Then, one by one, Judge O'Connell called the principals in the $250,000 settlement to come into his office, alone. The press was not invited.

Atty. Herbert Lautmann, past president of the Chicago Bar association, represented Mrs. Thompson. Atty. Samuel L. Golan, who formerly represented Miss Green, apparently represented no one.

Finally Judge O'Connell told the press that an agreement had been reached. He said Miss Green is to get a quarter million.

MISSING ACE CHUTED SAFELY ONTO LUZON; NEWS OVERJOYS WIFE

Mrs. Katheryn Horn Vraciu, 1604 142d st., East Chicago, Ind., was overjoyed yesterday to learn thru a delayed news dispatch that her husband, Lt. Alexander Vraciu, reported missing in action over the Philippines since Dec. 14, was seen to parachute from his damaged plane over central Luzon on that day.

Lt. Vraciu for a year was the navy's leading ace, with 19 Japanese planes to his credit. Comdr. David McCampbell of Los Angeles currently holds the navy record with 34.

Mrs. Vraciu said the last she heard from her husband was a letter dated Dec. 10 in which he said: "You won't be hearing from me again for a long time." On Christmas day she received a dozen roses and on Jan. 3 a telegram from the navy department reporting that he was missing in action.

2 Held by FBI as $200,000 Bank Looters

Technique of a band of bank thieves accused of stealing more than $200,000 out of tellers' cages was disclosed yesterday by Spencer Drayton, agent in charge of the Chicago office of the federal bureau of investigation, who said a woman who furnished the brains for the ring was found hiding behind a secret panel in her home.

John A. O'Boyle.

Leader of the band, Drayton said, was John A. O'Boyle, 51, who had been living in the Knickerbocker hotel. He was arrested Tuesday in a drug store at Rush st. and Chicago av., while carrying $1,900 cash in his wallet.

Drayton said the ring stole $107,000 from the Bank of America at Los Angeles, Cal., last May 2, and also probably was involved in bank thefts in Phoenix, Ariz., Seattle, Wash., Portland, Ore., and San Francisco.

Follow Same Method.

The technique always was the same, he said. One member would telephone a bank teller, say he was an army officer, and ask the teller to look for a wallet he had lost in the bank. When the obliging teller left his cage, another member of the gang would reach in and take what he could get his hands on.

O'Boyle was expensively dressed Tuesday when the FBI seized him. Besides his roll of money, he had ration coupons for 1,400 gallons of gasoline, and a ration check issued by the Chicago OPA office for 4,000 red points.

He pleaded not guilty to a charge of violating the bank robbery act, and United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker set his bond at $20,000, on recommendation of Assistant United States Atty. Michael J. Boyle, and continued the hearing to today.

Told She Wasn't There.

The woman member, Mrs. Kitty Kelly, 44, was sought by FBI agents in her large house in Toledo, O. Her husband, James T. [Jake] Kelly, 66, owner of a cafe; his son, James Jr., 36, and Dan Mouldin, 65, a Negro waiter, told the agents that Mrs. Kelly was not at home.

Undaunted, the agents searched the house. On the floor of a clothes closet an agent saw a small piece of rope. He picked it up and idly gave it a yank.

Just as in a detective thriller, part of a false wall of the closet slid open, and Kitty Kelly was found sitting on the floor of a hidden chamber.

SEIZES LUZON AIR STRIP, PUSHES ON; CARVES BEACHHEAD 4 MILES DEEP

Yanks and British Close on Germans from 3 Sides.

PARIS, Jan. 11 [Thursday]—(AP).—The western end of the Germans' Ardennes salient—carved out in their costly December counter-offensive—appeared today to be caving under allied pressure from three sides.

In eastern France, Americans of Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army pushed ahead a mile in a sector seven miles southwest of Saarbrucken, a field dispatch said.

There were indications that Field Marshal Von Rundstedt already had shifted most of his forces to the eastern end of the wedge in Belgium.

The Germans admitted quitting St. Hubert, southwestern anchor town of the salient. Altho the report was without allied confirmation, the German radio said St. Hubert, 14 miles west of Bastogne, was evacuated before the Americans entered the town.

[A German radio broadcast said that "in order to economize German forces and retain mobile reserves, the German high command has shortened the front on the west flank of the area penetrated by American troops. St. Hubert has been evacuated."]

Say La Roche Abandoned.

La Roche, a communications hub on the north side of the salient, was being mopped up rapidly after having been by-passed by American armor and infantry in a general advance. Front line correspondents said the main German force had abandoned that town as well as others on the north and west.

Von Rundstedt appeared to have effected an orderly withdrawal in the Belgian bulge under cover of the same foul weather that shrouded the mid-December westward plunge of his armies and deprived the allies of support of their tactical air forces.

The United States 1st and 3d armies, now less than nine miles apart at the waist of the salient after a day of battering advances thru ice and snow, thus faced the prospect of finding the pocket empty when they eventually come together north of Bastogne.

Sweep Thru Samree.

After 30 hours of armored battle, American forces swept thru the fiercely defended road junction of Samree on the northern flank of the bulge and drove on more than a mile southward.

Samree fell to the 2d armored division and elements of the 84th infantry. Samree is on high ground

ENEMY GOGGLES FROM HILLTOPS AS FLEET PASSES

ABOARD VICE ADM. KINKAID'S FLAGSHIP IN LINGAYEN GULF, Jan. 9 [Delayed]—(AP).—It now can be disclosed that the first disposition of the huge convoy of more than 800 ships, which returned Gen. MacArthur to Luzon today, moved out of Leyte gulf in the central Philippines one week ago.

For the 835 mile run thru the Mindanao, Sulu and China seas the ships were constantly under observation of enemy planes. As the ships boldly skirted islands in the Philippines, successive chains of enemy spotters goggled from their hilltop posts.

The Japanese air force waited until the ships approached Luzon to deal the most deadly attacks they could contrive, but the convoy weathered them.

Attack Advance Force.

The brunt of the Japanese air strikes thus fell on the advance force—a heavy bombardment group of pre-Pearl Harbor battleships, escort carriers, cruisers and destroyers which were assigned to shell the beaches and destroy coastal batteries for three days prior to the landings.

Behind the formation came three more formations, even larger than the vanguard. There seemed to be no end to the parade of transports, freighters, landing ship docks, and amphibious craft of every description.

Ships Close to Bataan.

Before landing, the bulk of the convoy moved within 40 miles of Manila and still closer to Bataan peninsula.

Now the Filipinos could see their liberation approaching in tangible form.

In this convoy were scores of thousands of United States 6th army troops, hundreds of thousands of deadweight tons of assault supplies ranging from tanks, Long Toms, and bazookas to carrier pigeons and dog teams.

Sink Jap Destroyer.

ABOARD ADM. BARBEY'S FLAGSHIP IN LINGAYEN GULF, Jan. 9 [Delayed]—(AP).—The most spectacular Japanese attack against this great American convoy, which stretched 80 miles across the sea, was an after dark destroyer sneak on Sunday. Vice Adm. Daniel E. Barbey of Portland, Ore., 7th amphibious force commander, had expected such a trick and had deployed his destroyers to meet it.

Four American destroyers opened up on the Japanese warship, boxing her with star shells before they began moving in for the kill. Their big guns straddled her with fire before the Japanese could fire a shot.

Ten minutes after the battle began the Japanese 1,400 tonner was dead in the water. She broke in two in three tremendous explosions. Thirty minutes from the time the first shell was fired she had disappeared beneath the surface. Few survivors were picked up.

Planes Attack Japs; Foe Moves Up to Meet Invaders.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Luzon, Jan. 11 [Thursday]—(AP).—Under the impetus of Tuesday morning's power packed landing, American troops by midday Wednesday had carved out a Luzon beachhead 15 miles wide and an average of four miles deep.

They captured four key towns and the Lingayen air strip less than 120 miles north of Manila, the prime objective of the American drive. The captured towns were Lingayen, Dagupan, each of about 30,000 population, San Fablan, and Mangaldan. None is a port except for small craft. The principal port in the Lingayen area is San Fernando, 35 miles north of the beachhead.

[A delayed field dispatch said the 14th army corps alone had captured 20 towns and villages and extended the beachhead west from Lingayen City to within less than two miles from Port Sual. This made a beachhead 20 miles in length. The dispatch said the corps had seized among others the towns of Maneboc, Libsong, and Lupis.]

Beachheads Consolidated.

Gen. MacArthur's bulletin today, the second issued from his Luzon headquarters, announced that the four separate beachheads along Lingayen gulf had been consolidated in the first 24 hours of almost bloodless invasion from San Fabian to Lingayen.

[Broadcasts from the scene said some American columns were considerably beyond the four mile average announced officially. Weather was described as stormy with big combers rolling up on the beaches.]

"Supplies and equipment are pouring ashore for the development of a great base of operations," Gen. MacArthur said. "The enemy was apparently completely deceived by our landing in his rear at Lingayen, rather than in his front on southern Luzon, and as yet has been unable to gather his forces to offer any serious resistance. He is now feverishly bringing up troops from his prepared positions in the south.

Bomb Jap Airports.

"In direct support of our operations our air units of the far east air force swept the entire Luzon area with deadly effect. Heavy units dropped 70 tons of bombs on Nielson and Nicholas airdromes near Manila, starting large fires.

"Medium attack and fighter planes interdicted the central plains north of Manila, attacking enemy lines of communication and airdromes. Thirty-four enemy planes were destroyed or damaged on the ground at Clark field and many others at Lipa and Batangas. Three great bridges near Calumpit were wrecked and innumerable troops and supply vehicles on the road were destroyed. [Calumpit is 25 miles northwest of Manila.]

"The attack was carried thru the night by our air patrols. At the same time carrier based aircraft of the 7th fleet swept the entire beachhead sector in direct support of our ground troops, hitting enemy installations at San Fernando, Baguio [summer capital of Luzon], Rosario, and other points. Many ammunition and supply dumps, warehouses, barracks, defense works, and motor vehicles were wrecked and large fires were started. Six enemy planes were destroyed.

Little Enemy Air Activity.

"Enemy air activity over Luzon has now been reduced to a negligible scale by our constant attack and patrols and continuous interdiction of air bases."

Somewhere south of Lingayen, Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, Japanese commander in the Philippines, must make a stand. How much of a stand will depend on how quickly and successfully he succeeds in bringing troops from the central Luzon plain in the face of day and night United States air assaults.

Three Destroyers Lost in Typhoon

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—Three destroyers of the Pacific fleet were lost during a severe typhoon in the western Pacific, the navy announced today. The vessels were the Hull, the Spence, and the Monaghan.

The navy also announced the loss as the result of enemy action in the Pacific of four landing craft [LST], a motor torpedo boat, a small submarine chaser and a small auxiliary vessel. They were not identified.

"Losses Up to Dec. 31."

The announcement, the navy said, "covers all losses of surface craft during the Philippine campaign up to Dec. 31, 1944."

The Hull and the Monaghan had normal complements of about 150 men each and the Spence about 220. The commanding officer, four other officers and 49 men of the Hull were rescued. Survivors of the Spence totaled 24, including one officer of the supply corps. Six of the personnel of the Monaghan were rescued.

Other Vessels Damaged.

The Hull was skippered by Lt. Comdr. James Alexander Marks of Chevy Chase, Md.; the Spence by Lt. Comdr. James Paul Andrea of Alexandria, Va., and the Monaghan by Lt. Comdr. Floyd Bruce Garrett Jr., Little Rock, Ark.

The navy said the disaster occurred while the vessels were taking part in recent combat operations in the western Pacific. In addition to the three destroyers, a number of vessels suffered damage during the severe typhoon.

NATIVES REPORT FOR WAR DUTY ON LUZON BEACHES

Help MacArthur's Army Unload Supplies.

BY WALTER SIMMONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LINGAYEN, Luzon, P. I., Jan. 9 [Delayed].—Men in the first wave of Gen. MacArthur's invasion of Luzon Island were met on the beaches by natives who said they were reporting for duty. Many Filipino men pitched in to speed up the unloading.

The Japs apparently had withdrawn hastily and on the beach were found five 50 pound bombs such as were used as mines at Palau and Leyte. Several gasoline dumps were found, but there were only wrecked planes at Lingayen air field.

A young division commander characterized the Jap withdrawal as "the most amazing thing I ever saw."

It's Homecoming Day.

All the principal buildings in Lingayen, capital of Pangasinan province, were rubble, flattened by the naval pre-assault bombardment. The capitol, a modern reinforced concrete building, was left a shattered shell; the church was ruined; school buildings were heavily damaged. Jap barracks at the air field were flattened.

The capitol was treated to salvos of thousands of shells from warcraft yesterday after reconnoitering parties, pushing ahead from the beach, had been fired on from its upper windows. The harassing fire soon ceased. At one location a reconnoitering party discovered that the tank trap area shown by aerial photos actually was a cemetery.

Before noon the beach was fully reorganized and cargo was coming in. Tanks rumbled inland and bulldozers moved thru the soft volcanic sand, scooping up roads and making cuts thru the three foot shelf which rose inland 150 feet from the water's edge.

Passes Out Cigarets.

Will Buir of Sierra Madre, Cal., a Red Cross worker, started serving cocoa and coffee and passing out cigarets on the beach. Other Red Cross workers went in with the early waves. Two wounded Filipino women gave the first aid station something to do.

The gradually sloping beach kept landing craft as far as 500 feet off shore, causing troops to wade ashore thru hip deep surf. Engineers employed causeways to unload an LST [landing ship, tanks], building a bridge from the ship to the beach.

B-29S DROP FIRE BOMBS ON TOKYO, JAPAN REPORTS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokyo radio reported three Marianas based Super Fortresses, flying singly, dropped incendiaries on the Japanese capital between midnight and dawn yesterday in the wake of Tuesday's heavy raid.

Japanese imperial headquarters claimed 29 B-29s were shot down or damaged during Tuesday's raid over central Honshu. It admitted the loss of five Japanese interceptor planes.

[The war department in Washington said the B-29s touched off fires in Tokyo. Military installations on Formosa also were attacked by Super Fortresses from Asiatic bases.]

JOY OF BATAAN CLAN MINGLED WITH NEW FEAR

Joy over the news that Gen. MacArthur had landed on Luzon and hope that American prisoners of war soon might be liberated were expressed yesterday by Chicago area members of the Bataan organizations. However, there was a strong undercurrent of worry based on reports that relatively few of the prisoners remained in the Philippines.

"It goes without saying that we are thrilled at the news," said Albert C. McArthur, 310 S. Villa av., Villa Park, president of the American Bataan clan and first vice president of the Federated Organizations for Bataan Relief. "It means that we're getting back closer to where we can save the boys."

McArthur added, however, that he believed that the bulk of the Americans still held in the Philippines were civilians and that most of the soldiers who had been captured at Bataan were now in Japan

"We are full of anticipation and suspense waiting to see how many American prisoners are in the Philippines and how they are," said Mrs. Oscar Heilig, 2116 S. 18th av., Broadview. Mrs. Heilig founded the American Bataan clan in 1942. It is made up largely of close relatives of members of Company B of the 192d tank battalion of the 1st armored division. The company, which consisted mostly of men from Maywood and other western suburbs, participated in the defense of Bataan in the early months of 1942.

Complains Aussies Play Second Fiddle in Pacific

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 10 (AP).—The Daily Telegraph complained today that Australian troops were being sidetracked into a secondary role in the Pacific while the Americans "advance north toward Japan and into the limelight. Our ground forces have been allotted the job of mopping up Japanese resistance in New Guinea, New Britain, and the Solomons," said the Telegraph. "This news is disappointing to Australian soldiers, who have no superior as assault troops."

6,000 AMERICANS EXPECTED TO BE FREED ON LUZON

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—About 6,000 American civilians are still in the Philippines and officials here expect they will be liberated when Luzon is freed. Most of the civilians are at the Santo Tomas camp outside Manila.

The situation as to American prisoners of war is unclear, and there is little hope that many of the men captured on Bataan and Corregidor can be freed when Gen. MacArthur's troops get back there.

The Japanese have been removing many of the war prisoners to Japan, altho they have not transferred civilian internees, according to unofficial reports received by the state department.

$250 AND CANDY STOLEN.

Thieves who battered a hole thru the wall of an adjoining store to gain entry took $250 and candies worth $15 from the candy store at 5039 S. Halsted st., Mrs. Eugene Bartlett, the owner, told police yesterday.

FEAT OF 3 MEN ON LUZON YEARS AGO RECALLED

Kansas City, Kas., Jan. 10 (AP).—Mention in today's bulletin of the destruction of vital bridges at Calumpit, Luzon, by American planes recalled the legendary feat of an American officer and two enlisted men in a previous war.

One of the bridges spans the Pampanga river north of Manila. It was there that William B. Trembley and Edward White, privates under Frederick Funston, swam the river to carry across a rope by means of which rafts could be pulled across. Trembley, for years postmaster here and now a hotel operator, gave this account of the incident tonight:

He and White, who died 38 years ago, swam the river and made the rope fast. Then a bamboo raft carrying Funston, who directed the operations was pulled across. The rope broke, leaving the raft, with seven men aboard, stranded. Trembley and White swam out with another, and the crossing was negotiated. All was done under fire of Filipino insurrectionists. Trembley, White, and Funston all received the congressional medal of honor.

Funston later became a general officer. His commander was Gen. Arthur MacArthur, father of the present American commander.

New Liberty Ship Named for Seaman from Indiana

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 [Special].—A new Liberty ship has been named for Harold Dossett of Princeton, Ind., a merchant seaman who lost his life May 23, 1942 when a cargo vessel was torpedoed and sunk, the maritime commission announced today. His mother is Mrs. Thomas J. Dossett of Princeton.

300,000 YANKS FACE DEATH IN BATTLE FOR PHILIPPINES, JAPS SAY

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Tokyo radio yesterday said the battle of the Philippines had entered "its main stage and 300,000 American officers and men are doomed to die" in the invasion of Luzon. The Japanese broadcast made grandiose claims of destruction heaped upon the Yanks.

Tokyo told of tanks and amphibious tractors being blown up as they reached the beaches. In the pre-landing exchange of gunfire "one enemy cruiser was instantly sunk and four transports were set ablaze," the radio said.

A Japanese war correspondent's eye witness account of the landing of American troops at Lingayen gulf told of American soldiers being met by a "furious sally of fire."

The correspondent was quoted as saying that the bombardment from United States warships and bombing from carrier-based planes increased in intensity as two columns of landing barges from some 100 transports approached the shore line.

"Shells from our batteries continuously burst amid the enemy landing barges," he said. "In utter disregard of the Americans, Japanese gunners kept to their posts and took a heavy toll of landing craft."

In another broadcast Tokyo said: "All Japanese newspapers this morning [Japanese time] carry reports from the Philippines and say that every Japanese plane in the Philippines is a special attack [suicide] plane and they are incessantly inflicting heavy damages on the enemy warships."

NAZIS' BELGIAN BULGE CAVING IN; QUIT ST. HUBERT

Yanks, British Press In from Three Sides.

commanding considerable terrain in the salient.

The Germans were reported to have pulled most of their troops out of La Roche and left only a small rearguard to delay British forces banging into its outskirts from the north and west.

British forces smashing at the western tip of the salient had advanced three and a half miles in the past 24 hours, crossing the l'Homme river east of Rochefort and seizing a number of towns, including Grupont, midway between Rochefort and St. Hubert.

Within Range of Highway.

Lt. Gen. Hodges' American 1st army forces fighting southward from captured Bihain, three miles east of Fraiture, were reported within easy artillery range of the highway between Houffalize and St. Vith, the last first class exit route left to the Germans. The road was considered virtually neutralized by shelling, but the Nazis could use numerous secondary roads which were frozen and suitable to movement of heavy armor.

As they beat their retreat the Germans strewed thousands of mines in the snow.

On the south side of the salient Lt. Gen Patton's American 3d army—now being used as the "anvil" in the allied-offensive—gained up to a mile and a half in advances on both sides of Bastogne. The famous 101st air borne division, driving northeast from Bastogne, reached a point only four and a half miles from Houffalize.

Advance Follows Reversals.

Patton's advances followed reversals yesterday in which the villages of Flamierge, Orreux, and Tillet, all west of Bastogne, were lost. American units which were surrounded in Flamierge fought their way back to the main forces.

Patton's forces drove four dents into the enemy salient southeast of Bastogne, with the 26th infantry advancing a mile in the area of Harlange, five miles from Bastogne. Another infantry column pushed a quarter mile near Sonley, three miles west of Wiltz, which is nine miles east of Bastogne in Luxemburg.

The third dent was made by a cavalry unit which gained half a mile after taking Betlange, five miles south of Bastogne. The fourth dent was made just north of Betlange, where the town of Villers la Bonne Eau was taken.

The United States 1st and 3d armies have captured 25,872 Germans in the salient since the enemy offensive on Dec. 16.

Strasbourg Still Perlled.

Far to the south, in eastern France, 7th army doughboys entered the village of Oeting, about seven miles southwest of Saarbrucken.

Other American units fighting along the banks of the Rhine stormed into that part of Druzenheim which is north of the Moder river. Fighting also raged in Herrlisheim. Both towns had been overrun by the Germans five days ago.

The peril to Strasbourg, capital city of Alsace, was not ended, however. The Nazis still clung to Gambsheim, only nine miles northeast of Strasbourg, and were reported attacking near Krafft, 10 miles south of the city, after advancing four miles over night.

FIGHT FOR ROADS MARKS BELGIAN BATTLE IN SNOW

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMERICAN 3D ARMY, Near Bastogne, Jan. 9 [Delayed].—We saw death come this afternoon. We were driving along a highway that clings to a hillside a few miles south of Wiltz [northeast of Bastogne] when we caught sight of infantrymen across the valley moving slowly up a steep slope. Suddenly snow and black undersoil shot skyward directly from the midst of the moving men. When the explosion settled and the line moved on once more there were two little black figures sprawled motionless beside the shellhole.

Every one fights for the roads in this wooded region because the snow lies thick on valley and hill and the only swift movement possible is along the highways. But the fighting is for possession of the roads, the fighting often takes place under the pine trees or in the towns that are sprinkled over the countryside.

The commanding general of one famous division had a narrow escape this morning when a rocket smashed into a house while he was visiting the battalion command post in one such town. There were casualties but the general was not among them.

Nazis Retreat from Allied Trap

GERMAN OFFICIAL WAR REPORT ON WESTERN FRONT

Wednesday's German official war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin said:

"The defense battle in the northern Ardennes continues. Again yesterday [Tuesday] the Americans attempted to force a breakthru at Houffalize by strong attacks against our northern and southern flanks.

"In embittered fighting, costly to both sides, in forests, and localities in difficult, ice-covered ground, our troops repulsed the attackers, and at many points passed to the counter-attack. The enemy was denied any major territorial gain.

"Some 500 prisoners fell in our hands here and in local encounters in Lorraine.

"Panzers [armored] grenadiers and armored forces have torn up the Maginot line at Hatten southeast of Wissembourg in Alsace, and taken 300 Americans from captured fortifications. In repeated attempts to crush our bridgehead north of Strasbourg the enemy lost 14 tanks. On the upper Rhine south of Erstein several enemy fighting groups are cut off from their rear communications and encircled."

C-47s Evacuate 100,000 Wounded from Europe

LONDON, Jan. 10.—An American troop carrier flight surgeon today disclosed that ambulance planes of United States troop carrier forces have evacuated more than 100,000 wounded American and allied soldiers from continental battle fields since D-day, June 6, 1944. Flying in all kinds of weather, the C-47s also took supplies and equipment to combat units on trips to forward air fields.

2 TON BLOCKBUSTER BOMBS HIT HANNOVER; NAZI BULGE ATTACKED

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP).—British Mosquitos dumped loads of two ton blockbusters on Hannover, German industrial center, tonight. Earlier in the day nearly 1,500 American planes had made widespread daylight sweeps over western Germany. Heavy attacks were made on Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's lifelines in and around the Ardennes bulge.

In addition 8th air force Flying Fortresses and Liberators attacked four newly constructed airdromes near Cologne, road and rail bridges near the Rhine city and the Karlsruhe freight yards. Karlsruhe is the main distributing center for the Nazis battling toward Strasbourg, 45 miles southwest.

The 8th air force announced that it had flown 15,760 heavy bomber and 11,250 escorting fighter missions on 19 days since Von Rundstedt sent his armies crashing thru American lines 24 days ago. In on these missions they have dropped 185,000 bombs, 40,600 tons, on 125 separate tactical targets in the area.

Col. J. F. Early Appointed Air Force Service Chief

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Col. James F. Early has succeeded Brig. Gen. Donald R. Goodrich as head of the American 8th air force service command, headquarters of the American strategic air forces announced today. The announcement said Goodrich had received a new assignment. YANKS IN FORTS OF MAGINOT LINE STOP NAZI TANKS

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY IN ALSACE, France, Jan. 10.—Some of the Maginot zone positions north of the Haguenau forest, which the Germans could not use in their retreat last month, are now being employed successfully by the Americans.

The pillboxes face northward, which is why they were of no use to the enemy. But Lt. Col. E. Porter, Cedar Rapids, Ia., said today, "from those little strong points we can look right down the Heinies' throat and make it sore."

Propose Citation for Unit.

Porter commands an infantry unit which so distinguished itself in yesterday's battle in the Hatten-Rittershoffen area that he and his men are being proposed for a Presidential citation for valor. Their bazooka and small arms fire from the pillboxes and from foxholes in front of those posts helped smash the strongest German armor blow against the 7th army since the New Year's attack began.

Of about 100 mobile pieces thrown in by the enemy yesterday, more than 20 were Mark IV tanks. The stand put up by Porter's men and other American infantry elements and by our tank destroyers and artillery knocked out at least 14 of the Mark IVs, it was established today, and four others were damaged.

Yank Losses Are Light.

There were many dead German infantrymen lying in the snow today. We lost only one tank destroyer and our personnel casualties were much lighter than the enemy's.

"Ever since our maneuvers in Tennessee," Porter said, "we have been waiting to find ground and positions like we have now found. These are ideal for holding and knocking back whatever comes at us."

Our artillery combined with machine gun fire today wiped out a tavern full of Germans in the Stundwiller-Oberroedern neighborhood, two miles above Hatten. The machine gun crews covered the one exit from the tavern and then our howitzers scored eight direct hits on the building. As the surviving Germans ran out the door they were cut down by the automatic weapons' fire.

Canadian, British Officers Attend Australian School

BRISBANE, Australia, Jan. 10 [Reuters].—Canadian and British officers are now receiving instruction at the new Australian army staff school at Cabarlah, Queensland. This is the outcome of decisions aiming at the exchange of British, dominion and Australian officers with the object of establishing an empire standard of office.

$500 DAMAGE IN HOME FIRE.

Fire which started in the basement yesterday caused damage estimated at $500 to the one story home of Edward J. Wenshutonis, 2261 N. Monitor av.

OSMENA BIDS PEOPLE OF PHILIPPINES TO AID M'ARTHUR'S FORCES

LEYTE, Philippines, Jan. 10 (AP).—President Sergio Osmena of the Philippines today issued this proclamation:

"My beloved people: American forces of liberation under the brilliant leadership of Gen. MacArthur have destroyed the enemy army defending Leyte, established control over Mindoro and now stand firmly on the soil of Luzon within striking distance of our capital city. This is the answer to our prayers of many long months. The decisive hour of the battle of the Philippines has arrived.

"Gen. MacArthur has called upon us to rally behind him and I know every patriot, guerrilla and civilian will heed the call so the enemy may feel the strength of our outraged people. Rally to his forces with your utmost so his burden of battle may be lightened. Rise to noble heights as a liberty loving people. Acquit yourself with courage and honor worthy of the sacred memory of our departed heroes.

"God defend our cause! God strengthen our arms! God speed the day of our deliverance."

15 Killed, 50 Injured in North Ireland Train Crash

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Jan. 10 (AP).—Fifteen persons were killed and at least 50 injured today in the collision of an electric train carrying war workers and a work train just outside Ballymacairett junction.

U. S. WAR WRITER KILLED BY AIR ACTION AT LUZON

William H. Chickering.

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—William Henry Chickering, 28, war correspondent for Time and Life magazines, was killed by enemy air action in Lingayen gulf Jan. 6, according to word received here today from Gen. MacArthur.

MacArthur said that "the service of this correspondent has been superb and the whole theater will deeply regret his loss."

Chickering had covered the entire Leyte campaign in the Philippines and was accompanying MacArthur's Luzon invasion forces when he was killed. He was a veteran of the New Guinea campaign, the air action in the Gilbert Islands, and the invasion of Bougainville.

He was a native of Oakland, Cal., and a resident of nearby Piedmont.

Japs Repelled in Hunan; Strike Near China Coast

CHUNGKING, China, Jan. 10 (AP)—A clash with Japanese forces near Paoching, an enemy stronghold 65 miles northwest of Hengyang in Hunan province, in which the Japanese were driven back, was announced today by the Chinese high command. Information Minister Wang Shih-chieh said Japanese forces were applying pressure near the China coast, "obviously in anticipation of attacks by the allies."

SUPREME HDQ. BEATEN ON OWN NEWS, RUE SAYS

Discloses Leakages and Suggests Remedy.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Jan. 10.—What's wrong with supreme headquarters as far as its release of news is concerned? The answer seems to be a little of everything.

It has frequently been scooped on its own news. Witness the latest glaring instance of publication by an American magazine of SHAEF's secret that Field Marshal Montgomery had been appointed to a larger command, including two American armies.

And, before that, the British disclosure that the United States 1st army had opened a large scale offensive on the northern flank in the Belgian bulge. All correspondents in supreme headquarters had known of the offensive but had been required to withhold the news on grounds of security. Then they heard the British Broadcasting corporation radio blasting it over the air almost 24 hours before the time set for the release by supreme headquarters.

Make Way for Fashions.

When everything is said and done, it is apparent that what is wrong with supreme headquarters is that it is extremely weak on its main function—supplying news and timing releases.

Noel Monk, Daily Mail correspondent in this week's World Press News, weekly British newspaper and advertising organ, describes Hotel Scribe in Paris as a "madhouse" but directs his venom to the fact that supreme headquarters has given newspaper facilities to women fashion writers rather than concentrating on the war itself.

George Lyon, representative here of Elmer Davis, chief of the American office of war information and now back home on temporary leave, at a briefing of correspondents described the refusal of supreme headquarters to release factual news already broadcast by the BBC and published elsewhere as "stupid."

Particularly bitter was the protest Jan. 4 after BBC in London had aired the news at 1 p. m. reporting the 1st army's attack against the German salient in Belgium. Yet, that night the briefing officer said that altho this would be in the bulletin published the following morning it could not be released as from supreme headquarters before then.

Stars and Stripes, the army newspaper, mentioned how a correspondent had protested that BBC frequently in the last 18 months had been able to beat newspaper correspondents on official announcements.

Worst of War.

Drew Middleton of the New York Times said recent supreme headquarters briefings of correspondents were the "worst I have listened to in six years of war."

The Montgomery announcement by Time magazine—which now has been vindicated because the war department itself passed the story—embarrassed rival agencies of the United Press. That agency picked up the story and used it as if officially released from supreme headquarters. New York offices of other news agencies cabled for confirmation or denial of what every one knew was a fact, but their representatives here were unable to reply.

What's the reason for such leakages? It has often happened that news has been released by a field censor on which supreme headquarters itself has a "stop." [Stop is a censor's designation of a fact being unpublishable.]

The answer to the problem seems simple when one inquires into how the news comes from the front. One discovers that the American briefing officer and his British alternate must get all the news themselves on the telephone from every army group.

They try to get the latest news and their failure to cover 400 miles of battle front isn't due to any lack of ability on the part of either. Clearly there is no living person under the best circumstances who could make all the necessary inquiries as to the progress and results of individual battles any more than one man could edit an entire newspaper without assistance.

Little Time to Get Facts.

The lone briefing officer, who must obtain the over-all picture of the fighting involving four American and three allied armies—British, French, and Canadian—has little time to acquaint himself with what has and what hasn't been released at briefings at army and group headquarters or what is being published.

Two days ago the briefing officer was unable to confirm the fact that civilians were evacuating from Strasbourg and the Alsace plain, altho the news was published in the French press two days before and correspondents with the 7th army had written the story at that time.

This then is what's wrong with supreme headquarters as a news source. What's being done about it? Correspondents have made formal proposals for remedy. They have submitted three requests, which it is expected will receive favorable consideration. The requests are that:

Supreme headquarters appoint an authoritative spokesman who can take upon himself the responsibility for releasing news when he considers it necessary.

Correspondents receive fuller and later news reports from all army groups.

Officers from army groups come to supreme headquarters to give briefings.

Bradley Story Not News in Paris

Press Silent

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Jan. 10.—The important and revealing statement issued yesterday by Gen. Bradley, commander of the 12th army group, regarding the German break-thru in Belgium, was not mentioned today in newspapers published here in English. Only one French newspaper, Le Monde, which is modeled after the pre-war Le Temps, which specialized in the publication of important statements, so much as mentioned Bradley's statement.

Altho the full text was released at supreme headquarters, Stars and Stripes, official United States army newspaper, ignored the statement, and the Paris edition of the New York Herald-Tribune, which thought Montgomery's recent statement, in which he took much credit for running the great battle, worth nearly two columns of space, also missed Bradley's answer as to what already had been done before Montgomery assumed overall command four days later.

"Slur on Monty"

LONDON, Jan. 11 [Thursday] (AP).—The London Daily Mail said today that American Lt. Gen. Bradley's press conference on the western front Tuesday was "a slur on Monty" because Bradley said that British Field Marshal Montgomery's command of the American 1st and 9th armies was temporary.

The Mail said Bradley's statement "bears only one interpretation. It is that Field Marshal Montgomery is good enough to be given the position of responsibility in an emergency, but when the danger is over and the ravages of the enemy are made good his services are no longer required except in a comparatively subordinate capacity.

"It can be said at once that the British people would view with dismay the relegation of this great soldier to the somewhat meager share of the front which he held before Von Rundstedt's breakthru."

BBC SAYS NAZIS FAKED PROGRAM BELITTING G. I.S

Charge Foe Aims to Split Allies.

The following is an extract from the British Broadcasting corporation's news from London yesterday as transcribed in BBC North American studios:

"German propaganda methods aimed at causing dissension between the allies have been strikingly illustrated by a recent incident. Yesterday [Tuesday] some papers commented in very unfavorable terms on an alleged BBC broadcast which gave all the credit for stopping Rundstedt's push to Field Marshal Montgomery. The broadcast described how Montgomery was supposed to have found no defense lines, the Americans somewhat bewildered, few reserves on hand and the supply lines cut. Not unnaturally the American newspapers resented this so-called BBC broadcast and one carried this headline—'Monty Gets Glory — Yanks Get Brushoff.'

'Not a BBC Broadcast.'

"The facts are that the broadcast did not come from the BBC at all, but from Germany. It was read in an English voice and dropped into one of the BBC's English services. This is part of the Germans' ingenuous technique for spreading doubts and confusion. Most war correspondents and soldiers fighting on the western front are familiar with this technique and with the voice of "Mary of Arnhem," one of the English speaking announcers of radio Arnhem, a German station. But on occasion some of these broadcasts are taken at their face value as it appears to have been in this case.

"The most significant feature of this 'fake' broadcast is the subtle form of the propaganda which is clearly designed to embitter relations between American and British troops fighting side by side on the western front."

Nazis in New Fake.

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP).—A German station, again posing as the BBC, broadcast tonight a program saying that Churchill was doing the right thing in Greece, that "Britain is worried with astonishment at American foreign policy," and that "a joint strategic policy is needed if Greek respect for the allied cause is to be preserved."

The German broadcast, smoothly dovetailed with a widely popular BBC broadcast to the armed forces, complained bitterly of "American isolationism."

PHILIPPINES MAY SUPPLY U. S. WITH SCARCE ITEMS

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—Liberation of the Philippines will reopen to the United States the source of many commodities now on the scarcity lists. Chief among them are Manila hemp, from which high grade rope is made, sugar, and coconut oil for both industrial and food uses.

The Philippines may even help a little in the smoking shortage, as Gen. MacArthur's men chase the Japs out and industries are restored. In 1940, the islands shipped some 80,000,000 pounds of leaf tobacco. This equaled, however, a little less than 5 per cent of the United States total. The islands also have been in the past prolific suppliers of rice, gold, copper, silver, and other metals, mahogany, palm products, and fish and shell.

It will take a lot of work, however, to get all those industries back into operation.

King Peter Gives Decision on Slav Regency Today

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP).—A high Yugoslav official said tonight that King Peter, after talking with Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden during the day, would issue a statement tomorrow on the question of a regency in his country. Most Yugoslav quarters here said they believed the king would accept the proposal to establish a regency.

ST. NAZAIRE WINS 12 DAY TRUCE TO SAVE CIVILIANS

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Jan. 10.—Announcement at supreme allied headquarters of a 12 day truce between the Germans holding the St. Nazaire pocket and allied forces surrounding them so another evacuation of civilians can be made has called attention to what has become known as "the forgotten war."

The evacuation, it is understood, is being made at the request of the Germans, because of a food shortage. Some time ago, a truce was called for three days to evacuate 5,000 civilians from St. Nazaire. Actually, 11,000 came out of the beleaguered city, putting a severe strain on French reception arrangements at Nantes.

The truce this time begins Jan. 16, and it is expected civilians will pour thru German and allied lines daily until the 28th.

Constant Small Actions.

The military situation around the enemy's three sizable pockets on the Atlantic coast can be described as static, altho this does not mean there is no action going on. There are constant bickerings between outposts, and continuous artillery fire from both sides. Men and women are killed daily, especially in the Lorient sector, which is the most active.

The three pockets are Lorient, where, it is estimated, the enemy has 25,000 troops; St. Nazaire, 35,000, and approximately 40,000 in the Bordeaux area, which is split into the La Rochelle pocket and two strips of enemy held land on both sides of the Gironde estuary.

The German troops are under the command of a German artillery general by the name of Farmbracher, who originally commanded at Brest, but got away with most of his staff before that fort was captured.

His troops consist of remnants of various organizations who were caught in the Normandy trap, supplemented by the usual garrisons of these areas, U-boat crews, navy men, seamen who were working in the navy yards, customs guards, and the like. They have been organized into well trained units and good fighting men.

No Lack of Ammunition.

They have shown no lack of ammunition, and, because these areas were important submarine bases, they were heavily equipped with anti-aircraft artillery. In Lorient alone, the enemy has 500 pieces of artillery, including 340 millimeter railroad guns which were used for coastal defenses. On Ile Groix they have artillery with a range of 30,000 yards [17 miles].

Facing the Germans are American and French forces. Among the Americans is the 94th division, under Maj. Gen. Harry J. Maloney. French troops consist of regular and F. F. I. [French Forces of the Interior] who are being incorporated into the regular French army.

We have little important air support, and the intensity of flak [anti-aircraft fire] makes flying over these pockets extremely dangerous. The enemy has communications by sea, fishing smacks, sailboats, and motor boats communicating between the various pockets, while submarines frequently are seen entering them. Whether they are carrying supplies or not is not known.

FRENCH PRESS HITS SUSPENSION OF NEWSPAPER

BY ROBERT SAGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 10.—A serious blow to liberty of the French press is the interpretation most Paris newspapers today put on War Minister Andre Diethelm's orders suspending the publication of the evening paper, France Soir, for one month because of alleged violations of censorship regulations. [An Associated Press dispatch said France Soir was reported to have printed "false and alarming" news on the German counter-offensive.]

Declaring the ministerial action unjust and arbitrary, the National Press federation protested the ban as a potentional threat to all French newspapers, especially since the muzzled sheet enjoys the reputation of being one of the oldest and most courageous clandestine publications of the resistance.

Under the former name of Defense de la France, it appeared regularly thruout the occupation and the patriots who published it formed a country-wide organization which distributed transcripts of Gen de Gaulle's radio speeches, manufactured false identity papers and food tickets for the Maquis [patriots] and hid allied aviators.

BRITISH IGNORE U.S. PLAN TO TRY WAR CRIMINALS

Chairman of Commission Quits Over Inaction.

(By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The ignoring by the British foreign office of proposals for the punishment of war criminals made by United States representatives to the allied war crimes commission and unanimously adopted by that body have led to the resignation of its British chairman and produced another Anglo-American disagreement.

The commission twice approached the foreign office, once last May and again in September. It asked in May that Britain join in action to punish along with regular war crimes such excesses as those committed by Germany and Hungary against their own nationals on grounds of race or religion. It asked in September that Foreign Secretary Eden convoke an international conference to set up an allied court to punish major war criminals. No reply has been received to either communication.

Chairman's Notes Unanswered.

Neither did Cecil Hurst, British representative and chairman of the commission, receive any more satisfaction when he sent memoranda of his own to the British foreign office and to Lord Chancelor Simon, in whose hands rather than Eden's the question of war crimes is understood to have been placed. It was as the result of this that Hurst resigned. Ill health mentioned by several British newspapers as the reason was only a contributory cause. Hurst himself made this clear in his letter of resignation to the commission.

Why the British foreign office behaved "as if we [the commission] were representatives of some British colony," as one member expressed it, is not known.

Suggests Tribunal Be Set Up.

In his letter of resignation, Hurst said he had been unable to get any satisfaction either from the foreign office or from Simon and that he was reluctantly forced to the conclusion that nothing was going to happen. He suggested that members of the commission might take the matter up with their own governments and consider whether the interallied tribunal should not be set up even if some governments did not participate. Participating governments, he said, could also arrange to surrender war criminals to this body.

Many members of the war crimes commission favor election of an American chairman to replace Hurst but do not wish to take action which might accentuate Anglo-American differences, especially as they feel British public opinion, when it knows the truth, will be almost unanimous for the punishment of all war criminals. The election of a representative of a British dominion is therefore being discussed.

BRITISH SALUTE TRIBUNE ARTICLE PRAISING MONTY

LONDON, Jan. 10 [Reuters].—The British press, thruout England and Scotland as well as in London, gave prominence to yesterday's editorial of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE praising Field Marshal Montgomery's "manly and honorable interview," in which he paid tribute to American troops and rebuked sections of British opinion that have been sniping at Gen. Eisenhower.

Under headlines such as "American Gratitude to Monty," "U. S. Praise for Monty," "U. S. Accepts Monty," and "Hope Britain Will Take Cue," papers in the four corners of Britain gave a quarter of a column to textual quotations from the article. Particular stress was laid on THE TRIBUNE's expressed hope that the British nation would take its cue from Montgomery and "quiet British baiters of America."

The Evening News, London's most widely read afternoon paper, carried the story on page 1 and the influential Glasgow Evening Times gave it prominence under its western front news lead. The South Wales Evening Post and the Gloucestershire Echo also gave the story prominent space, 'and the Northwestern Evening Mail and the Northern Despatch, circulating in the industrial north of England, seconded THE TRIBUNE's hope that Britain would follow the field marshal's example.

Lt. James J. O'Connor, 26, first member of the Chicago Black Horse troop commissioned after army induction of the troop in November, 1940, was posthumously awarded the silver star with oak leaf cluster last night.

Lt. O'Connor's widow, Jean, accepted the award at a meeting of the Black Horse auxiliary in the troop's armory at 234 E. Chicago av. from Lt. Col. F. E. Swanson, adjutant of district 3, army 6th service command. Lt. O'Connor's mother, Mrs. William J. O'Connor, 4126 Wilcox st., also was present.

The silver star was given for gallantry in Sicily on July 22, 1943, when Lt. O'Connor led his platoon in destroying gun emplacements. The cluster was for leading a platoon in routing a German infantry company, supported by two Mark IV. tanks and at the same time saving the life of an enlisted man who had been taken prisoner last July near Paris, France.

ACE BONG LONGS TO GET TO HIS WISCONSIN HOME

Maj. Richard I. Bong, America's leading ace with a bag of 40 Japanese planes to his credit, winner of more than a score of decorations and most publicized flyer of this war, was in Chicago yesterday virtually without plans—except to get home to Poplar, Wis., as soon as possible. He is scheduled for a radio appearance Saturday, he said, and after that he will leave at once for home.

Home on furlough for reassignment, Maj. Bong believes he is thru with combat flying and will be stationed on the west coast.

He is on his way home for his marriage to Miss Marjorie Vattendahl, a senior in State Teachers college at Superior, Wis., where he also was a student for two years before entering the air force. The wedding is set for Feb. 10.

In Poplar, Bud Bong, 18, the major's brother, prepared a buck deer he shot so the flyer may eat venison when he arrives home.

CHICAGO PILOT WINS TOP MEDAL FOR SAVING PAL

First Lt. Edward S. Michael, a Flying Fortress pilot from Chicago, was awarded the congressional medal of honor, the nation's highest military decoration, yesterday by President Roosevelt in the White House for flying back to its base a shell riddled plane to save the life of the bombardier, who was unable to bail out because his parachute was damaged.

Lt. Michael's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Michael, 6616 Schreiber av., and his wife, Bertie Lee, attended the ceremony.

Sticks with Bombardier and Ship.

Lt. Michael was on a mission over Germany April 11 when German fighter planes riddled his bomber. One cannon shell exploded in the cockpit, wounded the co-pilot, and ripped open Michael's thigh. Fire started in the bomb bay among the incendiaries. When the flames spread, Michael ordered the crew to bail out. Seven jumped, but the bombardier, his parachute riddled by shell fragments, couldn't.

If Michael and the co-pilot bailed out, the bombardier would crash with the plane. Michael decided to fly the plane home. Here's how the war department described the final phase of the flight:

"Lt. Michael flew the plane until, exhausted from the loss of blood, he lost consciousness. The co-pilot succeeded in reaching England. Lt. Michael finally regained consciousness and insisted upon taking the controls to land the plane. The undercarriage was useless; the bomb bay doors were jammed open; the altimeter and air speed indicator were shot out, and the flaps would not respond. Despite these apparently insurmountable obstacles, he landed the plane without mishap."

Schurz High School Graduate.

Previously Lt. Michael was decorated with the distinguished flying cross, the air medal with three oak leaf clusters, the Purple Heart, and a Presidential group citation for destroying a strategic target near Berlin.

Lt. Michael was graduated from Schurz High school and enlisted in the army in November, 1940. He was an aviation mechanic at Wheeler field, Hawaii, when the Japs attacked on Dec. 7, 1941. He then was returned to the United States for fighter pilot training and was commissioned in April, 1943.

Others who received the medal of honor yesterday at the White House ceremony are 1st Lt. Beryl R. Newman, Fargo, N. D., infantry; 1st Lt. Jack C. Montgomery, Sallisaw, Okla., infantry; Pvt. Leo J. Powers, Alder, Mont., infantry; Pvt. Lloyd C. Hawks, Park Rapids, Minn., medical aid man; Comdr. David McCampbell, Los Angeles, Cal., naval air group commander, and Comdr. L. P. Ramage, Lowville, N. Y., a submarine skipper.

Thaw Couplings

Firemen fighting a $125,000 garage fire early yesterday had to use a torch to thaw hose coupling in the zero weather.

A leaky oil stove feed line was blamed for a blaze that swept thru a large portion of the Ainslie garage at 3205 Ainslie st. early yesterday, caused damage to the building estimated at $125,000, and also damaged about 50 automobiles.

Near zero temperatures hampered firemen responding to a 5-11 alarm and a blow torch was used to thaw out frozen hose connections. When Fire Atty. Earle Downes reached the scene, the roof had been destroyed and snow was falling.

Richard Bailey, 49, of 4330 Michigan av., and Lee Phillips, 39, of 4500 Calumet av., Negro garage employes, tried to wipe up oil from the leak with a rag that was ignited by the hot stove, Downes said. When they tried to throw out a pan filled with oil from the leak, the fluid was scattered and set afire. They were not held. M. F. Eichman of 4503 N. Western av. operates the garage.

REDS WIN 1,000 MORE BLOCKS IN BUDAPEST FIGHT

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP).—The Red army has wrested three-fourths of Budapest from its encircled Nazi garrison, cleared the enemy from practically all the flaming capital's eastern suburbs and repulsed all efforts of German relief columns to break thru from the northwest, Moscow announced tonight.

At the same time, the broadcast soviet war bulletin stated, Russian forces pushing westward north of the Danube advanced to within a mile and a quarter of strategic Komarom, communications center on the river 40 miles northwest of Budapest.

A huge bite of Budapest was taken from the German-Hungarian defenders, the Russians said, with the capture of 1,000 blocks. The Russians control 3,300 of the city's estimated 4,500 blocks.

Smash Nazi Attacks.

Fresh motorized corps were thrown against the relief expedition which has been battering against Russian lines west and northwest of Budapest for eight days and smashed all the German armored and infantry attacks.

Inside the capital the Russians also took more than 3,000 German and Hungarian prisoners.

The suburbs reported captured ring the industrial eastern half of the city, Pest, and the bulletin said that the factory district of Csepel, on an island in the Danube on the southern side of the capital, where large munitions works are located, also had been taken.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

The broadcast German war bulletin yesterday said:

"In Hungary north of Stuhlweissenburg German formations repulsed a counter-attack of one soviet motorized corps and in the course of a tank battle knocked out 73 of 120 attacking tanks. Ground gained on the previous day remained firmly in our hands.

"Further enemy counter-attacks were frustrated in the northeastern fringes of the Vertes mountains. Our own attacks were successful in the western spurs of these mountains and south of the Danube.

"In Budapest grim fighting continues, especially on both sides of the eastern railway station. Soviet attempts to widen their penetration north of the Danube were foiled. The enemy lost 22 tanks in this fighting.

"No fighting of importance was reported from the remaining eastern front."

MOSCOW BROADCAST ASKS BIG 3 TALKS TO CEMENT UNITY

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Raising a soviet voice for the first time in an apparent call for a new "big three" parley, the Moscow radio declared tonight that the time had come for a "further consolidation" of unity among the United States, Great Britain, and the soviet union.

Hitler's only hope now, the soviet announcement warned, was to split the anti-German alliance.

Speaking in the English language, the Moscow commentator assailed attempts to exaggerate differences of opinion among the allies and asserted that German propaganda "may deceive this or that allied journalist, but it cannot change the basic alignment of forces."

FRANCE SPLIT OVER PURGE OF COLLABORATORS

80,000 Arrested After Nazis Fled Country.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 10.—The problem of dealing with offenses and crimes in connection with collaboration has proved long and difficult, and has aroused much partisan strife and bitterness. There has been public disagreement about the justice of some verdicts and death sentences.

According to information now available, some 80,000 persons were arrested by police and liberation committees after the Germans were expelled from France. Several thousand of these subsequently were liberated.

But according to figures available today from official sources, 18,700 cases are on court dockets for prosecution and trial, and 50,000 more cases are in the process of investigation by examining magistrates.

2,200 Verdicts Rendered.

Courts of justice, established by a decree of the De Gaulle government when it was still in Algiers last June, have rendered 2,200 verdicts.

Death sentences have been passed in 300 cases, while 520 defendants have been sentenced to hard labor for life. Two hundred cases have been dismissed.

Since September, 26 courts of justice have been set up, with a section now operating in each of 90 departments of France. These courts employ 623 of the 2,200 magistrates of the French bench.

In the Paris region indictments are complete against 5,500 persons. In prison at St. Denis are 1,500 to 2,000 persons whose cases have not been completely investigated.

Speed Is Ordered.

Minister of Justice De Menthon said today he had given instructions that justice must be speeded up and all of the collaborators' trials terminated by next June.

In addition to the purge trials of collaborators, a high court of justice on which will sit five magistrates will shortly begin the trial of Marshal Petain and all who served under him as ministers in the Vichy government. Twenty-three are under arrest. The others, including Petain and Pierre Laval, will be tried in absentia.

The trials which have been held for the last four months have pictured in varying degrees what went on under the occupation.

In the first category of those tried come the denouncers, who ranged from just plain spies to those who turned in names of those hostile to the Germans for a money payment. One man was shown to have gotten 3,000 francs [$60] a head for denunciations.

Flyers' Captors Accused.

Still other cases involved police who denounced members of the Maquis, and peasants who turned in parachutists and aviators who fell in their vicinity. Some denunciations also were made to pay off personal grudges and others were due to jealousy, including such instances as women denouncing their rivals and married women their husbands' mistresses.

Family hate has figured as a motive. One case involved a young woman who denounced her father.

Political passions inspired others to work with the Germans. In this group were included members of Jacques Doriot's party and members of the Volunteer Legion to Fight Bolshevism.

While some trials involved obvious crimes of great baseness, others were of purely political nature and were based on charges of intelligence with the enemy which, according to some opinion expressed in the press, were not well sustained.

Notables Are Involved.

These political cases included many notables, such as mayors of towns, doctors, and one priest.

Journalists and writers also have figures heavily in the trials, both in Paris and the provinces, as have radio announcers and cinema operators.

While on one side there has been the complaint, especially from the Communists, that the trials were not pushed with enough energy and some sentences were too light, a section of conservative opinion has been warning of the danger of creating and prolonging social strife in the country. In general, courts in the provinces have been more severe than in Paris.

Mine Sinks Nazi Ship, 350 Drown, Danes Say

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 10 (AP).—The Free Danish press service reported today that 350 German soldiers were drowned Friday when their transport struck a mine and sank four miles off Kalundborg, Denmark. Only 20 were saved, the report said, adding that panic aboard ship resulted in exchanges of gunfire between officers and men.

1,000 CLUB LISTS ICKES AS $3,865 EXPENSE ITEM

Meals, Taxis, Hotels Are Paid For.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 [Special].—Formation of the 1,000 club, which was suggested by President Roosevelt and of which he was a member, brought $252,055 into the coffers of the Democratic party for the campaign last fall, according to the itemized report of receipts and expenditures filed today with the clerk of the house. Practically all of the income was derived from individual memberships at $1,000 each.

Expenditures reported by the organization include three payments totaling $3,865.87 to Interior Secretary Ickes, as reimbursement for traveling expenses. On Nov. 7, it appears, Ickes turned in a chit for $1,769 for himself and staff for railway fares, hotels, meals, and taxis on a jaunt starting Oct. 26 from New York to Washington, to Baltimore, to Milwaukee, and back to Washington. He was similarly repaid $1,300 on Nov. 6 and $796.87 on Oct. 4 for earlier trips.

$66,979 for Radio Time.

For the election eve broadcast of Nov. 6 the 1,000 club footed the bills. The statement shows payments of $15,000 each to the Blue network, the Columbia Broadcasting system, Mutual Broadcasting system, and the National Broadcasting company. The latter received $6,979 additional for a portion of the time charges.

The club likewise defrayed expenses of the President's broadcast of Oct. 28 for which NBC got $26,124 and the Blue network $15,000.

Approximately $2,000 was paid out also for travel and hotel expenses incurred by Rep. Kefauver [D., Tenn.], executive director of the club; Robert L. Sikes of Florida and Edward Hebert of Louisiana.

$3,500 Spent on Moses.

Campaign contributions included $3,500 spent in behalf of Sen. Moses [D., N. D.].

FLYER REPORTED MISSING ONCE IS COMING HOME

Lt. John F. Murray.

First Lt. John F. Murray, 24, of 9630 Longwood dr., an army air force bombardier who was reported missing after he jumped from a disabled B-24 Liberator over Yugoslavia last November, will return home soon on leave, his father, Thomas J. Murray, business representative of the Electrical Workers' union, local 134, said yesterday.

He was on his 48th bombing mission over enemy territory when his plane, the Dirty Gerty, was damaged seriously over Germany. The engine failed over Yugoslavia, and the crew bailed out. Partisans helped the crew return to their base in Italy, and Lt. Murray made two more missions.

Lt. Murray has received the distinguished flying cross, the air medal with four oak leaf clusters, and two Presidential citations. He was graduated from Mount Carmel High school and St. Mary's Christian Brothers college at Winona, Minn. Two brothers, Thomas Jr. and Robert, are in the navy, and a third, Sgt. James, is in the army air force.

10 HELD TO TRIAL IN LEGISLATIVE BRIBERY PLOT

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 10 [Special].—One state senator, three former house members, and six naturopathic practitioners were bound over for trial today by Judge Leland W. Carr of Ingham county Circuit court following their preliminary examination on a grand jury charge that they conspired to influence the 1939 legislature by bribery in consideration of a bill to license naturopaths.

Judge Carr, who in his role of one-man grand jury, returned the indictment of the 10 defendants, indicated the trial would be held during the current court term at Mason.

Defense attorneys, after completion of the examination testimony today, moved for dismissal of the conspiracy charge, but Judge Carr denied the motion, declaring the "proofs offered at the preliminary examination appear to fairly establish the fact there was such a conspiracy" as charged in the warrant.

PLEDGES ACTION AGAINST GREEK COLLABORATORS

ATHENS, Greece, Jan. 10 (AP).—In an attempt to heal the breach between warring Greek factions, Premier Nicholas Plastiras today pledged drastic action against collaborators, a reorganization of the nation's army and a general election at "the earliest possible moment" to name a new assembly and decide the question of a permanent government.

"All those who collaborated with the enemy will have to answer for their deeds," the premier said.

The premier's statement was issued as representatives of the ELAS militia discussed new armistice terms with Lt. Gen. Scobie, British commander in Greece.

Battle in Mountains.

Some fighting between British troops and ELAS forces continued. The British said that 20 miles north of Thebes a British armored column ran into stiff resistance at Khalkis, where the guerrillas, retreating into the mountains, laid down heavy mortar fire.

Other columns moved westward to within five miles of Corinth and armored units pushed north to within 10 miles of Lamia, the reputed guerrilla capital.

Plastiras, in appealing to the Greeks to stop their fighting, said he could give categorical assurance on behalf of his government that there would be no general proscription of ELAS forces who had borne arms.

The premier said his government had "no objections to allied observers attending the election to make sure that the will of the people is genuinely expressed."

In addition to a reorganization of the Greek army, which he said must be formed by regular recruitment of age groups and on a national basis, Plastiras said the gendarmerie and police would be rebuilt, and "we have asked our British allies to appoint and send a special police mission for this purpose."

Charge Prisoners Mistreated.

The original British armistice terms calling for the evacuation by the ELAS of the Attica peinsula and the surrender of arms inside Athens were withdrawn Sunday and any new terms are expected to involve the question of hostages and the disbandment of the ELAS thruout Greece. The British have charged the ELAS with mistreatment of prisoners and hostages.

Plastiras announced a three-man judicial committee would be sent to investigate cases of ELAS prisoners evacuated to camps in Egypt.

An order issued by the Greek military governor of Athens announced that all public meetings were banned and prohibited the publication of leaflets, the painting of signs or slogans and the spreading of news "liable to cause uneasiness."

COLD LIMITS WAR ON ITALIAN FRONT TO PATROL ACTION

ROME, Jan. 10 (AP).—Continued bitter winter weather restricted activity along the entire Italian front today. Action yesterday was limited to patroling on both sides, the allied command announced. Patrols were active on both sides south of Bologna. Farther west strong enemy patrols were repulsed north of Volpara, and some American troops scouting near Calomoni, west of the Serchio river a few miles inland from the Tyrrhenian sea, suffered heavy fire before taking cover and directing artillery fire on enemy positions.

Medium bombers and fighter bombers of the tactical air force struck at rail and road bridges in the Po valley, and light bombers attacked troops and installations before both the 5th and 8th army fronts.

YEARS TAKE TOLL, AS CARS BATTLE 4TH WAR-WINTER!

Mom and Pop and the Car...

"That reminds me, George... we must have the Standard Oil Man test our anti-freeze!"

COPYRIGHT 1945, STANDARD OIL COMPANY

More than ever before, your older car needs "coddling." Your Standard Oil Dealer has a special better car care program to help you.

Many a car owner finds himself bedeviled with car troubles this winter . . . because ordinary care isn't enough for older cars in this 4th War-Winter. Rationed driving, with its short trips and necessary slow speeds, drains battery life and power. It also builds up sticky sludge—which tends to clog oil lines and screens, and may lead to burned-out bearings, to stuck rings and scored cylinders. The older the car, the greater the danger.

"Nurse" and "coddle" your car for the balance of the winter. It will pay you handsome dividends in smoother, more economical operation and longer car life. See your Standard Oil Dealer frequently and get these life-giving services as required:

G.O.P. TIDE RISES AGAINST MARTIN 'SIT TIGHT' IDEA

'Dewey-Willkie' Type of Leadership Opposed.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—Dissatisfaction over the "Dewey-Willkie type of leadership," it was learned today, has aroused a large group of house Republicans to a protest against the "sit tight" policy of Minority Leader Martin of Massachusetts and the tight little clique of veterans who monopolize important committee memberships in congress.

As many as three-fifths of the 190 Republicans in the house, it was estimated, feel that loss of seven congressional elections and four Presidential elections indicates the need for a strong, aggressive program instead of the "me too" attitude exemplified by the last two Republican candidates for President.

Both old and new members among this group have voiced their feelings at sizzling closed door conferences of Republicans who are now engaged in organizing the minority representation on house committees. They have told the old guard leaders that a continuation of former "inactivity" will never bring the party back into power and may weaken it beyond repair.

Martin Asks Unity.

Martin responded with his customary plea for "party unity" at a recent conference. To which one member replied: "Either the New Deal is safe, sound, and advantageous or the Republican opposition has been weak or misdirected!"

The majority of Republicans, many of them conceded to have qualities of leadership, are relegated by the leadership to minor comittees, it was noted at the meetings, while a few old timers hold memberships on several leading committees.

Specific criticism was directed at Rep. Michener of Michigan, one of the minority leaders who serves on the rules committee, one of the most important in the house; on the judiciary committee which passes on highly important legislation; on the Republican steering commitee; and who has been promised a place on the committee to streamline congress.

Cite Democrats' System.

Rep. Brown of Ohio is another who holds memberships on the rules committee, the interstate and freight commerce committee, and on special committees which conducted tours thruout the country. There were a number of similar examples.

Membership on one major committee is enough for one congressman, the complainants declared, noting that the Democrats thus limit their members. A similar rule for Republicans, they said, would permit many additional Republicans, representing a newer spirit in minority party, to have a voice in the party's program.

Rep. Hoffman of Michigan, sent a letter to all Republicans recently which summed up the criticism.

Sixty Per Cent Unused.

"A strong, fighting organization can never be established," he wrote, "if the talents of perhaps three-fifth of the members go unused. Members come to congress full of enthusiasm, with the desire to be aggressive and of service. He finds all the places on active committees filled by old timers.

"Individual members are for unified, loyal party organization but they want to be active participants in such an organization, not just a flock of sheep permitted to jump over the fence when the leaders whistle. The continuation of a program which denies them adequate representation, opportunity, and responsibility will merely result in further party defeats, continued lack of effectiveness."

Martin, according to his critics, works too closely with Speaker Rayburn of Texas and Majority Leader McCormack of Massachusetts. He recently agreed to a change of minority representation on committees which permits the Democrats a 2 to 1 membership on at least one important commjttee altho the Republicans control 44 per cent of the house.

SEEK TO LINK MUNDO DEATH TO 2 OTHER CRIMES

Coroner Brodie's office and crime commission investigators yesterday were seeking a connection between the murder of Joseph Mundo on Dec. 28, the unreported robbery of a 24th ward gambling resort a few days earlier, and the explosion yesterday of three sticks of dynamite in Culture center at 3225 Roosevelt road.

On and off, there have been reports of a "big crap game" in the rooms rented as Culture center by Samuel Levine, 1647 S. Lawndale av., from Harry Berkson, 6829 Lakewood av., owner of the building. Neighbors said many persons left hurriedly after the explosion, and that several may have been hurt.

State's Atty. Tuohy said he told Capt. Thomas Alcock of the Fillmore st. police yesterday that he will assist in the bombing investigation, if Alcock wants help. Interest of federal authorities in Chicago's gambling affairs yesterday centered only on unpaid income taxes of Victor Lazarus, 42, of 612 Patterson av., who took bets amounting to $187,000 in 1936 and $558,000 in 1937 at the Jackson club, 328 W. Van Buren st.

Hugh B. Mitchell Named to Senate by Wallgren

Olympia, Wash., Jan. 10 (AP).—Democratic Gov. Mon C. Wallgren's first official act after being sworn in today as Washington's 13th governor was to appoint Hugh B. Mitchell will leave for Washington tomorrow. His term expires in 1946.

SENT TO BRIDEWELL ON CHECK CHARGE.

THIRD 'CHICAGO,' HEAVY CRUISER, PUT IN SERVICE

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 10 (AP).—The heavy cruiser Chicago, third to bear the name of the Illinois city, was commissioned today at the Philadelphia navy yard. The second Chicago was sunk Jan. 30, 1943, off Guadalcanal.

Capt. Richard Renwick Hartung, a native of Des Moines, Ia., assumed command of the ship. Thirteen crewmen of the ship's predecessor have been assigned to the new vessel at their own request.

The new Chicago was christened Aug. 20 by Mrs. Edward Kelly, wife of the mayor of Chicago, at the Philadelphia navy yard, in the largest christening ceremony in naval history. Mayor and Mrs. Kelly were among the 600 guests at the commissioning.

Rear Adm. Milo F. Draemel, commandant of the navy yard, said "the day will come when this Chicago will have the opportunity to take the measure of the enemy."

"When that day comes," he told the crew, "every officer and man of the former Chicago will be calling to you for vengeance for their Chicago and for their shipmates who are no more."

REPORT ARREST OF COMPOSER FRANZ LEHAR

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Austrian border reports today said Franz Lehar, 74, composer of "The Merry Widow," "Count of Luxembourg," and other light operas, had been placed under house arrest in Vienna.

If the report of his house arrest is true it may indicate he has openly criticized the regime or is feared as a man of Hungarian antecedents who might be useful to Hungarian elements seeking peace.

ALLIED UNITY PLAN OFFERED BY VANDENBERG

Policy Aimed at Ending the War Quickly.

eign policy in anxious humility and without partisanship.

With two major wars yet to win, the most important consideration is to maintain the military unity of the allies, said Vandenberg, while "an even more difficult unity is indispensable" to achievement of a peace that will "justify this appalling cost."

Quoting the President on the inevitability of "differences among the victors," Vandenberg said that when such differences before victory "threaten both the victory and the peace" we shall not reverse this trend "merely by a generalized restatement of the high aspirations revoiced in the recent Presidential message."

Honest Candor Suggested.

Deploring the recent allied bickering as "water on the axis wheel" Vandenberg said what is needed is the exercise by the American government of "honest candor" with its allies and its own people.

"I hesitate, even now, to say things," the senator went on, "because a great American illusion seems to have been built up—wittingly or otherwise—that we, in the United States, dare not publicly discuss these subjects lest we contribute to international dissension and thus encourage the very thing we all need to cure. But I frankly confess that I do not know why we must be the only "silent partner" in this grand alliance.

"There seems to be no fear of disunity, no hesitation in Moscow, when Moscow wants to assert unilateral war and peace aims which collide with ours. There seems to be no fear of disunity, no hesitation in London, when Mr. Churchill proceeds upon his unilateral way to make decisions often repugnant to our ideas and our ideals.

"Perhaps our allies will plead that their actions are not unilateral; that our President, as Bevin [British Labor Minister Ernest Bevin] said, has 'initialed' this or that at one of the famous big three conferences; that our President, as Churchill said, has been kept constantly 'aware of everything that has happened;' in other words, that by our silence we have acquiesced.

"Fight, Die, and Pay."

"But that hypothesis would only make a bad matter worse. It would be the final indictment of our silence—the final obituary for 'open covenants.' We, of course, accept no conception that our contribution to 'unity' must be silence, while others say and do what they please, and that our only role in this global tragedy is to fight and die, and pay, and that 'unity' for us shall only be the 'unity' which Jonah enjoyed when he was swallowed by the whale.

"I hasten to say that any such intolerable conception as this would be angrily repudiated by every American—from the President down to the last citizen among us. It has not been and is not true. Yet it cannot be denied that our government has not spoken out—to our own people or to our allies—in any such specific fashion as have the others.

Silence Multiplies Confusion.

"It cannot be denied, as a result, that too often a grave melancholy settles upon some sectors of our people. It cannot be denied that citizens, in increasing numbers, are crying, "What are we fighting for?" It cannot be denied that our silence—at least our public and official silence—has multiplied confusion at home and abroad. It cannot be denied that this confusion threatens our unity—yes, Mr. President, and already hangs like a cloud over Dumbarton Oaks.

"So I venture to repeat, with all the earnestness at my command, that a new rule of honest candor in Washington—as a substitute for mystifying silence or for classical generalities—honest candor on the high plane of great ideals—is the greatest contribution we can make to the realities of 'unity' at this moment when enlightened civilization is our common stake."

With reference to Churchill's statement that America would make its own pronouncement when the time comes, Vandenberg demanded if the time has not already arrived.

"It seems to me that the first thing we must say, beyond misunderstanding," he continued, "is that we have not altered our original commitments; that we have not lowered our sights; that we have not diluted our dedications; that we are not fighting to pull ancient chestnuts out of alien fires; that the smell of victory is not an anaesthetic which puts our earlier zeals to sleep. We still propose to win this war, come what may. We are fighting to defend America.

Road to Peace Painted.

"We still propose to help create the post-war world on a basis which shall stop aggressors for keeps and, so far as humanly possible, substitute justice for force among free men. We propose to do it primarily for our own sakes. We still propose, also, to substitute justice for force [if we can] in writing the peace which terminates this war when we deal with the victims of axis tyranny. That is the road to permanent peace.

"We still propose that none of the united nations shall 'seek aggrandizement, territorial or otherwise'—tho conceding that all change is not necessarily 'aggrandizement.' We still propose, outside the axis, that 'there shall be no territorial changes which do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the people concerned.'

"Similarly, we still propose to 'respect the right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live.' We still propose to see 'sovereign rights and self-government restored to those who have been forcibly deprived of them,' if it lies within our power."

Claims Contrasted.

These were the pledges of the Atlantic Charter "which had a tragic sinking spell," said Vandenberg, "when its formal authenticity was amazingly depreciated in a White House press conference a fortnight ago."

"I am sure the President did not anticipate the shocking results of his recent almost jocular, and even cynical, dismissal of the Atlantic Charter as a mere collection of fragmentary notes," said Vandenberg.

"It jarred America to its very hearth stones. It seemed to make a mere pretense out of what has been an inspiringly accepted fact. It seemed almost to sanction alien contempts.

Tries to Repair Damage.

"Coming at a particularly critical moment when these pledges seemed to be at least partially paralyzed in Moscow—and when even Mr. Churchill's memory about the charter was proving to be admittedly fickle—the President's statement was utterly devastating in its impact."

Getting down to cases, the senator said "Russia's unilateral plan appears to contemplate the engulfment, directly or indirectly, of a surrounding circle of buffer states, contrary to our conception of what we thought we were fighting for in respect to the rights of small nations and a just peace."

Russia's professed purpose is to guard against another explosion of German tyranny. Rather than surround herself with "unwillingly controled or partitioned states, thus affronting the opinions of mankind," Russia, Vandenberg thought, should prefer the collective security of an international organization guaranteeing against a repetition of axis aggression.

"I propose that we meet this problem conclusively and at once," the senator went on. "There is no reason to wait. America has this same self-interest in permanently and conclusively and effectively disarming Germany and Japan. It is simply unthinkable that America, or any other member of the united nations, would allow this axis calamity to reproduce itself again.

No Doubt of Coöperation.

"Whether we Americans do or do not agree upon all the powers that shall reside in an ultimate international council to call upon us for joint military action in behalf of collective security, surely we can agree that we do not want an instant's hesitation or doubt about our military coöperation in the peremptory use of force, if needed, to keep Germany and Japan demilitarized.

"I respectfully urge that we meet this problem now. From it stem most of today's confusions and doubts and frustrations. I think we should immediately put it behind us by conclusive action. Having done so, most of the reasons given for controversial unilateral and bilateral actions by our allies will have disappeared; and then we shall be able to accurately judge whether we have found and cured the real hazard to our relationships. We shall have closed ranks. We shall have returned infinitely closer to basic unity.

"We are standing by our guns with epic heroism. I know of no reason why we should not stand by our ideals. If they vanish under ultimate pressures, we shall at least have kept the record straight; we shall have kept faith with our soldier-sons, and we then shall clearly be free agents, unhampered by tragic misunderstandings, in determining our own course when Berlin and Tokyo are in allied hands.

"Let me put it this way for myself: I am prepared, by effective international coöperation, to do our full part in charting happier and safer tomorrows. But I am not prepared to permanently guarantee the spoils of an unjust peace. It will not work."

"Can't you write a more optimistic speech about the post-war world? I don't want to make my club members feel badly!"

NOTHING TO DO, BRITON RESIGNS HIS UNRRA POST

Asserts Taxpayer's Money Is Being Wasted.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 10.—H. Vernon Lindsey, London business man, disclosed today that he resigned his $7,720 a year job on the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration because he had nothing to do but watch the taxpayers' money being wasted.

The charge came at the same time as Arthur Salter, former senior deputy director general of UNRRA, warned that the administration may "go stale on its task" because it was planned too early in the war. He urged introduction of a supreme economic council, such as was formed in 1919 to handle relief problems.

UNRRA has long been under fire by the press and parliament here for failing to provide adequate relief supplies to liberated Europe. The latest attack was contained in the Sunday Pictorial recently, which declared: "Free peoples are beginning to find out they can have food from UNRRA only at the expense of having its politics."

Finds Cairo Also Overstaffed.

Lindsey disclosed he joined UNRRA four days after D-day [June 6] at a salary of $5,000 yearly, plus $7.50 daily living allowance. In the UNRRA London office, where he worked 10 days, he said he found a large surplus staff doing practically nothing. From London, Lindsey said he was sent to Cairo, Egypt. There, he added, "I found a staff of 300 to 400, 60 per cent of them Americans, the rest British or drawn from other united nations. Many officials had their wives with them also in jobs drawing pay and living allowances."

Lindsey declared UNRRA in Cairo is "under the dual control of London and Washington, and there seemed no real head to determine policy or to decide on action." He claimed to have met several $5,000 a year men, who had arrived from London only to find their jobs filled by Washington, so they had nothing to do until new jobs were found for them.

Resigned in October.

"To me it seemed to be a mass Cooks' tour at the taxpayers' expense," said Lindsey. "Some men had their pay increased several times in a few months, just to give them a higher status. Because I had nothing to do I resigned at the end of October."

UNRRA's version, explained by an official of that organization tonight, was that Lindsay resigned "because he didn't feel he could accept a subordinate position under officials younger than he." The official denied there was dual control in Cairo, insisting that Washington alone is responsible. He admitted there might be a surplus staff in London occasionally, but said this was due to the fact London is the mobilization center and transport is irregular. He declared Lindsey's big salary was due to the high cost of living in Cairo.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. Richard Keck, 762 Elton av., Bronx, N. Y.]

THE QUESTION.

What services apart from your job have you been asked to perform? [Asked of milkmen.]

WHERE ASKED.

The Bowman dairy, 1834 Columbia av.

THE ANSWERS.

Paul Erickson, 5907 N. Talman av.—I found a man lying in the alley. "I don't know what's come over me lately," he gasped. "I guess I just had another heart attack. Would you help me home?" He was dead drunk, but he remembered where he lived so I delivered him to his doorstep. The guy weighed about 300.

Oscar M. Mempher, 4432 Malden st.—The sidewalk was icy. An elderly man fell and was knocked unconscious. The janitor of the building in which the man lived saw him fall and asked me to help take him to a hospital. I hailed a cab. We both carried him to the car and escorted him to the hospital.

James T. Danielson, 6969 N. Wolcott av.—It was about 8:30 on a Monday morning. A woman had just finished hanging her washing on the line when it collapsed—spreading the wash all over the ground. She asked if I would fix it for her. Realizing her predicament, I was glad to help. It had to be washed over again.

Stanley Zdzinnicki, 825 Chicago av., Evanston.—I've fixed radios, vacuum cleaners, and other electrical appliances on the route. I've helped move heavy pieces of furniture, too. One woman asked me to move a huge mirror from one wall to another. She said she'd help me, but of course she merely supervised the job.

Phil Dressler, 3756 N. Hermitage av.—Lourdes school is one of our customers. I deliver milk there for the children. I'm 6 feet 1 and weigh 230 pounds. The priest got the idea that I'd make an ideal Santa Claus and asked if I'd play the part this year. I got the biggest kick out of seeing the expressions on the children's faces.

Dean Burrell, 5813 Wilson av.—One customer said she was ill and unable to put her folding bed away. Would I please put it up for her? I thought at the time she meant just that one morning. But every day for two years she made the same request and I had the regular job of putting away the folding bed.

AIRLINER CRASH IN CALIFORNIA IS FATAL TO 24

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 10 (AP).—An American Airlines plane crashed and burned early today in a canyon near La Cresenta, five and a half miles from the fog shrouded airport where it tried to land, killing all 24 persons aboard.

The victims were the 21 passengers—three from the navy and 18 from the army—and a crew of three. Army and navy sources will announce the passengers' names after relatives have been notified.

All but two army men were burned beyond recognition.

Wreckage Is Sighted.

The plane, arriving from New York by way of Washington, D. C., Cincinnati, O., Memphis, Tenn., Dallas, Tex., El Paso, Tex., and Phoenix, Ariz., reached Lockheed air terminal in suburban Burbank at 4:08 a. m. Barred by fog from landing, Capt. Joseph Russell McCauley, 34, told the control tower by radio he would attempt to land at an emergency field 30 miles to the northeast at Palmdale.

Several hours later, after the fog had lifted, the wreckage was sighted thru field glasses from the airport control tower.

Searchers had a three hour climb up a steep canyon to the crash scene. Parts of the plane were strewn over a wide area, and only the rudder and one wing were intact. Occupants were in or near the wreckage.

Horses to Pack Bodies.

Searchers said the bodies would have to be brought out on horseback. Army ambulances and Red Cross station wagons went to the nearest road point, a mile and a half from the wreck.

The plane, flight 1, the Sun Country special, left New York City at 6:55 a. m. [E. W. T.] yesterday.

Besides Capt. McCauley, whose home was in Boise, Idaho, the crew members were 1st Officer Robert G. Eltner, 25, North Hollywood, Cal., and Stewardess Lila A. Docken, 22, Burbank, Cal.

Two Michigan Men Die.

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 10 (AP).—Names of the 11 Chatham Field airmen killed yesterday in the crash of a B-24 Liberator bomber in a wooded section eight miles south of the field, were released today.

The dead included 2d Lt. J. W. Milkey, pilot; father, Anthony F. Milkey, 6692 E. Rohns st., Detroit, Mich.; and Corp. Robert S. Morris, engineer; father, Richard B. Morris, 325 S. 5th st., Niles, Mich.

BILL PROPOSES 300 MILLION U. S. AID TO SCHOOLS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 [Special].—A bill providing 300 million dollars yearly in federal grants to states for use in state school systems was introduced today in the house by Rep. Ramspeck [D., Ga.]. It provides an allotment of $10,920,904 for Illinois.

States would not be required to match their allotments to qualify for the funds, according to the measure, which is intended to meet emergencies in school financing and raise substandard salaries of teachers.

Proposed allocations to other Chicagoland states are: Indiana, $7,529,376; Iowa, $6,161,106; Wisconsin, $6,822,720, and Michigan, $10,100,406.

ASSASSINS ASK RIGHT TO TALK IN MOYNE CASE

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 10 (AP).—The two young Palestinian nationalists who pleaded guilty in an Egyptian court today to a charge of premeditated murder in the Nov. 6 assassination of W. E. Guinness [Lord Moyne], British resident minister in the middle east, have appealed to the court for permission to state their reasons for committing the crime. Counsel for Eliahou Hakim and Eliahou Bet Suri, the slayers, will present their case tomorrow.

When asked whether he killed Guinness, Hakim replied, "Yes, I did, and I intended to do so," adding he was "very sorry" the bullets also had killed the diplomat's chauffeur "or any soldier who is fighting the Germans."

[Jews and Arabs in Palestine regard the trial as holding political potentialities for the whole of the middle east. Zionists see in its outcome, if the slayers can state their reasons, a possibility of their exoneration of any suspicion of complicity. Zionist leaders claim the murder was committed by members of a terrorist organization and are anxious to clear the name of their own group.]

PASSENGER CAR REGISTRY DROPS 74,208 IN STATE

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 10 (AP).—There were 74,208 fewer passenger automobiles in Illinois last year, a comparison with 1943 license registrations indicated today.

The secretary of state registered 1,518,629 cars in 1944 and received $14,484,812 in fees, approximately $755,000 below the previous year. Current drivers' licenses numbered 3,000,993, a decrease of 223,993 from the 1939 series.

Truck and chauffeur licenses also decreased, but trailer, motorcycle, and dealer licenses showed slight increases.

RECORD 6 HOUR FLIGHT ACROSS U. S. IS OFFICIAL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—The war department recognized as an official record today the six hour flight of a giant Boeing transport plane from Seattle, Wash., to Washington.

The plane, a kind of pot-bellied B-29, traveled 2,323 miles in 6 hours 3 minutes 50 seconds, the war department said.

Called a C-97, the ship left Seattle yesterday at 2:38 p. m. (Pacific time) and arrived here at 8:41 p. m., with Elliott Merrill, a Boeing test pilot, at the controls. Designed to carry a pay load of 25,000 pounds, the ship had 20,000 pounds aboard.

Previous transcontinental records were those of the Constellation, a big transport, which flew from Burbank, Cal., to Washington, 2,300 miles, in 6 hours 57 minutes 51 seconds; and a Mustang which traveled from Los Angeles to New York in 6 hours and 31 minutes.

Pants (with $136 in 'em!) Drop Out of a Clear Sky

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 10 (AP).—Ed Blancett was driving along minding his business today when a pair of pants dropped out of the sky. Papers in a wallet, containing $136, identified the owner as Maj. R. T. Akins, Deming army air field, New Mexico. Blancett learned the major had just landed at near-by Tinker field. The major, who emerged with pants on, reported his extra trousers had blown out of the plane as he tested his bomb bay doors.

U. S. PLANES BOMB JAPS AT METAL MINES IN BURMA

U. S. 10TH AIR FORCE HDQ., Myitkyina area, Burma, Jan. 9. [Delayed]—(AP).—United States 10th air force medium bombers today struck at the Burmese Bawdin mines which, air force officers said, can produce 60 per cent of the lead and 40 per cent of the zinc needed by the Japanese war machine.

The mines, formerly British-owned, are near Namtu, 24 miles northwest of Lashio and 120 miles northeast of Mandalay. Sheds and buildings now housing Japanese troop and supply concentrations were attacked. The Bawdin mines in 1939 produced $16,000,000 worth of metallic products. Before the Japanese overran the area, six of the 15 mine levels were put out of action.

British Army Gains.

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, Jan. 10 (AP).—The British 14th army is making progress against stiff Japanese resistance northwest of Shwebo, upper Burma stronghold which has already been entered by Indian troops of the 14th, a southeast Asia command bulletin said today. The Shwebo air field and a village seven miles to the west have been captured.

[The Tokyo radio said yesterday [Wednesday] that one large British destroyer, and three 1,000 ton landing craft had been sunk in Akyab harbor Tuesday and that two 8,000 ton transports were damaged.]

10 DAYS IN JAIL FOR STEPFATHER WHO FLED COURT

Harold Anderson, 31, of 1625 Sunnyside av., who fled from Juvenile court on Nov. 29 with his stepdaughter, Margaret Smith, 14, yesterday was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail for contempt of court by Judge Frank H. Bicek.

He was ordered taken into custody pending filing of an appeal bond by his attorney, Richard Devine, within 10 days.

Margaret was taken into custody by juvenile authorities when they learned that she was pregnant. She first said Anderson was responsible for her condition, but later denied this in court. Last month she was made a ward of the Catholic Home bureau by Judge Bicek.

Burglars stole $260, two watches and a ring yesterday from the home of Mrs. Mary Clanton, 3022 Lake Park av., she reported to police.

HEART DISEASE STILL LEADS IN DOCTOR DEATHS

Heart disease during 1944 continued to be the leading cause of death among physicians of the United States and its possessions, the Journal of the American Medical association reported yesterday. In its varied forms, the disease killed 1,401 of the 3,172 doctors whose deaths it recorded in its columns last year. In addition, it stated, the American Medical Directory Report service listed the deaths of 243 other physicians, bringing the total number of those who died during the year to 3,415.

As set forth in the report, the average age of American physicians at the time of death in 1944 was 65.3 years, compared with 65.2 years for 1943, when the Journal recorded 3,156 deaths.

SCHENLEY DISTILLERS CORP., NEW YORK

Report!

The annual report of a large business corporation used to be, as a rule, arid reading, except for those closely interested: the stockholders, bankers, statisticians, analysts, etc. But times have changed in America and in so-called "big business."

The chairman of the board and the president of this company, Schenley, have just made their annual report to the stockholders. In it there is something besides a very gratifying accounting of actual business performance, because foremost in the minds of those who direct the affairs of this company is "the responsibility which our Company shares with all industry to provide useful and regular employment and to encourage progress and rising standards of living."

That note—and it is a good note—is sincerely sounded today, this recorder is happy to report, by nearly every worthwhile corporation in America! We have many laws and regulations affecting business. But the self-imposed rules and regulations affecting the lives and welfare of workers which prevail here and in other good companies—the humanics in the business—are among the most encouraging highlights in our American life.

BYRNES CALLS ON BUROCRATS TO CUT THEIR TRAVEL

Agencies Asked to Halt Unessential Trips.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—War Mobilization Director Byrnes today asked heads of federal government agencies to curtail travel by their staff members.

He suggested more careful attention to attendance of government personnel at group meetings, because their presence "frequently serves as an excuse for the meeting to be considered as in the war interest."

In a letter to agency directors, Byrnes recalled his appeal last Friday for cancelation of conventions and trade shows of more than 50 persons scheduled after Feb. 1, unless approved by a special government committee as essential to the war.

Calls for Federal Report.

Observing that the convention ban was asked because of overloaded transportation facilities, he recommended that federal agencies establish a procedure insuring that their personnel are permitted to travel only when it is "absolutely essential."

Byrnes asked a report within 60 days to show the percentage of travel reduction each agency had been able to effect as a result of his appeal.

Several of the larger federal agencies said Byrnes' request had not been received, but that everything possible will be done to curtail travel and group meetings.

Ban Affects U. S. Workers.

Byrnes told the agency heads a substantial portion of the increase in railroad passenger traffic may be charged to the large numbers of conventions. He also blamed such gatherings for overtaxed hotel facilities. The agencies were reminded the convention ban applies to meetings held by government personnel as well as by the public, and that approval by the special committee appointed to receive and pass upon convention applications is necessary.

COUPLE FOUND GUILTY AFTER NIGHT IN HOTEL

Mrs. Evelyn Ferry, 27, of 5615 Henderson st., a soldier's wife, was placed on probation for one year, and her companion, Henry Klein, 36, of 5552 Henderson st., an ex-convict, was fined $100 and costs when they were found guilty of charges brought after their arrest Tuesday in the hotel at 3154 N. Racine av. Police said Mrs. Ferry, who had her 4 year old daughter with her, and Klein had spent the night together registered as man and wife.

Mrs. Ferry, charged with contributing to dependency, told the court that she had been living with her mother but left Tuesday night after a quarrel. Klein helped her get a room, she said, and then slept on a chair while she occupied the bed with her daughter.

Klein, alias Klonowski, was paroled from the state penitentiary in 1941 after serving six years for larceny of an automobile. Unable to pay his fine, he was taken to the Bridewell where he will serve 71 days for contributing to delinquency.

LEGAL BRUSH-UP WILL BE GIVEN LAWYERS IN WAR

Refesher courses for lawyers returning to practice after service in the army and navy will be provided by the American Bar association in cooperation with the Practising Law institute. Plans for the courses were announced yesterday by Dean Albert J. Harno of the University of Illinois college of law, chairman of the American Bar association section on legal education and admissions to the bar.

Dean Harno said 40,000 lawyers, 25 per cent of the nation's attorneys, are now in uniform, and many have asked for refresher training. Tuition fees for qualified veterans will be paid by the government under the G. I. bill of rights.

The first course will begin Jan. 29 in New York, and similar courses will be arranged in other large population centers. The training, lasting two weeks, will include 42 lectures, clinics, demonstrations, and visits to courts.

ARGENTINA ENDS PAN-AMERICAN UNION RELATIONS

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Jan. 10 (AP).—Argentina severed her last connection with American nations as a group today—temporarily at least—by announcing that she would not participate in future meetings of the Pan-American union because her rights had been ignored and the union's consultative procedure had been altered.

[A dispatch from Santiago, Chile, said diplomatic observers there regarded the Argentine move as a mistaken one, cracking wide open the division between Argentina and other nations of the hemisphere. Argentina's self-isolation, these observers said, gives other American nations no recourse but to leave Argentina out of their councils. The Chilean dispatch added that it was felt in many quarters that Argentina's withdrawal boded ill for continental peace in South America.]

The announcement followed the Pan-American union's decision Monday to postpone consideration of Argentina's request for a consultative meeting to discuss her relations with other nations of North and South America.

door advertising is estimated at about 2 million tons. Byrnes provided no calculation on the savings from holding down special train transportation.

The war production board will get out orders for the black-out of advertising and special lighting. What the ODT will do is questionable, since it froze passenger train schedules some time ago and also said "no more specials."

Ickes Not Informed.

The acute coal situation was a subject of discussion at last Friday's cabinet meeting, Byrnes' office said. Mr. Roosevelt asked the war mobilizer to take immediate remedial steps.

Apparently, however, today's action was a surprise to Interior Secretary Ickes, however. Ickes, who also is solid fuels coördinator, earlier in the day had declared that temperatures in large buildings east of the Mississippi river must be held to 70 degrees or less if heated by bituminous coal. He said more rigid controls might be clamped on fuel deliveries unless this was done.

But Byrnes' office did not know of Ickes' action, and an official of the solid fuels administration said that "evidently Mr. Ickes was not consulted" on what Byrnes did. A spokesman for Ickes said he had not advocated or requested the blackout.

Oil Users Also Affected.

Some question had arisen as to whether the appeal to keep all heating temperatures at a maximum of 68 degrees should apply to users of oil. But Byrnes figured it might as well, since the oil situation also has been tight and this fuel is rationed. As for gas heating, artificial gas is manufactured from coal in many places. In some areas it is mixed with the natural gas.

Byrnes said he hopes coal rationing can be avoided and that he is certain the public will support his conservation program.

This, he said, should save enough to keep the war effort going full blast.

Stockpiles Decrease.

Ickes has reported to President Roosevelt that 1945 bituminous coal requirements will be 620 million tons, against a production of only 580 million tons.

The deficit has been made up by drawing on stockpiles. By April 1 these will have been reduced to some 40 million tons, a 22 day supply.

And with the stockpile under a 30 day supply, Byrnes asserted, serious distribution problems may be expected.

Complicating the situation has been a substantial loss in mine labor. The force has been cut from 435,000 men employed in soft coal mines in 1943 to an estimated 390,000 this year.

SUPPLIES OF COAL IN CITY ADEQUATE, RETAIL CHIEF SAYS

Coal supplies in the Chicago area are adequate for both industrial needs and retailer demands, George Methe, treasurer of the American Retail Coal association, said yesterday.

Methe said that retail users may not be able to get the exact grade of coal they desire because shortages exist in coal from eastern Kentucky and West Virginia, where heavy snows slowed or stopped work, but that Illinois coal supplies are sufficient to balance this. Many industrial users, who stocked up in the summer and fall months, have at least 30 days' supply, Methe said.

A rail embargo was placed Tuesday on coal shipments north of St. Louis, Springfield, Akron, and Pittsburgh, Methe said, because of rail congestion in the east, but this is expected to end soon.

Over-all national coal production is estimated at 620 million tons for the coal year ending April 1, 1945, compared with approximately 450 million tons for the previous year. Consumption in the Chicago area increased 11 per cent in the extreme cold weather.

A COAL-COLORED OUTLOOK THAT'S SHINING BRIGHT!

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—A crumpled nylon stocking, guarded by two uniformed Pinkerton men—

A cartridge of lipstick—

A row of perfume bottles, guaranteed to produce any scent ever scented in a hothouse—

With these and kindred other displays, the bituminous Coal Institute today demonstrated in a New York hotel exhibit its vision of a billion dollar post-war industry of feminine fripperies fabricated from coal by-products.

"Coal" Isn't Always Black.

Did you know that 90 per cent of the perfumes now on sale were derived from western Pennsylvania coal? Chemists were there to convince you with formulas. And did you know that 10,000 [more or less] colors had their origin in the grimy underground domains near Pittsburgh?

Coal, a scientist would have you know, is "potentially richer in rubber than all of the islands of the east; more bountiful in fibers than all the Japanese silkworms; wealthier in colors than the rainbow; and abounding in curative medicinals."

Entrancing Proof.

To prove it, for the edification of visiting fashion—and other—editors, the coal producers brought forth a blonde young woman clad in what they called a "filmy dance frock," made of course, of coal. Then they produced a brunette young woman dressed in a pink foundation garment.

To top it off, there was a sign: "Put out your cigaret on this coal-treated table top."

Speaking of cigarets, some one asked if the coal industry had any plans to concoct them from coal.

"No," said a chemist, sucking on a crooked-stemmed pipe, "but maybe you've got something there."

1,200,000 VOTE ON KEEPING NO STRIKE PLEDGE

Whether the 1,200,000 members of the United Automobile Workers' union, the largest labor union in the CIO and in the world, will keep labor's no strike pledge will be decided by a referendum vote being conducted by the CIO union among the membership, Joseph Mattson, UAW district director, announced yesterday.

Ballots have been mailed to parts of the membership from the Detroit [Mich.] headquarters of the union. Ballots for the Chicago region membership are expected to be received early next week, Al Masser, recording secretary of local 274 of the UAW at the Dodge Chicago plant, said.

Should the vote result in turning down the no strike promise which was given by leaders of both the CIO and AFL shortly after the attack on Pearl Harbor, the UAW will be the first union to disavow the pledge.

Waukegan firemen, aided by one truck from the North Chicago department, extinguished the blaze after three hours.

Millions Switch To Mutton Suet Idea For Chest Cold Aid

Helps Break Up Colds' Local Congestion—Checks Coughing

Many mothers all over America are switching to this idea of getting fast relief for these chest cold miseries. They are simply following Grandma. For years she counted on mutton suet to help carry her home medication to do its pain-easing work on nerve ends in the skin. No wonder so many more now welcome Grandma's idea as improved by science—Penetro, with its multi-medicated formula in a base containing mutton suet—that acts both as counter-irritant and pain-reliever when you spread it on, and as a soothing aromatic when breathed in. And so today Penetro hurries along newer help in the old reliable way—help that eases painful misery, lessens coughing, loosens phlegm, soothes chest rawness—so that you can rest more comfortably and give nature a chance to restore vitality. That's why millions are switching to Penetro today—why druggists are recommending it. 25c, double supply 35c. For all your family's chest cold miseries, be sure you get white, easy-to-use Penetro.

THE MEAT SITUATION • January, 1945

WHERE'S THE MEAT?

The other day the American Meat Institute got a letter from an American citizen asking a direct question. The letter says:

"Who is getting all those steaks? Certainly we are not getting them at home. According to my friends at the front, they are not getting them, either."

The answer is:
Mighty few of those steaks are going to the front lines.

The greatest quartermaster corps in the world can't serve charcoal-broiled steaks in foxholes, or pork tenderloins on a beachhead.

This is a war of movement, and soldiers on the move—in tanks, in planes, in trucks, or on foot—naturally get concentrated, easily transported rations that do not require refrigeration.

Even in peacetimes, there never were enough choice steaks in this country to go around.

GREATEST GOVERNMENT NEEDS IN HISTORY

Now the government has stepped up its purchase of all meats. Out of a decreasing supply, it is getting about one-third of the total production of the meat-packing industry . . . nearly half of the choice cuts.

Where do those choice cuts go? Who gets them?

They are going to our fighting forces behind the lines . . . to established army and navy bases, to military rest homes, to training centers, to military and naval hospitals, and onto ships with refrigeration facilities.

Under war conditions three times as much meat per fighter must be available as he ate as a civilian. Why? War destroys some. Some must be left behind. Some must be ready at destinations. Meat and plenty of it is a must in fighters' diets.

Your meat industry's job is to prepare good meat for our fighters, whether it's C rations for a tank crew, steaks for the men in a submarine or on a warship, or chops for chow in a rest camp. Who would question their needs at a time like this?

What About Civilians?

In the weeks to come civilians should, according to government estimates for the country as a whole, have an average of slightly less than 2½ pounds of meat per week—rationed and unrationed. This compares with somewhat more than 3 pounds per week per person during the corresponding weeks of 1944.

How can you manage? Make the most of the meat you get. Learn how to serve more meat meals with less. Serve it with other good foods to "extend" its flavor. Then you can keep the fine flavor and good nutrition of meat on the table regularly.

Remember—regardless of cut or kind, price or points, meat is a yardstick of protein foods, because meat measures up to every protein need.

HIGH U. S. AIDS ASK PRISON FOR WORK DODGERS

Urge Blanket Authority for President.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—Drastic new regimentation of the nation's working men and women was proposed today by administrative leaders in the wake of President Roosevelt's demand last week for a universal labor draft law.

The proposals, made at a hearing before the house military affairs committee on "work or fight" legislation, were:

1. A law ordering fines and imprisonment of draft age [18-45] men who quit war jobs without government approval or fail to take jobs designated by local draft boards was urged by War and Navy Undersecretaries Patterson and Bard.

Asks Power for F. D. R.

2. Bard, speaking for the navy department, called upon congress, in addition, to enact a labor draft law delegating to the President blanket authority to compel men and women in all age groups to take or leave any job he or his delegated officials may designate.

Meanwhile, a warning that drastic new man power controls should be postponed at least until Washington officials have had time to study the "steadily improving" labor situation was sounded by John P. Gaty, president of the Beech Aircraft company, a large war producer. "Forced" recruitment of workers, thru a labor draft or other means, would do more harm than good, Gaty said.

In a letter to Vice President Elect Truman, which Truman had read to the senate, Gaty declared that recent allied reverses in Europe have awakened war workers to the necessity of staying on the job, and that they will respond "voluntarily." He blamed wholesale job quittings last fall largely on mistakenly optimistic statements by allied leaders that the war was nearly over.

Sabath Rips Services.

Elsewhere in the capitol, Rep. Sabath [D., Ill.] a usual administration stalwart, asserted at a rules committee hearing that the army and navy themselves bear a large share of the blame for man power shortages they are complaining about. Sabath, denouncing the practice as a "damned outrage," charged the two services with harboring hordes of idle young uniformed and civilian employes, who have nothing better to do than frequent capital cocktail lounges. Majors and colonels here are serving as "messengers" and generals and admirals are tying up five or six enlisted men apiece as aids, he added. The Illinoisan urged a full investigation of such abuses, together with alleged overstaffing in other federal agencies.

At today's hearing before the military committee, Patterson and War Production Chief Krug joined Bard in indorsing the President's demand for a comprehensive labor draft, but neither commented on the navy official's proposal to have congress give the President unlimited power over the nation's workers.

While urging a universal draft law, the three New Deal officials indorsed as a "temporary" measure a restricted work or fight bill authored by Committee Chairman May [D., Ky.].

Gist of May Bill.

The measure is recognized as a drastic labor draft bill for men 18-45. It would require those in that age group who are not in "essential" work to take jobs designated by their local draft boards and would prohibit those already in necessary work from shifting jobs without draft board permission. The penalty for violations would be induction as privates into army "special service" units for menial labor, and such inductees would be excluded from federal insurance, hospital, bonus and other benefits granted regular military personnel.

Patterson, who testified for two hours, told the committee that, in his opinion, so-called voluntary recruiting methods have failed to solve serious labor shortages in certain types of war output. He asserted compulsion is necessary to put to work 700,000 needed new war workers and replace another 900,000 men to be drafted in the first six months of this year. This would mean an increase from the present draft quota of 110,000 a month to 150,000.

His contention was disputed by Rep. Short [R., Mo.], a veteran member of the committee, who interposed:

"A compulsory labor bill such as this will retard production instead of increasing it. Forced labor will never outproduce free labor. That has been proved by our own war output under free labor conditions, which is the miracle of the modern age. If a bill like this one is adopted I predict we'll have thousands of men who will sit this war out idling in war plants."

Patterson explained that the May bill is not intended to raise men for the special military units, but is intended solely as a "club" to force 4-F and other registrants into war work and keep present war laborers at their jobs.

Favors Stiff Penalties.

"The army does not want these men if they are not qualified for combat, and they won't be if they are 4-F," Patterson said. "If we have to take more than a few thousand of them, the bill will be a flop."

For this reason, the undersecretary continued, he would prefer to eliminate the military draft penalty and substitute fines and imprisonment as punishment for violators. He suggested the same terms as for evading the selective service act, which provides maximums of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Short inquired of Patterson whether he had thought of writing into the bill similar penalties for war workers who go on strike. The undersecretary replied this had not occurred to him, and went on to say that strikes were not a serious problem and have had a negligible effect on war output.

Unconcerned Over Strikes.

"And yet," Short retorted, "nobody howled louder or longer than you did over the foremen's strike in Detroit last spring, which held up production of engines for army combat planes."

"That's right," Patterson admitted. "That strike was an outrageous thing."

The undersecretary said he was concerned not so much about strikes as placing in war work those in unneeded tasks such as "making artificial flowers and hand bags and handing you your coat when you can get it yourself."

When Rep. Kilday [D., Tex.] suggested that a corner grocer with a family, for example, might be ruined financially if forced to give up his long established business for a war job, the witness retorted that "we'll all be ruined if we don't win the war."

Bard Backs Stand.

Bard endorsed Patterson's testimony on the May bill, including the proposal to substitute penalties of fine and imprisonment, and then proceeded to urge adoption of his proposed universal draft law.

The suggested measure would give the President complete power to "mobilize the man power of the nation" thru any regulations he or his appointees might issue. The bill places no restriction on the kind of decrees to be issued, and would carry as yet unspecified penalties for violators of such orders.

The proposal flabbergasted members of the committee, who predicted it will never reach the house floor.

"Congress might as well close up shop and go home if it passes an act like that," Rep. Short commented.

Needed as "Tools."

Krug urged speedy passage of the pending measure covering those 18 to 45, and asked for a comprehensive labor draft law soon after. Asserting the measures were needed tools and "we need every tool in the kit," he said the 1945 war output program has been boosted to 62½ billion dollars, compared with an estimate of 55 billions last October.

The WPB chief said 50 per cent of the war program is being increased this year, and that this will require speedy shifts of workers, as well as new thousands in the labor force.

Charles M. Hay, deputy chairman of the war man power commission, indorsed the May bill as a supplementary aid to the MWC's present system of voluntary recruitment. He did not comment on the need for a universal labor draft, except to say that he thought it unnecessary to draft women. Hay appeared in place of WMC Chief McNutt, now touring in Europe, who told the same committee last March that he saw no need for a labor draft or any other man power legislation.

MRS. HELEN MEYER.

Mrs. Helen Meyer, 32, of 1123 W. 63d st., who said male gossips in a neighborhood tavern poisoned the mind of her husband, Emil, 40, against marriage, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court.

"They just stand at the bar every night and drink and complain about their wives," said Mrs. Meyer, who was represented by Attorneys Joseph H. and Norman Becker. "It got so bad that Emil would come home and criticize me, just because he was turned against all wives."

Meyer, a chauffeur, who lives at 3234 W. 66th pl., was charged with drunkenness in the divorce bill. They were married Aug. 31, 1937, and separated Sept. 19, 1944. Mrs. Meyer waived alimony, and was awarded $8 a week for the support of a child, Pamella, 1.

Most famous episode in Cervantes' masterpiece is that in which the deluded but ever-lovable knight goes tilting at windmills under the impression that they are a company of giants.

The BOOK that SLEW the DRAGON of SUPERSTITION

GIANTS . . . SORCERERS . . . DRAGONS . . . ENCHANTED CASTLES . . . it is hard to believe that only four hundred years ago grown people took them seriously, but they did. Romances of knighthood still were the favorite reading of the time.

Then, like a sweep of fresh air through a musty room, came the kindly laughter of a great book . . . and a great spirit. With the publication of Cervantes' "Don Quixote," the last pretensions and superstitions of medieval "chivalry" fell away.

The immortal history of the gallant but crack-brained knight and his faithful squire became a best seller almost from the moment of its appearance. It is still one of the most widely read and beloved books today.

As a half-starved boy in Valladolid, Cervantes loved to read. He read everything he could lay his hands on. And unquestionably this life-long habit of reading helped to enrich the mind from which sprang the book that has been called the greatest novel ever written.

Byron said that Cervantes smiled Spain's antiquated "chivalry" away. He did more than that. In the long twilight of the Middle Ages he gave to the world a book so wise, so tolerant, so modern in spirit . . . so immensely human and entertaining . . . that with one stroke it set the pattern for our time.

The extraordinary influence of "Don Quixote" was due, first, to the book speaking directly to the mind and heart; and secondly, to its being read by many millions.

Influence is the product of interest multiplied by circulation. And the most powerful influence is that of reading. When you read, you set your own pace . . . start and stop when you please . . . go back and read again. In no other way can you absorb ideas so completely.

Perhaps in all the history of the written word there has been no influence comparable to that of The American Weekly. For The American Weekly speaks—not once, but 52 times a year—to the largest single reading group in America.

The American Weekly speaks to them interestingly and directly of heartbreak and happiness . . . triumph . . . tragedy . . . love . . . of the advances of science and medicine . . . of the power and beauty of art, religion, literature.

The American Weekly is distributed through a group of great Sunday newspapers and read regularly in more than 8,000,000 homes from coast to coast!

Can anyone doubt that the manufacturer who associates his product or company name with such an influence is tying in with the most powerful force in advertising?

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

new... 3 TIMES RICHER IN VITAMIN D

Nestlé's gives the world a great improvement in evaporated milk

TODAY . . . YOU can buy the famous NESTLÉ'S Milk. For years a leading seller in other parts of the United States . . . it is here now with this great improvement!

The new NESTLÉ'S Evaporated Milk is 3 times richer in Vitamin D. It is nutritionally better for babies, growing children . . . for everyone.

For your baby—Consult your doctor for correct formula.

This new NESTLÉ'S Milk meets a vital need

. . . because each pint supplies 400 units of Vitamin D, now specified as the minimum daily requirement by U. S. food officials.

For years, many medical men have been asking: "Are babies and growing children getting the proper amount of Vitamin D under today's living conditions?"

More Vitamin D needed, Science finds

The conclusion reached from hundreds of scientific feeding tests was that infants and growing children need at least 400 Vitamin-D units daily.

Authorities also concluded that extra Vitamin D is necessary for adults, too.

So Nestlé's has perfected and now offers the new, improved NESTLÉ'S Evaporated Milk. It has all the original fine Nestlé's qualities PLUS added Vitamin D_3 . . . the form of Vitamin D that occurs naturally in cod liver oil and a form that is produced naturally in the human body by sunshine.

One pint now supplies 400 USP units . . . the full minimum daily requirement of Vitamin D specified for infants, children and adults by the U. S. Food and Drug Administration.

Here's what the new NESTLÉ'S Evaporated Milk means to you

For babies—this new milk, made to order for infants, will be approved by your doctor for your baby.

In your coffee and in your cooking —every time you use this new NESTLÉ'S Milk, you help everyone in your family fill his daily requirement of Vitamin D.

THESE TWO SEALS APPEAR ON EVERY CAN OF NESTLÉ'S EVAPORATED MILK

This Seal of Acceptance denotes that NESTLÉ'S Milk and nutritional claims made for it are acceptable to the Council on Foods of the American Medical Association.

The seal of a nationally-famous research organization—your assurance of the Vitamin-D potency of NESTLÉ'S Milk.

RUSSIANS TOLD THAT CHICAGO IS TYPICAL OF U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—Amerika, the office of war information's new publication for Russia, where the first 20,000 copies recently went on sale at 3 rubles [18 cents] a copy, devotes nine of its 64 pages to Chicago, which it terms a "husky, young giant."

An introductory page to an eight page layout of 11 pictures of Chicago's steel mills, packing houses, stock yards, beaches, and cultural centers and its people, tells the Russians that Chicago is perhaps the most typical of American big cities.

The contents of Amerika were censored by the OWI and the Russian government. The magazine is pocket size and of slick paper. It will be issued every other month.

DO NOT SABOTAGE ILLINOIS.

With the Republican party in this state practically defunct as a cohesive organization and with Communist influence strong in the Democratic party and growing stronger, particularly in the industrial areas, the suggestion is being put forward that what Illinois needs at this moment in its history is a constitutional convention.

To hear them talk about it you would think that Illinois, instead of being among the most productive states in the Union, among the wealthiest states in the Union, among the most orderly states in the Union, was verging on anarchy, with its people in rags and with wolves howling thru its streets. You would think that for lack of the services of government, our people were dying of pestilence, that robber gangs were roaming the highways, and that justice was unobtainable. You would never suspect that this state and this city have just set new records in their purchases of war bonds. You would never suspect that Illinois has been and is making a contribution to the fighting of the war vastly larger than its proportion of the national population would justify.

Indeed, you would hardly suspect there was a war on, absorbing the time and attention of the citizens. Nobody knows when the war will be over or when the soldiers who are fighting it will return. The advocates of the constitutional convention are very sure that their sons and brothers will be back in time to vote the new constitution up or down, but some of these same prophets were very sure that the war would be over last summer and a year ago last summer.

The plain truth is that under the state constitution, whatever its defects may be, Illinois has grown in material things and in the things of the spirit, and continues to grow. Thru depression and war Illinois has been a keystone of the republican form of government on this continent. And so, when everybody's attention is fastened upon the war and when the social ferments nourished by the war are at their most active, we are to have a constitutional convention to overthrow the basic law of our commonwealth.

Only the worst is to be expected of this proposal if it is adopted. It would provide a field day for Communists and the fellow-travelers who are determined to fasten their political notions and their code of morality upon the state. They would tear the state apart when unity is most needed. They would not stop at colonizing Illinois with their followers in order to put their schemes across. Their goal is to make Illinois the first of the soviet states of America.

In common sense and common prudence nothing more should be heard of this proposal.

THE SOLAR 8:18.

The caller was not interested in the Polish government in exile, the Missouri valley authority, Mr. Ickes' Persian oil pipe dream, the fighting in Greece, the charge that Messrs. Stalin, Churchill, and Roosevelt had contributed to the delinquency of the juvenile Atlantic Charter, or in anything contained in the message on the state of the Union. Such a caller would be an old customer in any newspaper office. There was, however a glint in his eyes, an expression like one of the lesser frowns of John Brown of Osawatomie, a frown indicating that he had a grievance.

The Tribune clipping he held in his hand revealed it. The clipping was headed The Weather. He soon made it plain that he cared nothing about precipitation, whether snow or rain, was equally miserable whether it was seven below or seven above, wore rubbers when there was ice or slush, no longer cried hooray like the school boy when snow blew down his neck and had, indeed, come to regard winter as an undesirable state of mind, better handled philosophically because no matter how you took it you had to take it.

What exasperated our new friend was the item: "Sunrise, 8:19; sunset, 5:38. [Tuesday morning, 8:18.] He explained that he knew about the orbit of the earth and was familiar with Clarence King's observation that without the inclination of the ecliptic and the differentiation of the sexes human life might have been a success. He had read Thornton Wilder's "By the Skin of Our Teeth" and was prepared to believe that when the north pole had reached a certain place in its gyration, the Laurentian glacier might again be a visitor in State st. and on the Oak st. bathing beach. He was as willing as the next fellow to take his chances with that if it came in his time.

He was a reasonable person except for the irritation caused by "sunrise, 8:19." He knew that figuratively the sun reached its southernmost point, its greatest southern declination, its winter solstice, Dec. 22 or thereabouts, and thereafter started north, lengthening the days and shortening the nights. He repeated the old English folk maxim that as the days lengthen the cold strengthens, adding that he didn't care one way or the other about that. But what gave him a gripe was that the morning sun didn't register any gains at this time of the year. In fact, shortly after the winter solstice the morning sun was thrown for a one minute loss and since then had only managed to get back to the line of scrimmage while the evening sun was making substantial yardage.

Brother, did our friend hate to get up in the dark! Nature lovers, outdoor people who liked to stir about in the longer evenings were getting more time for the making of snow balls and the gathering of icicles. He didn't begrudge them their pleasures but look at him. He was still pulling on his pants in the same old dark and the morning sun seemed to have a date with the noon whistles. Why this behavior?

It would be a satisfaction, he said, to know what gives here. What's the racket? Why does the morning sun bootleg so much night? Why does it stand still while the evening sun makes progress? Was this on the astronomical up and up? If so, what explained it? He was referred to the Legal Friend of the People. This may not have been the best reference. Possibly Gladys Huntington Bevans, Mary Meade, or Goren on Bridge would have been better. However, the Legal Friend may know why the morning sun is stalling around in the black market and our caller looked like a man who wanted to sue somebody.

BACK TO LUZON.

It has been a long road back, but Gen. MacArthur and the army have again planted the American flag on Luzon. Once more MacArthur has managed his landing with an economy of loss. He left Corregidor almost three years ago, at night in a submarine. He came back in broad daylight at the head of a great army, navy, and air force. The Japanese have a powerful army on Luzon and bitter resistance can be expected, but MacArthur's long series of brilliant victories augur well for the final outcome.

The very fact that the pledge that "We're going back to Bataan" is in process of being redeemed is a victory for America. It is not only a victory for America in the Philippines, but a victory for Americans in America. Powerful interests fought to withhold the man power, ships, and equipment necessary to drive back the Japs in the Pacific, endeavoring to divert all of our power to Europe. A foreign-inspired element in this country, avid of getting the big money out of the peace and of bailing out their European holdings, would have had this nation ignore the victims of Bataan and the honor of the country.

But under the lead of Americans of undivided loyalty, with whom THE TRIBUNE has been proud to take its stand, American public opinion compelled the administration begrudgingly to furnish the materials and men for the Pacific campaigns. The families of men who became Japanese prisoners, as represented by such organizations as the Bataan clan, were not disposed to permit the Washington leadership to turn its back upon the sufferings of their sons and brothers, especially after the torments endured at the hands of barbarous captors had been made clear when THE TRIBUNE published the "death march" story of Lt. Col. William E. Dyess.

America has a score to settle with Japan and the cruel and calculating war lords, who, from the initial blow at Pearl Harbor to the present day, have placed themselves outside the civilized community. The account will be settled. Lingayen gulf, and Bataan, and Manila are way points toward the final settlement, just as Lae, and Buna, and Hollandia, Biak, Morotai, Leyte, and Mindoro were wayside stops along the road back to Luzon. The road ahead still stretches as far as Tokyo and perhaps beyond, but there cannot be the slightest doubt that this nation will march the full route.

We have come this far because the people at home have dedicated themselves to an American cause and have refused to allow the European-minded minority to slight the Pacific war. Just as our onward march in the western Pacific must be pressed to the final objective, so must the ascendancy of American interests already established be carried to final victory at home.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS AND PROFESSIONALISM.

Howie Schultz, who plays baseball for money for the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Rollie Seltz, who is compensated for similar efforts with the Rochester, N. Y., club, are regularly enrolled students at Hamline university in St. Paul and play on its basketball team.

Hamline went east during the Christmas holidays and played several games against college teams. Mr. Dan Ferris, secretary of the National Amateur Athletic union, has undertaken to excommunicate most of the players of other colleges who competed against Hamline, on the ground that they had played against professional athletes, which violates one of the A. A. U.'s self-proclaimed laws.

Ferris ought to mind his own business and keep his nose out of college athletics. The Hamline faculty obviously didn't think that its own simon pures were going to be sullied by associating with a couple of professional baseball players on the basketball court. The Minnesota conference, to which Hamline belongs, in fact, has had a very liberal rule on professional competition for 20 years. It permits its athletes to play baseball for money in the summer time.

That, however, is more or less beside the point. The problem of drawing the line between the professional and amateur in college athletics is an exceedingly difficult one. Different colleges and different college conferences have sought varying solutions, but in every case the rules have been drawn by the faculties of the institutions concerned, who, almost without exception, do what they do because they think it is for the best interests of the students involved. They need no interference by self-appointed outsiders, whose own back yards contain some pretty smelly messes from time to time.

SLIGHT CORRECTION.

"I have not made in the past, and I shall not now make, any prediction concerning the length of the war," said Mr. Roosevelt in his budget message.

In January, 1944, Mr. Roosevelt addressed a message to the French committee in North Africa in which he said "1944 will be the year of victory."

But doubtless he meant fourth term victory.

THE PURLOINED TAPESTRY.

Remember when this column, with all the antiquarians and historians in the world, was worrying about the Bayeux tapestry, an embroidered pictorial record of the Norman conquest of England? That was six months ago, shortly after D-day on the coast of Normandy. Well, this large piece of priceless portable property, formerly in the clutch of the Nazis, has turned up in the right hands. It was never moved out of France.

Francis Henry Taylor, director of the Metropolitan museum in New York, tells the story briefly in the current Atlantic Monthly. We quote:

"The Bayeux tapestry was among those items which a few weeks prior to the liberation had been requisitioned by the high command. Removed from the deposit in the chateau de Sourches near Rennes because of Patton's breakthru the German lines, it was brought to the Louvre for transshipment to Germany. Less than 10 days after its arrival Paris was freed and the Nazi plan was never carried out."

Therefore scratch one purloined tapestry from the agenda for the peace treaty. . . . If it had never been found, history could have struggled along fairly well with facsimiles. A satisfactory copy of the pictures on this band of linen 231 feet long was made early in the last century by Charles Alfred Stothard, a historical draftsman, for the English Society of Antiquaries.

Gen. Eisenhower's orders regarding the sparing of cultural monuments in Europe, if possible, issued on the invasion of Italy and repeated on D-day in France, contained these words:

"Nothing can stand against the argument of military necessity. But the phrase is sometimes used when it would be more truthful to speak of military convenience or even of personal convenience. I do not want it to cloak slackness or indifference."

IN TIMES OF DOUBT.

O, would you make of life a rich possession,
Then, by God's love and mercy, keep it pure.
Let it be strong, yet strong not for oppression,
But to sustain the weak, and to endure
Each agonizing wound, each gnawing sorrow.
And lest, benumbed by bleak despair, it grope
In dreadful night, foreseeing no bright morrow
Encrimsoning the sky, O, give it hope!

To doubt God's love, from every blow to shrink,
To strive for self and petty purpose, driven
By greed and evil passion—do you think
For this, and this, and this that life was given?
No, life was meant for noble deeds and saintly,
For courage, and to be a guiding light.
O, let it shine, not falteringly or faintly,
But strong and filled with promise, burning bright.

Walking in the Snow.

How lovely is the winter night as I walk along a quiet lane, my footsteps pillowed in soft snow! In my hand is a letter destined for another snow covered land, and specifically a hut in the Alaskan forest.

As I walk I find much to wonder about. Is his fire as bright and warm as the one I just left? Which of my letters is he reading tonight? How does he look after more than two years among dogs, bears, and men? When will his Uncle let him come back? My questions are addressed to fence posts along the way, wearing daffy hats of snow. Their immobility is profound, so I smile at their ludicrous hats.

O, still winter's night! Restless wondering is banished by your sphinxity. Your snowy beauty is a silken quilt, hiding all ugliness. Your benediction lies on the world to my horizon. Your calm brings peace to my heart.

Frieda K. Zimmerman.

TREE IN WINTER.

Thru summer days I loved a tree
That canopied a hill
With layer on layer of emerald shade;
My heart drank deep, grew still.

October breathed a miracle;
My hilltop and I were proud—
Our tree flamed high like a ruby lamp
And the bright air quivered and glowed.

I sought my hill on a cold, white night
To stand by my leafless tree,
(Her sweetness gone, her glory fled,
I thought I'd be sad to see).

I gazed into heights undreamed before—
A greater miracle far!
My tree had blossomed in blazing buds—
For each lost leaf, a star!

The rate is open. As a rule, small general contractors who have had a general line of industrial or residential building, or men with pusher experience on forms, framing, and general industrial work, get a 2d class rate or higher. [Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A PECULIAR TYPE OF SHOULDER PAIN.

PAIN in the region of the shoulder is relatively common and may defy accurate diagnosis. The physician must think of disease of the joint proper, an injury, swelling of a bursa, neuritis, etc.

A few months ago, I encountered a colleague who had developed severe distress over both shoulder blades, which radiated down the outer side of the right arm and forearm. He stated that when the affliction first appeared, his suffering was extremely severe, requiring morphine for control. After a few days, the acute stage subsided but a dull ache remained.

He then noted that both arms were weaker than normal. He could not lift or push with his aforetime power. A month after the beginning of the attack, he exhibited considerable lack of strength in both arms. There had been no fever and no illness that he could recall. Examination revealed some wasting of the muscles of the shoulders and upper back. Inasmuch as he had not been following his usual exercise program, the question arose—could this atrophy be the result of disuse? The answer was "no" because it was more extensive than could be accounted for on this theory. Since soreness had practically vanished, massage and exercise were prescribed. In the course of the ensuing two months, a fair amount of improvement occurred.

Apparently this is a disorder known as "radiculitis," wherein the roots of the fifth and sixth cervical nerves have become inflamed. Now and then, both arms will be involved. The chief manifestation is pain and rarely will systemic effects be experienced. The attack seems to come out of a clear sky which, of course, it does not. Studying the history of the onset, one learns that the ailment sometimes follows a surgical procedure, announcing its presence two to 10 days thereafter. In other instances it will tag along after an infection, such as influenza, pneumonia, or dysentery. This means that the debilitated state of the sufferer gives the "starter" an opportunity to display its vicious role.

The rapid muscular wasting points to the fact that the anterior horns of the spinal cord may be affected much as in "polio." But the patient is not sick as is the victim of infantile paralysis. Furthermore, examination of the spinal fluid reveals nothing abnormal, and there is no evidence of contact with a case of this disease. The fact that radiculitis may be encountered at the age of 50 or later, is against attributing the ailment to this cause.

It is natural, therefore, to assume that a low grade virus infection may be the thing that pulls the trigger, despite the absence of fever. There is reason to believe that we are dealing with a virus similar to that which is responsible for herpes zoster [shingles].

A further analogy has been pointed out—namely, that this same symptom-complex is sometimes a reaction to the use of any type of serum. If the individual presents a skin eruption [serum sickness], a day or two later, discomfort in the region of the upper arm may arise.

We are considering a malady, the cause of which is speculative. About all that can be done is to allay suffering and to support the paralyzed muscles. As soon as possible, however, active exercises will need to be started, possibly aided by electric stimulation.

The transfusions cannot be blamed. The altered personality is probably due to weakness or a mild psychosis. The germ plasma of the blood receiver is not transformed. It is like borrowing an overcoat.

MUSCULAR ARMS.

Mrs. J. N. writes: I am quite slim everywhere except for my arms. They are so muscular that my friends refer to me as the "village smithy." Is there anything I can do about it?

REPLY.

Body contours depend largely upon heredity. Nature has a fashion, however, of responding to demands. If great strength is required, muscles will develop. Reduction can be accomplished only with disuse and a low calorie diet.

A small, delicate, square crystal, half an inch square and about 1/32d of an inch thick, is used in the manufacture of a certain radionic device. The breakage or damage of the delicate crystals amounted to 35 per cent, so tremendous a toll that an efficiency expert went to work to determine why. He studied the all-girl assembly line with care, and finally the surprising order was issued: All girls assembling the crystals must cut their fingernails. The next day the breakage was down to 15 per cent.

"My mosquito proof tent, a few feet from the bow of the PT, is under a magnificent tree that thrusts its twisted trunk far over the water, shading and shielding the boat from the 'rising suns.' "Few things are pretty when they are hot, steak excepted, and the jungle is no exception. It is dead, steamy, and parched until sundown. Then it becomes verdant, intense, and colorful. Like a country town on Saturday night it suddenly comes to life. Everything that can creep or crawl or fly goes into action and sings a conglomerate song rejoicing the night.

"This is the Christmas scene that war has brought me. If we happen to be on the water tonight, it will be a serious and spiritual Christmas eve, for it is always that way at night on the ocean when there are no lights but the stars. Perhaps there will be a particularly bright star tonight. If we are on land, it will be drunken and bawdy, for I doubt if there is a man who hasn't at least a share in a well stowed Christmas bottle. But either way there will be long thoughts of home, of past Christmases, and those to come."

FRENCH ANIMOSITY.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—As a French-born citizen who lived in France for many years I would like to give you my reaction to the statements made by Frederick C. Crawford, chairman of the executive committee of the National Association of Manufacturers, which were published in THE TRIBUNE of Jan. 5.

It is not surprising—on the contrary, it is logical—that Frenchmen manifest a certain coldness toward Americans, because of the repeated blunders of President Roosevelt and the state department during the last four years. Our foreign policy has not been equal to the task, and the mistakes made by the administration deprive our soldiers of the warm gratitude that is their due. How can men, opposed to this policy, like Mr. Crawford, not understand that one catches more flies with honey than vinegar? It seems to me that the Republican party as a whole ought to strive to reestablish the cordial Franco-American relationship now out of joint because of the tactless attitude of the Democrats.

An editorial in last week's United States News frankly exposes the reason for the American official attitude toward France: the desire to keep France in a state of tutelage. It is easy to understand that the French long since were keenly sensitive to this intention, and their reaction will not be helpful to American business men anxious to have their share in the field of post-war French reconstruction.

It is not too late for us to make a friendly gesture to France.

There have been ugly rumors that boxes to our boys were burned in piles rather than bothering to follow up units in the front lines, where our boys need cheer the most. Surely that would not keep up the morale when lonely youngsters know that boxes have been sent, and yet they never arrive. Our son is just 19 years old and this is his second Christmas away from home. Neither Christmas did he receive our packages altho we mail far in advance and print and type addresses both on the box itself, and on the heavy brown wrapping paper outside. WARD CHARGES THORO MESS IN FEDERAL RULE

Inefficiency, Confusion, Waste Cited.

Affidavits charging a startling condition of inefficiency, waste, and confusion in the Chicago and other mail order houses of Montgomery Ward & Co. under government operation were filed by the company yesterday in federal District court, in connection with the government's suit for an injunction to restrain company officials and employes from interfering with the government in the operation of the seized plants.

Corrective measures that automatically would have been applied under private management have been expressly forbidden by the government agents in charge, the affidavits said.

Federal Bungling Charged.

The affidavits cited these alleged bungling methods:

Refunds due to customers, instead of being paid promptly, have been allowed to pile up until it would require the normal staff a month to catch up with them; bills for merchandise and services totaling nearly three-quarters of a million dollars have been permitted to pass their discount dates, with subsequent loss to the company; unfilled mail orders have piled up at the Chicago house until, at the close of business Jan. 9, there were 138,268 unfilled orders on hand, and issuance of the company's spring and summer catalog, originally scheduled for Jan. 11, has been postponed to Jan. 22, because orders from the new catalog could not be filled.

A ludicrous note was injected by affidavits from Portland, Ore., that the war labor board wage directive for the mail order house there, for failure to observe which the plant was seized, is so confused and inequitable that even the army is unable to place it in effect.

Appeal to Firm for Help.

Instead, the army and WLB have appealed to company officials in Chicago to suggest a workable wage schedule, and it now appears that a proposal made by the company after the issuance of the WLB directive will be adopted.

The story of the wage directive debacle in Portland is contained in the affidavit of Charles M. Odorizzi, manager of Ward's 10 mail order houses.

The defect in the WLB plan, said John A. Barr, in charge of labor relations for the company, was that it established minimum and maximum wage rates, some higher and some lower than those already in effect, with widely different rates for jobs requiring the same skill and experience.

The WLB directive was issued Aug. 10, 1943, after a hearing at which Ward's had no opportunity to cross-examine witnesses, and the company's petition to the national labor relations board for a review was denied without a hearing.

Disclosure of the unprecedented pile-up of unfilled orders at the Chicago mail order house is contained in the affidavit of Milton L. Erickson, house operating manager.

On Jan. 2, the last day of company operation before the army stepped in, he said, 32,061 orders were received, and 30,965 unfilled orders were carried over to the following day. The record since then, under army operation, follows:

Date.	Orders received.	Orders carried over.
Jan. 3	32,004	42,218
Jan. 4	42,571	63,516
Jan. 5	35,216	91,842
Jan. 6	39,204	104,490
" 8	44,309	122,044
Jan. 9	38,542	138,268

"Faced with such a carryover," Erickson's affidavit said, "Ward's operating staff normally would have taken steps to meet the condition. However, it is not possible to transfer orders from the Chicago house to other Ward mail order houses seized by the government because those houses also are behind on their own order filling schedule.

"The agents for the government in control have prohibited by express order transferring unfilled customers' orders to Montgomery Ward & Co. houses not under seizure, altho some of such houses are in position to handle additional orders.

"At the close of business Jan. 9, there were 53,130 unopened customers' orders carried over in the mail opening department. This condition would have been met normally by employes working evenings opening mail. But this procedure was prohibited by Maj. Lawrence F. Daley [in charge of the Chicago mail order house]."

Robert A. Bryant, controler of the Chicago mail order house, said in another affidavit that he was instructed on Jan. 5 by Maj. Daley to stop sending refunds to customers and that by Jan. 9 approximately 83,000 refunds to customers had piled up.

Husband Jailed

MRS. RUTH URIAS.

Michael Urias, 36, a machinist, of 4057 Princeton av., was released from alimony row in the county jail Dec. 21 when he pledged himself to drink only three bottles of beer a week and to pay $150 in child support to his ex-wife, Ruth, 28, of 225 W. 43d st.

Superior Judge Joseph Sabath, who granted Urias the Christmas amnesty, sentenced him again yesterday to six months in jail for failing to keep his pledges. Mrs. Urias, in court with Atty. Harry X. Cole, said he has been intoxicated and has not paid support for the children, Edward, 7, and Michael Jr., 4.

Urias said he did not expect to remain in jail long, because he has volunteered to be inducted into the army and will be called for his physical examination next week. He wants to be drafted, he said, because he is tired of working nights.

UAW UNIONISTS FILE COMPLAINT AGAINST WARD

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—The United Automobile Workers' union [CIO] has filed with the office of price administration a complaint accusing Montgomery Ward & Co. of violating price ceilings.

Donald E. Montgomery, UAW consumer counsel, said tonight the complaint contends the company exceeded ceilings by shifting "about 180,000 customers from its Chicago mail order house to its Kansas City plant."

"As a result," he said, "these customers were obliged to pay higher prices for a wide range of commodities."

Montgomery said the customers allegedly transferred were residents of Illinois, Missouri, and Iowa. The company's explanation, he added, was that these customers could be served better from Kansas City because of a shortage of workers in Chicago.

HERE'S WHY YOUR SEALY SLEEP IS SO REFRESHING

only staple cotton . . . long-fibered Texas cotton is used in all Sealy mattresses. Each sturdy fiber has a resilience that lasts.

blown like snow . . . this wonderful, lively cotton is blown—at high speed—like snow into a huge form.

woven by air . . . after the cotton is blown into the form, air pressure tosses and tumbles it. Finally it's lightly but securely woven together.

renewed by sunshine . . . from time to time, just by exposing a Sealy mattress to sunlight for a day, it will puff up like new—all because of the lively, long-fibered cotton that's in it.

tuftless for more comfort . . . these Sealy mattresses are tuftless for added sleeping comfort. No buttons to catch you. No sagging . . . no lumping.

ENGINEERS DRAW UP LEGISLATION FOR SUPER-ROAD

Bill Would Give the State Title to Canal Bed.

BY ROBERT HOWARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 10.—State engineers said today they were ready to submit to Gov. Green their own draft of legislation by which congress would yield to the state any federal right to the unused Illinois and Michigan canal along which a super-highway into Chicago is being planned.

The Illinois officials agreed with Rep. J. Ward Smith [R., Ottawa], who described as "still objectionable and unsatisfactory" a new bill introduced in Washington, D. C., by Rep, Sabath [D., Ill.].

"Congressman Sabath hasn't corrected the major flaw in his original bill," said Smith. "He would have congress formally abandon the canal as a navigable waterway, which might have the result of complicating the legal issues involved in who owns the 90 foot strips adjacent to the canal bed. The proper step is for congress to encourage construction of a highway by making it clear that the state has full title to the reserve strips, as well as to the canal bed.

Original Bill Blocked.

"Sabath's original bill, blocked in the last congress, would abandon the canal within Cook county. His new bill, introduced last week, would abandon the canal all the way from Chicago to Peru. Neither is satisfactory."

Smith and Sen. Daley [D., Chicago] are sponsors of bills to create a special legislative commission to see that Illinois' interests in the canal are protected. Gov. Green has commended the project to utilize the old canal for a super-highway which would permit faster travel from the Chicago loop to Chicago airport and also open an improved traffic artery to downstate Illinois.

Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.], who attended the inauguration ceremonies here Monday, said he would cooperate by presenting in the senate any canal legislation desired by Illinois officials and legislators.

Draft of Bill Complete.

Thomas B. Casey, acting chief waterways engineer, completed a draft of a bill to permit full utilization of the old canal, which played a major role in the economic development of Illinois but which has been obsolete as a barge route since completion of the deep waterway paralleling it.

Wesley W. Polk, chief state highway engineer, has ordered a superhighway survey in Cook county. State officials have insisted that legislation cover the entire length of the canal, approximately 100 miles, from Ashland av. to Peru.

Super-highway plans would cover the area from its terminal inside Chicago to Summit and possibly to Lemont.

NO BARGAINING UNTIL 'PLATTER' ROW ENDS: NBC

Niles Trammell, president of the National Broadcasting company, yesterday issued a statement that the management of the network would bargain neither with the musicians' union nor an engineers' union now engaged in a bitter controversy over "pancake turners" until the question of jurisdiction has been "conclusively determined."

The national labor relations board last week certified the National Association of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians [NABET] as the proper collective bargaining agent for "platter turners" on NBC and Blue network owned and operated stations and 330 affiliated stations. James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, declined, however, to recognize this decision.

Petrillo's men for some time have been turning the platters in Chicago NBC and Blue network studios, altho NABET men do it elsewhere. Trammel asked that the status quo be maintained so "wartime broadcasting would not be hampered by any interruption of service by 'platter turners'."

Petrillo has ignored labor board decisions before and last fall declined to accede to President Roosevelt's request that he end the two year ban against "canned music," that is, records.

SCHOOL BUDGET OF $73,817,840 TO STAY AS IS

The $73,817,840 tentative budget of the Chicago board of education, on which public hearing was held Monday, will not be changed when the final budget is adopted at a board meeting tomorrow, THE TRIBUNE learned yesterday.

An increase of 2 million dollars in the educational fund tax levy will stand, James B. McCahey, board president, said, because the money is needed to prevent payless pay days for Chicago teachers before the end of this year. The budget provides no raises for teachers or others, he said.

Technically, the 2 million dollar fund, which boosts the educational fund from $53,200,000 to $55,200,000, will be used to write off uncollected taxes of 10 and more years ago, which have been carried in board accounts as an asset, altho the money was not available.

The write-off will give the board the full $53,200,000 which was allowed under a pegged levy law last year for the educational fund. The boost was possible this year under a provision that the board could levy $1.60 per $100 valuation or the flat sum, whichever was larger. Raising of Cook county property valuation in 1943 allowed the increase.

MAUDE BENNOT IS SUSPENDED AT PLANETARIUM

Miss Maude Bennot, acting director of Adler planetarium, has been suspended from her job as of today and George T. Donoghue, park superintendent, has filed charges of civil service infraction against her.

The charge is that she violated civil service rules by refusing to turn over to her superiors keys to vaults and the combination to the planetarium safe, as directed both verbally and in writing. The keys had not been turned over up to last night.

Hearing on the charges is set for 10 a. m. next Thursday after investigation of the charge by a committee named by the park board and including Stephen I. Witmanski, board member, and Stephen D. Forst.

Evan I. Kelly, brother of the mayor and supervisor of special services for the park district, will be in charge of the planetarium beginning today and Dr. H. S. Everett of the University of Chicago will give regular lectures. F. Wagner Schlesinger of Philadelphia will take charge Feb. 1.

FRAUD CHARGED TO EXECUTIVE AT KROPP FORGE

Charges of forgery and conspiracy were preferred in Felony court yesterday against Thomas J. Lane, 55, an ex-convict, by the Kropp Forge company, 5301 Roosevelt rd., Cicero, where he was employed as superintendent of maintenance.

The first charge was based upon a check for $1,459, made out to a Warsaw [Ind.] firm, which Lane allegedly forged and cashed.

In the second count Lane was accused of conspiring with unknown persons to fleece the company of more than $25,000. Assistant State's Atty. C. Vernon Thompson said a cursory examination of company books indicates that this sum may amount to $45,000.

Judge Charles S. Dougherty held Lane to the Criminal court in bonds of $25,000. Lane was reemployed by the Kropp company last April after he was freed of a charge of operating a confidence game. He resides in a hotel at 4000 Washington blvd.

FOES CITE LARGE COST OF WRITING NEW BASIC LAW

2½ Millions Spent in 1922 Attempt.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Opponents of the plan to call an Illinois constitutional convention were gathering evidence yesterday of the high cost of the last "con con," as politicians call it, in 1920-'22.

That was the only full dress attempt to revise the Illinois basic law since the present constitution was adopted in 1870. There have been countless other efforts for a convention, but all died somewhere along the long road to fulfillment.

Voters Buried Document.

It was estimated the 1920-'22 experiment cost two and a half million dollars. Expenses of the convention itself consumed the entire $500,000 which had been appropriated for the purpose. The remaining two millions were spent to hold a special election Dec. 12, 1922, at which the new constitution was submitted to the people.

Voters buried the document by voting 5 to 1 against it. Cook county voted about 20 to 1 against it, possibly on the main ground that the state income tax envisioned by the promoters of the revised constitution would weigh most heavily on pay roll wage earners. Downstaters were unwilling to change the political apportionment, under which they held two-thirds of the seats in the legislature and 15 of the 25 district seats in congress.

Daley Heads Group.

However, now both Gov. Green, No. 1 Republican leader, and Mayor Kelly, No. 1 Democratic leader, are committed to the 1945 "con con" attempt. This does not eliminate the chance that there might be a failure to get the required two-thirds majority in either house to put the proposition on the ballot at the general election in November, 1946.

Richard J. Daley, Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman and minority leader of the senate, yesterday was appointed chairman of a special committee of the Chicago Bar association to promote the "con con" movement. Also on this committee by action of James A. Sprowl, chairman of the committee on state legislation, are the following: Rep. Arrington [R., Evanston], Alfred J. Cilella, Robert T. Drake, Municipal Judge Joseph B. Hermes, Rep. Lee [R., Chicago], Edward McCausland, William McKinley, Sen. Mills [R., Chicago], Byron B. Servies, and Judge Harold G. Ward of the Superior court, former Democratic legislative leader.

He recognized their institutional garb as they walked past his station.

'Private Investigator Maclain'

(Copyright: 1945: By Baynard Kendrick.)

By Baynard Kendrick

SYNOPSIS: In the sumptuous terrace apartment of the successful novelist, Larmar Jordan, a cocktail party is in session. Capt. Duncan Maclain sits alone with his Seeing Eye dog, Schnucks. He is joined by Sarah Hanley, Larmar's agent. Out on the terrace Sybella Ford, his fiancee, is chatting with Paul Hirst, Larmar's secretary. Troy Singleton arrives. Bob Morse, reporter, tells Maclain he is doing a profile on Larmar, whose wife, Lucia, is very charming, and whose latest inamorata is Troy Singleton. Troy insists she received an invitation. Larmar accuses Lucia of sending it for some dramatic purpose.

INSTALMENT IV.

A HOBBY.

It had always been a secret irritation to Paul Hirst that his employer chose to regard him in the light of a very efficient machine.

He didn't resent Jordan's position, for the author's success added greatly to his own. But, he chafed at the spacious hand with which God had dealt bodily gifts to Larmar. Larmar was tall, expansive, casual with his women, and addicted to expensive clothes.

Paul was short. He bought expensive clothes himself, but no matter how well they were tailored, they always felt too small. In talking to Larmar, Paul always had a sensation of bending his neck back.

Actually, he was quite a decent little fellow, a trifle conceited, with a brain as sharp as they come. It was unfortunate, perhaps, that circumstances and his own capability brought him to work with Larmar. To bolster his morale, Paul had adopted the truculence of a lion in bantam rooster's clothing.

He liked his work, but he hated Larmar's parties. Larmar, who's ingrained streak of sadism occasionally showed up grinning with skeleton teeth, took a delight in never having made Paul Hirst's social position quite clear. Certain guests he might talk to, others he was expected to let severely alone.

The cocktail party was no exception. He had been doubly sandpapered by the arrival of Troy. He disapproved heartily of Larmar's philandering.

Paul liked Lucia, who was considerate of his standing in the household in her nonchalant way. Yet watching his employer over a period of years, he was still undecided as to how much any one woman meant to Larmar.

Troy, Paul believed, was the cleverest of the lot, but even she had slipped. Paul felt instinctively that her ill-timed arrival at the Jordan party would be the end of Troy.

To add to his pique, Larmar had disappeared into Lucia's bedroom and left the onus of speedily deserting guests to Paul. Somehow, under a cloak of well concealed embarrassment, he finally got rid of them all.

He went out and indulged himself in a good dinner at a near-by cafe, but it failed to relax him. Larmar's handwritten manuscript had to be typed before morning. Then, there was another job to be done.

Larmar had a hobby of ancient and modern weapons. A friend of his, Ellis Brown Mitchell, whom the gun world knew as Brownie, was at work cataloguing Larmar's extensive collection. Paul came in at 8 o'clock and found Brownie in the gun room.

"Mr. Jordan said you'd help me." Brownie pushed an old percussion cap pistol to one side and looked up with a smile. He was a stocky, compact fellow with sandy hair, scattered freckles, and soft gray eyes.

"What do you want me to do?" Paul gazed distastefully at the assortment.

Brownie took a sheaf of papers from a brief case on the floor. "I've listed the rifles." He pointed to a gun rack on the wall where 50 or more flintlocks and carbons reposed in a military row. "There's a short history of each here. Mr Jordan said you'd type them up—three carbons."

"There are always three carbons," said Paul. "The original goes out to his agent, he keeps one, and the other two help to fill up the files."

"It takes some time for me to write things down. Mr. Jordan suggested that I'd make more speed if I ran over the pistols quickly and dictated their pedigree to you."

Paul took the papers from Brownie. "Outside of this, and 15 pages of handwritten manuscript to type tonight, I haven't anything else to do."

"I'm sorry," said Brownie, "but Mr. Jordan——"

"O, don't mind me." Paul got up, went into another room, and returned with notebook and pencils. "It's a pity when Larmar's old man died he didn't take these old guns along with him. I wouldn't give 15 cents for the pistol that shot Aaron Burr."

"It was Alexander Hamilton," Brownie reminded him gently. "They fought a duel at Weehawken in 1804. They probably used Wogden's dueling pistols which were popular at that time."

"Hamilton would be just as dead if Burr had used a shotgun," Paul remarked without much interest. "Do we start on that thing?"

"Yes," said Brownie, "let's go. You can put this down—One percussion cap pistol, Ketland and Co., eight inch barrel. Hammer broken and ramrod missing. Otherwise a fine piece."

Paul looked up from his notes with a frown. "When I get thru with all this, what's Larmar going to use it for?"

"He said something about a work on ancient and modern firearms. Also I suppose, like most collectors, he'd like to have a catalog that's up to date."

"What sort of a book does he intend doing?"

"I'm not quite sure." Brownie was vague. "He suggested that we collaborate as soon as he found the time."

"Hmp!" grunted Paul. "Don't get your hopes up. Larmar will never find the time. You deal in these things, don't you?"

"Yes," said Brownie, "and Mr. Jordan has a very valuable collection here."

"You'd never know it," Paul shrugged. "What good is a catalog unless you put the prices down?"

Brownie smiled. "The prices of such things are what they will bring, Mr. Hirst. Old guns are valued by many things, the name of the maker, the state of preservation, and rarity. Even those factors don't set any determinable value. When a wealthy collector wants some piece and wants it bad, he'll really go to town. Now here's something here." He picked up a flintlock pistol with a very large bore. "This is one of the best pieces Mr. Jordan owns. A Harper's Ferry flintlock caliber 54."

"So what?" asked Paul.

Brownie handed him the pistol and he took it gingerly. "You'll notice, Mr. Hirst, that it's marked Harper's Ferry, 1804. That's very odd, as the first pistols produced in Harper's Ferry were made in 1806, and then there were only eight."

"What's it worth?"

Brownie slowly shook his head. "I've heard of one selling for five thousand dollars. This is an excellent specimen. It might even bring more."

Christ Church in Winnetka to Celebrate Debt Clearance

BY JUDITH CASS.

CHRIST CHURCH, Winnetka, which defied the market crash in 1929 to go ahead with plans for a $450,000 new chapel and parish house, will observe the clearance of the final debt on the project with a consecration service at 4 p. m. Sunday. Nearly 600 north shore residents are expected at the service, to be conducted by the Rt. Rev. Wallace E. Conkling, Episcopal bishop of the diocese, and at a tea and reception later in the guild room of the parish house.

A full vested choir of men, women, and boys will take part in the service. In the receiving line later will be Bishop Conkling, the Rt. Rev. Edwin J. Randall, suffragan bishop of the diocese, and the senior and junior wardens of the church, Ernest S. Ballard and Clarence B. Randall, and their wives.

Among the wives of vestrymen who have been invited to pour are Mrs. William T. Bacon, Mrs. Thomas B. Chace, Mrs. John K. Coolidge, Mrs. Grenville Davis, Mrs. Holden K. Farrar, Mrs. Paul C. Fulton, Mrs. Scott W. Hovey, Mrs. William A. Magie, and Mrs. Harold Wilder.

The main church was given to the village by the late Mr. and Mrs. William M. Hoyt in memory of their daughter, Mrs. Morton Fox, and her three children, who died in the Iroquois theater fire in 1903. Funds for the chapel and parish house, started 16 years ago, were raised thruout the parish, which will hold its annual meeting Tuesday. The present rector, the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard, came to the church in 1916. Mrs. Chester W. Cleveland heads the woman's guild.

Engagement News.

A good reason for the sudden cancellation of the Christmas time debut plans for Miss Julie Zischke comes to light today with the announcement from Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Zischke of Highland Park of the engagement of their daughter to Lt. Richard Allenby Jr. of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allenby, also of Highland Park. When Miss Zischke and Lt. Allenby, who was at home on leave during the holidays, decided to be married, her name was withdrawn from the debut list.

The wedding will not take place in the immediate future, however, as Miss Zischke has returned to her classes at Scripps college and Lt. Allenby has gone back to his post at Fort Monmouth, N. J., having recently completed special work at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Lt. Allenby and Miss Zischke's brother, Lt. James Zischke, also of the army, are old friends. They attended the Lake Forest academy and later Lt. Allenby was graduated from Dartmouth college, while Lt. Zischke received his degree from Yale. He is stationed at Fort Bragg. Miss Zischke attended the Roycemore school and spent one year at Vassar.

Here and There.

Mrs. Frank C. Farwell and her 7 months old daughter, Marion Douglas, are in Lake Forest this week for a short visit with Lt. Farwell's parents, the Albert Day Farwells. The young Mrs. Farwell and the baby are living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Campbell, in Grosse Pointe, Mich., while Lt. Farwell is serving with the army air forces in the Pacific.

Pvt. Robert Hixon Glore's young bride is busy with war work in New York. She is working as a draftsman for an industrial designer, while her husband is serving in the army. The junior Charles F. Glores are living not many miles away in Cambridge, Mass., where he is studying with the army at Harvard university. Another member of the Glore family, Mrs. Kellogg Beach, lives across the street from her parents' home in Lake Forest while Sgt. Beach is on duty with the army in France.

Burton Holmes, Ahoy!

As winter piles up, the tires get thinner, and the gasoline gets scarcer, thwarted travelers begin grumbling, "Where's Burton Holmes?" Mr. Holmes, ever obliging, arrives at Orchestra hall the night of Feb. 14, and this year he will talk about "The Rainbow Land of Utah," "The Great Colorado River," "Glories of Our National Parks," "Yucatan, Egypt of Mexico," and "Gay and Glamorous Guatemala." One at a time, of course, for the usual five weeks, each Wednesday and Friday night and Saturday afternoon.

Lehar and Other Lore.

Just about the time his greatest success, "The Merry Widow," arrives in Chicago, Franz Lehar is put under house arrest by the Nazis in Vienna. He is 74. Meanwhile, the musical's veteran press agent, Wallace Munro, is being coaxed to write his memoirs. He has been at the business of publicizing people since he extolled Lily Langtry. He remembers the night in the Bushmill auditorium at Hartford, Conn., when William Gillette, confronted for the first time with sound amplification, said, "If it does that to the human voice, what will it do to music?" And he remembers the old Palmer House when it cost $2 a day American plan, and the elder Palmer looked over your shoulder as you registered, so he could shake hands and say, "Glad to have you back with us, Mr. Munro."

Music Notes.

Edmund Kurtz, who left the first cellist's chair of the Chicago Symphony orchestra to go on his own, plays a Town Hall recital in New York Jan. 19 and plays the Dvorak Concerto with Toscanini Jan. 28. . . . Sidney and Louise Homer just celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at Winter Park, Fla. . . . In case you didn't know, you can buy a book called "Why Abdominal Breathing Is Fatal to Bel Canto."

Stage Notes.

Gertrude Lawrence's play folds in Detroit Saturday night for repairs. . . . When "Good Night Ladies" opens in New York Jan. 17, James Ellison will be playing opposite Skeets Gallagher. . . . Tallulah Bankhead has asked Equity to let Aubrey Mather, a British actor, appear with her in Barry's "Foolish Notion." . . . "Sadie Thompson" folded in New York because it had to gross $25,000 a week to break even.

More Notes.

"Oklahoma!" was practically sold out in St. Louis before it opened, and Paul Beisman, the theater manager, was looking for a place to hide. . . . Martin Flavin, who used to write plays, says the theater is doomed, which has a familiar sound, like opera being dead. . . . The Theater Guild features the Charleston in its musical, "Swing Out, Sweet Land," and that dance of the roaring '20s is being revived by youngsters in the lobby after the show. . . . The Detroit orchestra, which seems to have a lot of money, is offering $32,500 in prizes for a "Symphony of the Americas." The three winning works will be broadcast over the Mutual network by Karl Krueger. . . . Mary Coyle Chase, who thought up "Harvey," the invisible rabbit of New York theater fame, at first intended to have him seen by the audience. Then he wore a blue polkadot collar, a red tie, and a felt hat with holes for his ears.

Pen Women to Meet.

Chicago branch of the National League of American Pen Women will lunch at 12:30 p. m. today in the Arts club. The program will be given by Minna Schmidt, costumer, and Fredonia Shelton Greenlee.

More Women with Wings.

Northwest Airlines has created a new position to be filled by Florence Kerr, who formerly directed the federal works agency in Washington, D. C. On Jan. 1 Mrs. Kerr took over the task of arousing interest in air travel among women. Going on the assumption that so many mothers have sons flying in the war, and therefore are certain to be interested, Northwest Airlines has appointed Mrs. Kerr to put across the idea of air travel to the feminine sex.

United Air Lines employs an attractive miss by the name of Norma Craig who holds an out of the ordinary job. In the public relations office in New York Norma, plenty persuasive, works tie-in deals with large corporations [that sell merchandise to United] to get them to feature the air lines in their advertising.

American Airlines is interviewing potential stewardesses today, unmarried, between 21 and 28, with two years of college, and no extra poundage. . . . TWA also is in the mood to hire some new hostesses. Its age limit is 21 to 26, with one year of college required, and a pleasant manner is one of the major qualifications. . . . Pan American Airways, after rigidly adhering to all-male crews, has put girls on its clipper ships. They undergo two months' training, some of which is technical [having to do with the handling of international mail and immigration laws]. They must pass lifesaving, swimming, and first aid courses, be high school graduates with some business training, and "easy on the eyes."

Choosing a Career.

"Do you really believe that you should choose your career because it is the most convenient move to make at the time; because relatives and friends have talked you into it, or because the salary looks good? Is your job to which you devote one-third of your life so inconsequential you choose it as you might a head of cabbage?"—From "The Right Job for You."

Home Economics Women to Hear Iowa State Dean

The Home Economics in Business, Chicago group, meeting for dinner tonight in the Normandy House, will hear Dr. P. Mabel Nelson discuss "The Challenge of the Next Ten Years in Home Economics." Before her recent appointment as dean of home economics at Iowa State college, Dr. Nelson served as head of the food and nutrition department at the Iowa school. Miss Jessie Alice Cline arranged the program, and in charge of the dinner are the Misses Virginia Madden, Margaret Hill, and Patricia Galligan.

Daring Dresses Get Spotlight in Parade of American Styles

BY REA SEEGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 10.—Adele Simpson's new collection, displayed today by the New York Dress institute in the current press week showings of American designers' creations, is as gay and cheerful as a pot of spring daffodils. It's a collection for the young, streamlined to make the most of both slender and curved figures. All this is achieved with the magic of seaming, cutting, and superb fitting. Many of the skirts are surprisingly full, which is managed with exceptionally effective use of side drapery and by clever cutting in semi-circular outline and with soft folds.

The bare midriff went its uncovered way thruout the entire collection. Day time dresses, exciting new dinner clothes, washable cottons, and some wicked looking all-black dresses of clinging crepe were short. From those with bodice knotted at bra depth and worn with a simple gathered skirt, to the floor length dinner dresses, likewise made with the midriff exposed, they were devastating. However, an extra piece of fabric is sold with each of these rather breath-taking costumes so that those who are conservative may be properly covered.

Second to the bare midriff excitement was the group of red, white, and blue combinations, the three colors all incorporated in each costume. One had a red bolero jacket, white blouse, and navy blue skirt, another a red coat with a dress of navy blue and white, and so on.

A showing of Maurice Rentner's originals stressed revolutionary amalgamation ideas. One of these used a Czecho-Slovakian scarf in an Andalusian manner as a tie over the hip line of a skirt. Then there was the combination of an Alpine hat worn with a Chinese jacket, under which was a good old-fashioned American shirtwaist.

But when Mr. Rentner removes his tongue from his cheek and gets down to simple, flattering silhouettes, he again produces the exquisitely simple dresses that have given him the reputation for making good looking clothes.

His one piece daytime dresses with wide sleeves expertly cut in deep square outlines are somewhat Chinese in effect, but modified enough to make ideal shoulder lines for the average or not so average figures. His colors for spring are meltingly soft and infinitely becoming—lime, orchidee, pinkdust, and lotus, to name a few.

The newest jackets in the Rentner collection are dashing affairs. They are short [about 20 inches], with flared backlines managed by exceptionally skilled cutting. The collars are demure and turnover, some sleeves are wide and loose, while others are cuffed like a masculine shirt sleeve. These saucy little jackets come in fine wools in every known vivid color and are featured again in the dress and jacket twosomes. The dove gray alpaca original is easily the prize of the entire collection. Large square cut silver buttons alone make this costume an outstanding creation.

Thru the Looking Glass

It's always with a good deal of caution that we approach throat preparations. Not that the preparations in themselves aren't good. It's just that women are inclined to expect miracles of them, and we don't like to recommend such products unless they meet fairly high expectations.

For several months now we've been playing with a throat oil, and we've had some willing guinea pigs give it a stiff workout, too. We can report, and heaven knows we're glad to, that it's something the woman over 30 whose neck is beginning to look crinkly should be mighty interested in.

This is a fine, rich oil, readily absorbable by the thin, dry, neglected skin. It does a marvelous job of helping that skin fight off the ravages of time and dryness, and we would suggest it for any dry skinned woman who wants to preserve smooth, firm neck contour.

The oil, which comes in a small bottle and is used in very small quantities, is smoothed on with the fingers, stroking from the jawline well down over the collar bone, then upward again. The maker suggests that the closed fingers of the left hand be used for the up and down stroking for the right side of the neck, the right hand for the left side. The oil should also be spread over the skin that stretches over the hollows. It will be soaked up rather quickly by the skin, but leave it on overnight.

This same oil can be used during the day, too. Just an infinitesimal amount of it smoothed over the skin, worked in gently but well, and then dusted lightly with powder will make the skin look smoother and will protect it as well.

We like this as a de luxe lubricant and protective, both of which are necessary to the preservation of the quick to wrinkle skin of the neck.

Smooth Girls Give Rules on Date Conduct

BY MAUREEN DALY.

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

That "ideal boy," that fine hunk of heartbreak who's going to come along some day, is nice to think about, but how long can a smart girl go on dreaming? Time now to get started if you're ever going to climb up there beside Joan Leslie as the All-American dream gal. Here are a few suggestions from smooth girls who know their boys from first hand dating experience and want to pass on these tips for keeping your telephone on the jingle and filling your diary with something really worth writing about.

on the SOLID side

First, don't "worry" about dating. Don't let this "he likes me, he likes me not" business get you down. Fellows—like dogs—can sense when they have you scared. Don't worry your pretty head about whether you have a date every Friday night in the month, but just remember that you have a pretty head, and a pretty face, too, and let the boys discover you instead of chasing them. There is a shortage of almost everything right now and fellows come first on that list. But there are enough to go 'round—and yours will get around one of these days.

Second, be smart. Take those two words literally. Fellows like girls who know what goes with the world—who follow the war news and are interested in books, sports, music, and other people—in all the things that can make living an interesting business. So it's up to a girl to take everything she can from school and finish off the edges with a little "self-educating."

Third, be smooth. Be smooth by making the most of what you have. Make good grooming a part of your daily routine. Any girl, clean and healthy, is excellent date-bait.

Fourth, be patient. Don't stake a claim on every boy you meet and say, "this is it, kids!"

HIGH SCHOOL SPECIAL

By Suzi

A tip-off on something extra they're showing now.

Smart, smooth two piece wool jersey suits in bright and pastel colors answer the high school crowd's demand for something gay and vivid under winter coats. Here's one of the latest two piecers. The fitted jacket, with tailored details, hip pockets, and picked seams tops a slim, straight skirt with center front plait. You'll find it in a Chicago shop.

Adolescent, 16, Tries Dictating to Her Mother

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We all know that there comes a time to some young persons in their later teens when they think they know it all, and certainly know more than their parents! It is only when they actually do know more that they know how little they know—if you see what I mean—and that they begin to recognize that mother and dad are quite wise, after all.

Well, of course, we who are parents make allowances for all these things in our adolescents. But we want to be careful that we don't fall into a humble attitude, nor allow ourselves to be a little "brow beaten" by the touch of arrogance that sometimes makes its appearance at this time. Following is a letter in point:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: "My daughter is 16 years of age and would like to work on a farm. I'm worried about her. Also she wants me to go into the army as a nurse. I'm thinking of the problem I have as a mother, but I want to be patriotic, too.

"She keeps telling me to go into the army. I'm 41 years of age and do not look my age. I am wondering if in going into the army nursing I would do the right thing. Please advise me."

Here is my reply:

"Since you are a mature woman, I think you are the one who should think out for yourself what you have to do, not your daughter. I believe you would make a great mistake to subject yourself to the rigorous training that would be required to become a nurse, and then to be away from home for a long period of time—actually years. This would mean breaking up your home and being away from your daughter just at an age when she needs you very much. I would advise strongly against it.

"Also, instead of your daughter going on a farm I think she should finish her education, at least high school. If she wants to take up some special course that will fit her to earn her living later on, which might please her better than just a straight academic education, she could do so. Next summer, if your daughter still is interested in going on a farm she might join some of the young persons who have done this work each year since we have been at war.

"However, if both of you want to do war work, you could in your spare time assist the Red Cross or some nursery for the children of war working mothers."

Once in a while my staff fails to find the right recipe. A reader has asked us for a recipe for "patizza," a kind of jelly-rolled dough filled with nuts, apples, raisins, and honey. If any reader can supply this recipe, I'd appreciate it. From this correspondent's description, it isn't plain whether "patizza" is a coffee cake or a dessert.

A check for $5 still goes to some reader every day for a recipe which our contest editor thinks worthy of a prize. Sugar and point saving recipes and economical casserole dishes are especially welcomed, but any favorite recipe for which ingredients may now be obtained is eligible. Carelessly written recipes which are hard to read will not be considered. The sender's name and address should be on the recipe submitted, as envelopes and their contents often are separated in the sorting process. Write or type the recipe legibly, giving exact measurements, and complete directions.

Every recipe awarded a prize has been thoroly tested by a home economist, so readers may be assured that it is unusually good. We have a collection of prize recipes, a booklet called "Prize Winning Recipes," which sells for 30 cents by mail, or 25 cents if picked up at one of The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn, or Tribune Tower lobby. Address mail orders to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

"Meat Stretchers" and "Make It with Honey" are two cook booklets which are particularly appropriate right now when women are stretching sugar and meat rations as much as they can. Each booklet is 7 cents, by mail, or 5 cents if picked up in person.

Homemakers who plan to do a good deal of canning during 1945 may want to keep an eye peeled for the appearance of new pressure canners which will be found in retail stores this winter and next spring. Most of these cookers will be 7 or 14 quart jar sizes. New cookers will be of cast aluminum, streamlined, equipped with a rack, and also inset pans.

Need of Educating Adults for Freedom Is Told by Hutchins

Adult education in American colleges has all the faults and none of the virtues of the education of adolescents, altho the intellectual preparation of men and women for freedom may be more important in the next 10 years than the education of their children, President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago said last night.

"If every citizen ought to have a liberal education in order to make democracy work," he told trustees and faculty members at a dinner in the South Shore Country club, "then we must abandon the parody which goes by the name of adult education and build a system which will educate adults for freedom."

Of generalized cultural scholarship, President Hutchins said: "It is not merely nonexistent in this country; it is not even respectable, so complete has been the victory of specialization." Specialism, he said, has effected wonders in science, but also has promoted the "extinction of liberal education."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 10.—Hank Fonda, who is somewhere out in the South Pacific, will be brought back, still on navy duty, to do "Boomerang," written by Comdr. Bill Chamblins. Chamblins got $25,000 for it and wrote it in 72 hours. It's all about some navy men who captured a Jap destroyer and what happened to them. Reminds me of the tall tale about Hank while in boot camp. They wanted him to do a broadcast for a picture he's recently finished. He didn't want to but was ordered to do it. He turned the check [$2,500] over to his C. O. to give to his favorite charity, and, sure enough, he did—in his name, not Hank's! . . . Now that Preston Foster has signed at Metro, he'll play Judge Purvis in "The Harvey Girls." I asked if that character could lead to another Judge Hardy, and the answer was no. Two permanent judges on the same lot would be one too many. . . . Gregory Peck has a slice of Leland Hayward's play, "A Bell for Adano," so this summer he'll appear in the New York play, they hope, thereby giving Freddie March a chance to make a movie in Hollywood.

Just Ask a Daisy.

Betting around town is 7 to 4 against Kay Aldridge becoming Mrs. Arthur Cameron, even tho he did take her to Phoenix, Ariz., over the holidays to meet his father, a preacher. I love Kay's description of him [Arthur, not his father]: "Sophisticated outside, old fashioned in." . . . Judy Garland was born in Grand Rapids, Mich., and is the delight of the farmers and their daughters. So in Country Gentleman—the magazine—they voted her the most popular girl and backed it up with a jeweled cigaret case. . . . To go on with Judy, the announcement that she and Vincent Minelli would marry in early fall won't be a surprise to the people who traveled west with them recently from New York. Everybody on the train thought they'd been married in New York, and both the dining car captain and the porter addressed her as Mrs. . . . Hal Roach will be back in pictures with as sweet a little deal as anybody ever put over, soon as he returns from Mexico City.

That Norman Is Rugged.

Norman Reilly Raine, writer on "Captain Kidd," is practically in jail. You can't reach him by phone, and you have to go thru three offices to get at him. One of the last hurdles is the room of Producer Benedict Bogeaus himself. They want to start next Monday, and with a finished script. . . . Poldy Dur, so good as Adolf's niece in "The Hitler Gang," gave birth to a baby girl. . . . Frances Langford's cavalcade of overseas stars not only sold enough bonds for a $10,000,000 hospital ship but $3,000,000 over, which goes for hospital equipment. When the U. S. S. Faith goes down the ways Frances will do the christening. . . . Peter Arno, relaxing at last frontier in Las Vegas, is gathering material for a new musical. All he'll have to do is to look over the divorce situation up there and add music to what the ladies say and he's got it written for him. . . . Before Jimmy Durante and Garry Moore could get overseas Garry was reclassified 1-A. . . . Lauritz Melchior, here to do another song in "Thrill of a Romance," returns in April for "Brighton Beach." . . . Rosalind Ivan's sure going up the social scale. She'll play Lady Rhea in "Three Strangers" in scenes opposite Sydney Greenstreet. From Charles Laughton to Greenstreet in one short year isn't bad. Now she's hoping for Frankenstein. . . . Comdr. John Ford slipped quietly into Hollywood and called on his old friend, Henry King, who was doing a big scene in "A Bell for Adano." The extras all broke ranks when the scene was finished and surrounded Ford to greet him like a long lost brother. They were the gang that worked in many of Ford's great pictures. . . . Toni 7 has bought herself a little house in Benedict canyon. By her own admission, she knows nothing about antiques, yet is furnishing it exclusively in early American stuff. However, her own adornment is not early. It's late. On the right ear she wears nothing; on the left, a large gold hoop, and in the center of it, a cutout 7!

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Pass	Pass	2 hearts
2 spades	3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ace of Spades.

Yesterday we observed a case in which a four card minor was selected as trump in preference to a six card major suit which partner had vigorously supported. The purpose was to employ the longer suit in the useful occupation of providing discards.

Today we present a case in which South made an extremely unorthodox bid in selecting the shorter of his two suits for an over-call. When East failed to keep his partner's spade bid alive it was naturally up to South to act. The conventional procedure with this holding is to make a takeout double. It was a moral certainty in view of the opening bid that if North and South were to score game it could be only in hearts. If South made the orthodox double North might respond in the major suit and then the king of spades would come down in dummy and be attacked in the opening lead. He therefore decided to bid two hearts. West rebid despite partner's pass and North offered a raise. South's move to game was born of an adventurous spirit and West's opening lead of the ace of spades was apparently the product of desperation. While such an attack is not to be recommended, nevertheless it must be conceded that West was in an unenviable position as far as selecting a lead is concerned.

West continued with the queen of spades and declarer was in with the king. The next problem was the play of the trumps. Holding nine of the suit the normal procedure is to play for the drop but South made an interesting deduction at trick one. The lead of the ace of spades marked East with the king of clubs despite his pass, for if West had held the ace and king of clubs he would hardly have been up against the extremity of having to lead from the ace-queen of spades. Since East is known to have the king of clubs it is hardly likely that he will also show up with the queen of hearts since with that honor holding he would probably have kept the bidding open.

Declarer therefore cashed the ace of hearts and followed with the jack and when West played low permitted it to ride. When the queen of diamonds dropped, two clubs were discarded from dummy and declarer made an overtrick.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

As South you hold:
♠ K 2 ♥ Q J 5 ♦ A J 9 3 ♣ A Q 7 4

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	2 clubs	Pass

This Home-Mixed Cough Syrup Is Most Effective

Easily Mixed. Needs No Cooking.

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of plain syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough relief. Promptly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Educators Rip U. S. Military Training Plans

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 10.—Postwar military training plans of President Roosevelt and top government military officials were denounced as dictatorial steps toward extending totalitarianism in this country, at a meeting of 500 religious and educational leaders here today.

Addressing the 31st annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges in the most important educational conference scheduled for this year, Dr. Paul H. Bowman, president of Bridgewater college in Virginia, termed the plans an invitation to future world strife. Dr. Albert G. Parker Jr., president of Hanover college, Hanover, Ind., also attacked peace-time military training.

The college group is scheduled to adopt an official policy toward conscription at tomorrow's session. Some of its church-related component units already are on record advising congressional delay in consideration of the question until after the war, and some groups are known to oppose conscription except in times of war.

Demanding congressional rejection of bills already introduced, Dr. Bowman said:

"Many thoughtful citizens see patterns of life emerging in this country which are suggestive of the early days of nazism and fascism in Europe. These fears may not be well founded, but they are genuine and tend to disrupt national unity. The adoption of a compulsory system of military training extended beyond this war will increase these fears and divide the public at a time when national unity is imperative."

Dr. Parker declared that because the national administration had failed in its promise to train men for peace as well as war, when selective service began operation, "we have reason to rebel and to question the adequacy of our leadership."

"We haven't the people trained now in America for establishing a peace," he continued. "Too few of our national leaders have had any contact or training that they may understand thoroly the problems of other peoples which must be solved along with our own problems if a peace is to be maintained. We can have this training for peace at less cost than we can have universal military training."

One of the association's component groups—the national commission on Christian higher education, representing 425 church colleges—adopted a resolution urging congressional delay on the pending bills because of "insufficient evidence" that a year's training would achieve preparedness. The group advocated creation of a committee of representative interests to study the best means of achieving security, and report to congress. Another group—the council of church boards of education, representing 24 Protestant groups with 30 million members—also adopted a resolution advocating congressional delay.

Plan Teen-Age Centers as Bar to Delinquency

Describing itself as alarmed at the spread of juvenile delinquency, the committee on juvenile delinquency of the Junior Association of Commerce of Chicago yesterday disclosed plans to fight the tendency in Chicago with a program of moral and spiritual training for the city's youth.

The program calls for establishment of "Teen town" recreation centers thruout the city and greater use of the "release time" system for religious education of school children.

It was described by James E. Bell, chairman of the committee, after a meeting yesterday with other committee members, Tom Frundt, project director of the association, and John Snyder and Walter H. Hill, in the association's offices at 1 N. La Salle st.

"We propose first to establish a 'Teen town' center on the west side," Bell said, "to be followed by youth recreation centers in other parts of the city."

In taking this action, Bell said, the Junior association is following the recommendations of the United States Chamber of Commerce that the nation's youth needs a total education which includes moral and spiritual training and recreation developed under its own responsibility.

The first meeting toward establishment of a west side club will be held at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the Second Baptist church, 1857 Jackson blvd. Parents and business men of the community are invited, and other meetings will be held later.

The type of club proposed is similar to those established by civic and business groups in other cities. Donations will be used to pay rent and provide phonographs, records, and soft drink bars.

A "release time" program, in which children are released from class a certain period each week for religious education, is in effect in 150 Chicago schools but the percentage of pupils using it is small, Bell said. The move was sponsored by the Federation of Churches of Chicago and has the indorsement of all church groups. The religious education course is elective and pupils are instructed by members of their respective denominations.

There are 600 cities using this plan thruout the United States but only 16 in Illinois, Bell said.

The Association for Family Living yesterday presented the first of six lectures on "Adolescence—The Timeless Teen Age." The lectures will be presented each Wednesday in the association's offices at 209 S. State st.

WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin
By George Rector
Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

CHASE THE CHILLS AWAY—

These are the days when a steaming dish of hot flavorful soup kindles a warm comfortable glow deep down inside. For a satisfying nutritious family meal, serve soup or chowder like grandmother did, in a covered tureen. This keeps the soup hot and is conveniently at hand for second servings.

Navy Bean Chowder

1 slice Wilson's Certified Bacon
1 tbsp. Wilson's Bake-Rite
½ cup onions, minced
1 cup potatoes
4 cups water
½ cup celery
⅛ tsp. pepper
2 tsp. salt
½ bay leaf
2 tsp. Wilson's B-V
2 tbsp. chili sauce (scant)

Sort and wash the beans. Soak overnight in water to cover. Cook until soft. Cut bacon in small pieces and fry slowly in soup kettle. Add Wilson's Bake-Rite and onions and cook 5 minutes. Add potatoes, water, celery, salt, pepper, bay leaf and cooked beans. Simmer ½ hour or until potatoes are soft. Add chili sauce and Wilson's B-V which has been dissolved in some of the hot liquid. Stir, cook 3 minutes longer. Serve with crackers or bread sticks. Serves 6.

SOUPS ARE SAVERS

The art of soup making is a thrifty one, for soups make the most of a little food and make many menu changes possible. Regardless of how successful you are as a soup-maker, you'll find B-V a great help in adding a fine meaty flavor that gives "oomph" to any soup. Get into the habit of serving more delicious wholesome soups for both family and company meals. Grandmother served them often because they were satisfying and you know they're nutritious and point-saving too.

"Perk Up" Your Soups

Variety in accompaniment always adds spice to the soup course. Float carrot flowers, croutons or tiny dumplings to enliven a hearty soup. Bread sticks, cheese straws, Melba toast and cheese puffs all lend sparkle. Here's a quick way to make bread sticks. Slice bread ¾ inch thick, remove crusts, cut each slice in 3 or 4 finger lengths. Arrange on baking sheet and dry in a very slow oven, 200° F. until lightly brown throughout.

Enough for All

Make plenty of chowder for seconds all around—but limit the number of dishes in the menu. With the navy bean chowder, I serve a generous sized head lettuce salad with Chiffonade dressing and pumpkin or apple pie. Chiffonade dressing is made by adding to each cup of French dressing, 1 hard cooked Clear Brook egg (chopped), ½ tsp. grated onion, 3 tbsp. minced green pepper and 1 tbsp. minced parsley.

Limiting the menu to three dishes allows everyone to eat their fill of this delicious chowder.

Sincerely,
GEORGE RECTOR

PRO LEADERS VOTE SURPRISE ADJOURNMENT

Marshall Declares Action Illegal.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The annual winter meeting of the National Football league came to a sudden, dramatic finish yesterday afternoon when the executive committee recommended that it be adjourned until next April in New York. The drama was furnished by the Washington Redskins' owner, George Preston Marshall, who, after declaring an adjournment would be illegal, stalked out of the meeting in the Blackstone hotel.

Elmer Layden, president of the league, issued this terse statement and declined to elaborate on it:

"The National Football league today met and adjourned until the spring meeting in April."

Marshall Explains His Walk.

Marshall, noted for his exhibition of temperament in the league's council rooms, made this statement in explaining why he took a walk:

"I quote from our rules: 'After the date and time of the annual meeting, or any special meeting, have been set by the committee, a unanimous vote of the members shall be necessary to change such a date.'"

George Marshall. Elmer Layden.

Marshall obviously desired that the league lose no time in getting on with its business, such as what to do with an unwieldy 11 team organization and the drafting of college players, which this year will number 330, with 30 to each eleven.

Cites League Custom.

Layden declined to comment on Marshall's action. Apparently only the Washington owner was opposed to the adjournment. Fred Mandel Jr., owner of the Detroit Lions, pointed out that it has been the custom of the league to hold its big pre-season conference in April.

It was explained that the league transacted no business, but the 11 owners, or their representatives, were in session behind closed doors from 12:20 to 2:15 p. m. Members of the executive committee are Jack Mara of the New York Giants, E. L. [Curly] Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers, Tom Gallery of the Brooklyn Tigers, and Charles Bidwill of the Chicago Cardinals.

Several Proposals Tabled.

By its action the league automatically tabled several changes which had been suggested Tuesday by the rules committee.

A poll of the club owners revealed they are confident professional football will operate next season.

Coaches Open 1st War Time Meet Today

Columbus, O., Jan. 10 (AP).—Rumors and rules vied for the spotlight tonight as a score of the nation's top ranking college football coaches gathered for their convention tomorrow, first since the start of the war. They'll meet in conjunction with the annual session of the National Collegiate Athletic association.

The top figures in the rumor department were W. A. [Bill] Alexander, veteran coach at Georgia Tech, and Carroll Widdoes, who directed Ohio State to a Big Nine championship and an undefeated and untied season.

Brings Assistant to Meeting.

Alexander, who has been reported ready to retire from active coaching, said, "You have seen the reports and until something definite is done I have no comment to make." He added, however, "I have brought Bob Dodd, my assistant, with me to meet these coaches and get acquainted and I guess I can't keep you from speculating."

Widdoes still had nothing to say about reports he was being considered as head coach at Cornell. "I know nothing about it," he said. The rumor factory, however, produced the report he would be approached by a representative of Cornell this week.

Discuss Rules Experiments.

The rules subject brought up the question of changes made by eastern schools last season which, among other things, permitted passing from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage and prohibited out of bounds kickoffs.

Lou Little, football coach at Columbia and acting secretary of the National Coaches association, has polled the nation's coaches on what they thought of the eastern changes but he declined to disclose the results. He said however that the changes worked out very well. It is certain the eastern changes will come before the coaches' rules committee when it meets tomorrow.

Hawks Make an Optimist of Skeptical Boss

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Paul Thompson, who has been manager of the Blackhawks for a longer term than any other human ever experienced, yesterday forecast a victory for the Hawks in their big homecoming, or post-Sonja Henie game in Chicago Stadium Sunday night.

"I can't remember when I have predicted a victory for the Hawks," said the harassed skipper, "but I am confident we'll nose out the Boston Bruins Sunday night.

"We are a better hockey team than when we started rebuilding several weeks ago. We are not going to set the league on fire, I fear, but we have improved enough to take our first game of the season from the Bruins."

Thompson bases his optimism, he said, on a pickup in team spirit as much or more than possible added ability. He says he has been greatly encouraged by the aggressiveness of Cully Simon and Don Grosso, an aggressiveness not to be taken as a matter of course, in view of the fact the pair left the Detroit Red Wings, now in first place in the National league standings, to join the Blackhawks,

PREP OFFICIALS OF 33 STATES MEET TONIGHT

Representatives of 33 state high school associations, members of the National Federation of High School Athletic associations, will meet in the Continental hotel tonight and tomorrow. The group will discuss athletic and physical fitness problems which affect the high school program.

The principal address at the first general session tonight will be by Dr. John W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education. Other speakers include Julian W. Smith, Michigan state director of athletics; John K. Archer, secretary New York State Athletic association; S. B. Sullivan, high school principal of De Kalb, Ill.; and Lyle Quinn, secretary Iowa State association. President R. E. Rawlins of Pierre, S. D., will preside. Welcoming comments will be given by Glenn C. Worst.

Louis Sees Robinson Stop Ferrone in Second Round

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis was a ringside spectator, as Ray [Sugar] Robinson, Detroit, technically knocked out Billy Ferrone, Philadelphia, in the second round of a scheduled 10 round welterweight bout tonight.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

[While Arch Ward, Tribune sports editor and regular conductor of this column, is on vacation, the Wake will be prepared by members of the sports staff.]

BILL SHAUL of Minneapolis, at 62 the oldest contestant in the recent Tribune sponsored individual match game bowling tournament, was once an opera singer and appeared on several Chicago stages. . . . His voice still is a rich baritone. . . . Pitcher Ollie Byers of the Indianapolis Indians of the American association is director of physical education and head basketball coach at South Williamsport [Pa.] High school. . . . Ensign Charley Keller, former Yankee outfielder, has completed his first round trip in the Atlantic and now is serving in the Pacific area. . . . Charley always was a great hand at getting around. . . . In Rogers Hornsby's opinion, the major leagues had only three good pitchers last season—Morton Cooper of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Hal Newhouser and Paul Trout, both of the Detroit Tigers. . . . The Garbark brothers—Mike of the Yankees and Bob of the Athletics—each batted .261 in 1944. . . . Mrs. William McKechnie, wife of the manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is near complete recovery from injuries suffered in an automobile accident. . . . Al Superstein, 18 year old outfielder slated for a trial with the Brooklyn Dodgers next season, is an amateur hockey star in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. . . . Bill Hinchman, Pirate scout, is working in the Columbus [O.] postoffice. . . . Jubilee Time, greyhound, was sold for $9,100 in London. . . . The price set a record for Great Britain. . . . Honus Wagner led the National league in two base hits eight times.

Don't call us a liar—because this was checked with the record book: The Chicago Cardinals once ran up a string of five straight victories over the Green Bay Packers in two years' time. . . . The Cards, after dropping the first of three games to the Packers in 1934, blanked the Wisconsin eleven that same year, 9 to 0, and 6 to 0. . . . The Chicagoans swept a three game series in 1935 by scores of 7 to 6, 3 to 0, and 9 to 7. . . . Drop kicks for field goals and extra points by Paul Pardonner, the old Purdue quarter back, were important items in all three of these triumphs. . . . Since then, the Cards have whipped the Packers only once. . . . That was by 14 to 7 in 1937. . . . The morning of the day the Packers left for Charlottesville, Va., to train for the title game with the New York Giants, Tackle Tiny Croft's wife gave birth to a son. . . . An hour after the club had returned home following its triumph, the wife of Guard Pete Tinsley became the mother of a boy. . . . All of which slightly distressed Don Hutson, father of three children, all girls, and referred to by his mates as the "Eddie Cantor of football." . . . President Bill Veeck of the Milwaukee Brewers believes American association umpires should have more pay. . . . More American league pitchers are in military service than players from any other position.

And it's said to have been concocted
From a simple wayside flower.

From a flower that grows along roadsides

Till the day when a master hand
In some strange way discovers

And now to thousands of suffering souls
New hope has been given birth.

While ambitions run rampant and rife

CHAMPAIGN AND URBANA SEEK SKATE HONORS

2 Champions to Lead Team of 16.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

John Martin and Scotty Wallace, who hold three Silver Skates championships, will lead a team of 16 boys and girls from the Champaign-Urbana Skating club in the 28th Chicago Tribune Derbies Jan. 20 and 21 in Garfield park. Martin won the 1942 junior and 1943 intermediate Silver Skates titles while Wallace was the 1944 juvenile champion.

While the Champaign-Urbana skaters probably have little chance to win the Walter Eckersall memorial team trophy, now defended by the Catholic Youth organization, the downstate squad has always produced excellent contestants who win several of the 48 prizes offered in the eight Derbies. Martin and Wallace, of course, are the leading contestants for 1945 honors. The former will skate in the men's two mile Derby while Wallace is entered in the boy's junior race.

Wallace Enters Team.

The Champaign-Urbana team, entered by Prof. G. I. Wallace, follows:

Men's senior—John Martin.
Boys' intermediate—Stan Burke, Jim Hallbeck, Gene Daniels.
Boys' junior—Scotty Wallace, Richard Martin, Bill Perring.
Boys' juvenile—Joe Prather, Frank Keck, John Gordon.
Girls' senior—Emily Bacon, Majorie Lorenz.
Girls' intermediate—Mary Ellen Christie.
Girls' junior—Betty Taft, Janet Montgomery, Jackie Schreiner.

Four days remain in which entries will be accepted for the Tribune Silver Skates. All letters must be postmarked before midnight Sunday. Four age classes for contestants under 16 will skate qualifying races Jan. 20. The other four age classes report for qualifying races Jan. 21, and the semi-finals and championships in all Derbies will follow.

Team entries received yesterday include Brentano playground, William A. Horschke, instructor; Horan playground, Marg McCarthy and James O'Boyle, instructors; Gary playground, N. F. Preo, instructor; Tilton playground, Robert Fischer, instructor; Moran playground, John Fahey and Catherine Costello, instructors; Hayt playground, A. W. Bahusky, instructor, and Budlong playground, Henry Meyer, instructor.

Skate in Humboldt Park.

Chicago skaters will compete in the Peirce playground races Saturday and the C. Y. O. Derbies Sunday in final preparation for the Silver Skates Derbies the following weekend. Events this week will be held at Humboldt park. Point totals for all races sanctioned by the Illinois Skating association are added for the season, and Lowell Miller of the C. Y. O. now is leading for the 1945 individual title in the men's division.

Gears Quintet Loses, 46-45, to Sheboygan

The Sheboygan Redskins, leaders in the western division of the National Basketball league, defeated the American Gears of Chicago in the Coliseum last night, 46 to 45.

Half time found the Gears behind, 24 to 15, but with three minutes left in the final period they were ahead, 41 to 39, due largely to the efforts of Stan Patrick, former Illini star, who scored 20 points. The Gears led, 45 to 44, with two minutes to go, but the Redskins went ahead during the next minute and held the ball for the last 60 seconds. In a preliminary girl's game the Chicago White Liners beat the Milwaukee Harnischfegers, 40 to 6. Lineups:

WHAT'S THIS FOR, MOMMIE?

Under the proud—and watchful—supervision of his mother, Bobby Bomar, the year old son of Buddy, one of the nation's top bowlers, inspects trophy which his dad won in the All-Star tournament last month, sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and Bowling Proprietors' Association of America. Inset is a picture of Papa Bomar, national singles and doubles match game champion, in his office. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Buddy Bomar, Bowler, Makes Bomar, Prophet, Look Good

"Do you want to know something? The Chopper and I are going to knock off that national doubles next week!"

There was something about Buddy Bomar's disclosure which lent the suggestion that, no matter how the rest of the world might feel toward such a prediction, Bomar himself was certain of his ground and of his statement.

It was made in May, 1944, the month in which Bomar and Bill [Chopper] Flesch, Bud's captain and teammate on the Monarch Beers of the Classic league, fulfilled Buddy's promise, winning the national two-man match game bowling title from Ned Day and Rudy Pugel, the Milwaukee pair who shortly before had taken it from Nelson Burton and Frank Mataya of St. Louis.

Again, as recently as last November, Bomar turned soothsayer. "Who's your pick to win the national singles?" he was asked. "I think I have as good a chance as any one," was his candid answer.

He Bats 1.000 As Prophet.

Then Mr. B. proceeded to capture the national individual match game crown, displacing Chicago's Paul Krumske as champion, after the latter had won the title from Day in a challenge match, only 14 days earlier. In gaining his second national title in seven months, Bomar waded thru the competition of one of the toughest tenpin fields ever assembled, in an elimination presented by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America.

That Bomar and Fiesch won the doubles and Bomar the singles not only attests to Bud's accuracy as a prophet, but it provides ample proof that Bomar has his share of an ingredient of all real champions—self assurance; a firmly founded faith in his own capability to bowl and to win when the stakes are highest.

Arrives with a Bang.

Bomar was born in Ardmore, Okla., Sept. 27, 1915. That a terrific explosion in the yards of the Santa Fe railroad leveled nearly half the town 15 minutes before Bud's arrival perhaps presaged an event of major significance. At any rate, Bud survived the catastrophe and faced the world with the imposing title of Herbert Booth Bomar, only to have his 4 year old brother, Walter, substitute the well known "Buddy."

Buddy attended Ardmore High school and had one year at the University of Oklahoma, where he began a course in business administration. He had found bowling to his liking, however, and his experiments were successful enough to warrant his moving to Fort Worth, Tex., to take a position as alley manager. He was there until 1938 when he hopped over to Dallas to work in the establishment of Jackie Tavener, former major league baseball player. It was here he inaugurated the famous Bomar Diamond Medal Classic which, for the last two years has had a prominent spot on Chicago's calendar of tenpin events.

He Moves to Chicago.

In 1942, while employed in Houston at the Playdium, he decided if he were to realize his ambitions he'd have to locate in the center of the bowling world, so he moved to Chicago, working first at Gateway Recreation before moving to Bryn Mawr on the south side, where he was manager. Eight months later he shifted to the north side at Marigold Arcade where he remained until last month. Upon winning the national singles title, he was signed up by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company, bowling equipment manufacturers, who also have on their roster of instructors and exhibition bowlers Day, Frank Benkovic of Milwaukee, and Walter Ward of Cleveland.

Any recital of the highlights of the Bomar career must include his 209 and 211 averages in two of Dallas' fastest leagues; his Classic league average for the last half of the 1943-'44 season of 214; his fourth place in the Petersen Spring Classic in Detroit in 1943; his four A. B. C. tournament efforts, including his 1,806 all-events in St. Paul in 1941; his holding of three all-time Texas and Tri-State [Oklahoma-Kansas-Texas] tournament records; his 31 perfect games, five in as many weeks, and three in A. B. C. sanctioned competition; and, of course, the two national match game championships he now holds.

Bobby's Birthday Is Memorable.

His greatest bowling thrill came in St. Louis in 1940 when, needing three strikes in the 10th frame, he went out and got 'em to win top prize of $1,000 in the Waibel singles classic. His hobbies include, beside his family, duck hunting, fishing, golf, at which he shoots around 85, and dancing with Mrs. Bomar, the former Rosemarie Hall of Dallas, whom he married in December, 1941.

Mrs. Bomar, incidentally, is chief custodian of the Bomar bowling trophies and records and she takes pride in the neat scrapbook devoted to the achievements of her husband. Then, too, she has an even more important chore, that of caring for Robert Bruce Bomar, age 1 year, 1 month and 1 day, as of today. Bobby arrived the day his dad was competing in the 1943 All-Star tourney and celebrated his first anniversary the day Buddy won the national singles championship.

BORYLA LEADS IRISH OFFENSE WITH 25 POINTS

Great Lakes Routs Glenview, 81-59.

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 10 [Special].—The same tense rivalry that marked football games between Notre Dame and Iowa's Seahawks made its presence felt on the basketball court tonight and a mild mixup between players occurred, with seven seconds remaining in the game in which the Irish emerged victors, 49 to 44.

Seventh Victory for Irish.

Three times during the final period the Seahawks drew within a point of Notre Dame, but the Irish were able to exert sufficient scoring pressure to turn in their seventh victory of the season.

After the Seahawks, who had been favorites to win tonight's game, had taken a lead of 11 to 6, Vince Boryla, Irish center, sparked a rally that enabled Notre Dame to hold a 29 to 22 advantage at half time. The opening 10 minutes of the final period found the Cadets closing the gap to within a point. With five minutes of the game remaining, the Seahawks were trailing, 42 to 41, but the Irish at this point scored seven points and staved off repeated Pre-Flight sorties.

Boryla Repeats Performance.

Boryla, for the second time this season, gave Iowa fans a demonstration of accurate basket shooting. On the occasion of Notre Dame's recent game with the University of Iowa, the Irish center scored 26 points and he came within one point of that mark tonight, with 10 field goals and five free throws.

T. S. Ary, Joe Holland, and Jim Klein shared scoring honors for the navy five with nine points apiece. Lineups:

Jim Sherrer Predicted as Next Champ

BY FRANK MASTRO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 10.—Fans here are predicting that the next world welterweight champion may be James P. Sherrer Jr., 19 year old art student who is finishing preparations at the Recreation building gymnasium in nearby West Allis for an eight round bout with Jack Eaton of Detroit in the Chicago Coliseum Friday night.

He is considered the most promising Negro prospect since Ray [Sugar] Robinson first gained recognition in intercity Golden Gloves competition in New York seven years ago. Chicago and Cincinnati may have their George Costner, but Milawukee is proud of its Jimmy.

Defeat Brings Prominence.

Sherrer, who is under the comanagement of Lou and Joey Sangor, the latter the last great boxer developed in Milwaukee, was not taken seriously by Milwaukeeans until he lost a disputed decision in eight rounds to Gene Gudgill of Dayton, O., in this city on New Year's afternoon.

It was Jim's first professional setback and snapped his string of 10 straight victories, eight of which were knockouts. He floored Gudgill once each in the sixth and eighth rounds.

Golden Glove Veteran.

He started boxing in 1941 and enrolled in the Milwaukee sectional Golden Gloves tournament the following year. He captured the Golden Gloves welterweight title last year and represented the Milwaukee Journal in the Tournament of Champions in Chicago Stadium. He reached the semi-finals before being eliminated by Pvt. James Barrata of Chanute field and Chicago.

MARK SNEAD AS MAN TO BEAT IN PHOENIX OPEN

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 10 (AP).—Fellow professional golfers knew tonight that the man they have to beat in the $5,000 Phoenix Open is Sammy Snead.

The Hot Springs, Va., star became the favorite in the 72 hole tournament starting Friday when he toured the local country club course 66 again today—his second successive five under par practice round.

George Schneiter, Salt Lake City, who placed 12th in the Los Angeles Open, was close behind Sammy today with a practice 67.

Harold [Jug] McSpaden, Sanford, Me., winner of the 1944 Phoenix title, was in good form with a 69.

STATE IS ASKED TO LIBERALIZE GAME SEASONS

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois hunters and fishermen will enjoy more liberal seasons and bag limits this year and in 1946 if the recommendations of Livingston Osborne, state director of conservation, are accepted by the state legislature.

Osborne yesterday asked the lawmakers to lengthen the pheasant hunting season to 16 days instead of the 10 day season which has been in effect for several years. He also asked for abolition of the size limit, daily bag limit, and possession limit on crappies and bluegills, which if enacted into law, would permit anglers to take any number of these panfish, regardless of size.

The conservation director also urged the legislature to declare a year-around open season on foxes as result of complaints from many counties that foxes are increasing so fast that they are menacing the rabbit and game bird populations.

Osborne recommended that the pheasant season last from Nov. 15 to 30, instead of the Nov. 11 to 20 period now in effect. He asked a continuation of the daily limit of two male birds per day. He urged that the 30 day quail season run from Nov. 15 to Dec. 15, instead of from Nov. 11 to Dec. 11. The rabbit season, which has been opening concurrently with the pheasant shooting period, would be shortened, if Osborne's recommendations are accepted, since he asked that the cottontail season open Nov. 20 and continue thru January.

Mikan Leader in Scoring Race with 209 Points

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—With a total of 80 field goals and 49 free throws, big George Mikan of De Paul university, Chicago, leads the National College Basketball scoring race with 209 points, an Associated Press tabulation showed today.

The six foot nine inch giant, who has sparked De Paul to basketball prominence, holds a 32 point lead over the 177 compiled by Bill Henry of Rice in the Southwest conference. Ernie Calverley of the never-stop-breaking Rhode Island Staters is third with 176 points altho he has played only seven games compared to nine for Henry and 10 for Mikan.

Henry has collected 68 field goals and 41 fouls to Calverley's 70 goals and 36 one-point

PREPARE 2 SHIPS FOR DOWN RIVER VOYAGE TO GULF

Two of the three maritime commission cargo ships which were brought to Chicago in a record breaking winter time passage thru the Soo locks and the Straits of Mackinac yesterday were at the 16th st. dismantling dock being prepared for the final leg of their voyage down the Mississippi river to the Gulf of Mexico.

The third ship, which was not completed, left the convoy on Tuesday and laid up at Milwaukee, Wis., where workmen will put on the finishing touches. This ship, the Hidalgo, will come here later to make the passage down to the gulf.

At the dismantling dock the ships must be prepared to pass under the stationary Sag bridge, two miles below Lockport, which has a clearance of only 39 feet four inches, and to float over the shallows in sections of the Mississippi.

Fidley Deck Removed.

This dual problem is solved by ripping off the fidley deck, the highest deckhouse on a cargo ship, the mast and booms and by attaching huge pontoons to the sides of the ship. The fidley deck, which carries exhaust outlets, pipes and electrical equipment, is taken apart and stored in the holds. The mast and booms are lashed to the deck.

Each ship will have four 20 by 60 foot steel pontoons lashed to her, two on the port side and two on the starboard. To pass under the Sag bridge these pontoons will be left filled with water and additional water ballast will be added to the ship herself. After the bridge has been cleared the water will be blown out of the pontoons and they then will have a total lifting power of 120 tons. The ships will have a draft of only 8 feet 3 inches with this lift.

The record breaking voyage which brought the three cargo ships here from Superior, Wis., where they were built, was made possible by the new coast guard ice crusher, the Mackinaw.

Smashes Thru Ice.

At times the Mackinaw had to exert all of its 10,000 horsepower to smash thru more than a foot of solid ice and windrows of ice built up six or seven times that high. The entire Soo locks and upper lakes region are ice bound from Dec. 15 to April 15.

The Mackinaw is able to combat ice of this thickness, or of even greater thicknesses, because of a bow propeller which is used to churn the water beneath the ice in such a way that it can raise or lower the pressure on the ice ahead of the ship. The ice then is easier to crack. The propeller also is used to chop the ice.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

FORECAST DROP IN BEEF SUPPLY UNDER CEILING

$18 Cattle Lid Held Bar to Choice Cuts.

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—The American people are going to have less beef as a result of Stabilization Director Vinson's order today setting a ceiling of $18 per hundred pounds on cattle, Chicago basis, and increasing packers' subsidies, members of congress from beef producing states predicted.

Senators and congressmen said they believed the ceiling would slow the flow of beef to markets and would make choice cuts virtually unobtainable. Feeders would be particularly hard hit, it was said.

Vinson's order will become effective Jan. 29. It stipulates that the ceiling will drop to $17.50 July 2. A ceiling of $17.50 from the outset had been proposed, but 50 cents was added, Vinson said, to protect feeders who had purchased cattle for sale in the next six months.

Sen. Butler [R., Neb.] said senators and representatives from beef producing states will meet soon to seek a remedy for the beef situation which he said would be "chaotic" as a result of Vinson's order.

"Can Be but One Result."

"I regret that the stabilization director has approved the OPA suggestions," Butler said in a senate speech. "There can be but one result—that will be less beef at a time when beef is critically needed.

"Again the office of price administration has violated the confidence of the American people, this time amending the rules covering the production of beef after having encouraged farmers to fill their feed lots in the belief that no changes were being considered.

"Congress should perhaps pass legislation guaranteeing prices to the producers of beef for a period of time following the close of the war, as we have already done on some items."

Sen. Robertson [R., Wyo.], a cattle rancher, said he believed the ceiling, if necessary, should have been set as high as $20 or $21 to eliminate black markets and encourage the proper flow of beef to market.

"Just Prune Juice."

Sen. Reed [R., Kan.] termed Vinson's contention that the ceiling would eliminate black markets "just prune juice." He said the resulting beef shortage will encourage them.

Rep. O'Connor [D., Mont.] called the directive "unnecessary" and said it would only confuse beef producers whose costs are increasing.

In addition to establishing the ceiling on live cattle, Vinson directed the Defense Supplies corporation to increase subsidy payments on choice [grade AA] beef from $1 to $2 and on good [grade A] beef from $1.45 to $1.95 per 100 pounds, live weight. The subsidy on choice will be reduced 50 cents July 2.

The stabilization price range on choice and good cattle was ordered increased by the same rate as the subsidy.

In a step designed to compel cattlemen to concentrate on producing more low grade beef, Vinson told the OPA and war food administration to issue an order setting maximum percentages on the choice and good cattle any slaughterer may kill or deliver in one month.

TRADE OPINIONS DIFFER

Economic Stabilization Director Vinson's announcement yesterday of a cattle ceiling met varying comment from the trade.

Most packer and live stock producer representatives believed the new order would not change consumer prices, already held under ceilings, but there were conflicting views on whether the consumers might get more meat. Stock yards spokesmen declared that difficulties in the beef situation will not be ironed out by a ceiling on live cattle, and said further that the order is "the most complicated thing the OPA and the war food administration yet have tackled."

"If vigorously enforced, the order should help in drying up the black market in beef and in making available additional quantities of beef to the armed forces," said the American Meat Institute.

"We are hopeful that the action will bring relief to the cattle and beef end of the business, which it urgently needed for more than a year," the institute continued. "We regret that provision was not made for the slaughter payments [the so-called subsidy] to be made directly to the persons it is designed to benefit; namely, the producers and growers of cattle. We sincerely hope the government now will give attention to the extremely unsatisfactory situation prevailing in the pork end of the business."

P. O. Wilson, secretary-manager of the National Live Stock Producers association, declared the order was "just one more example of the lack of complete understanding by government officials of what it takes to get beef produced."

MARKET NOT AFFECTED

The cattle ceiling announcement had no effect on the Chicago stock yards market for prime steers yesterday. Despite abnormally low supplies, bids for many of the best offered were $1 a hundred pounds below the maximum set. The $17.15 top was lowest for a Wednesday since last May, and $1.35 below the 1944 high of $18.50, paid frequently during November and December. Steady to strong prices were paid for most steers, yearlings, and other cattle.

Ceiling prices were paid for nearly all hogs. The average was unchanged, at $14.70. Lambs were mostly steady.

WFA Predicts Food Decline from '44 Level

BY GAIL COMPTON.

This year's food supply will not be as large as last year's, Lee Marshall, director of the supply and marketing service of the war food administration, said last night at the opening session of the 17th annual convention of the National Council of Farmers' Coöperatives in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

The supply will be slightly larger than the 1935-'39 average, and quality will be good enough to meet nutritional standards. He said the variety, however, may not be wide enough to please full pocketbooks.

He made these predictions:

Meat—A shorter supply than in 1944. Last year's per capita consumption of 145 pounds probably will drop 10 or 15 pounds this year. Beef supplies about the same, but less pork, veal, and lamb.

A Little More Poultry.

Poultry—Supplies will be a little larger than last year.

Sugar—The supply will be tight because the nation has a smaller reserve than usual and military needs have increased.

Butter—There will be less for civilians than in 1944.

[Because of larger overseas military demands, civilian butter supplies will be reduced again under a war food administration order yesterday to set aside 20 per cent of production in February. The set aside will be 25 per cent in March. Original plans were for no deductions until April, the start of seasonally large production.]

Fluid milk—A larger supply.

Evaporated milk—Just enough to meet essential civilian needs.

Powdered whole milk—Almost all will go for military use.

Powdered skim milk—A plentiful supply for civilians.

Canned fruits and juices—Approximately 12 per cent less for home consumption than last year.

Canned vegetables—Slightly more will be available than in 1944.

Fresh fruits and vegetables—A good supply for the next three months, but not reaching the high levels of a year ago.

Cereal products—A good supply.

Stockpile Termed Minimum.

Defending the WFA against charges of stockpiling, Marshall said the organization is carrying a minimum of reserves and that its inventory figure today is less than 500 million dollars, which is about one-half of the March, 1943, inventory. Measures are being taken to return food into normal channels as soon as feasible, he said.

J. B. Hutson, director of agriculture of the office of war mobilization, sent his speech by Marshall under orders to eliminate unnecessary travel.

At the end of the war the farm plant will be geared to produce about 25 per cent more than pre-war levels, he said, but ample markets may be expected, given speedy industrial reconversion, continued full employment, and export outlets.

He predicted farmers would have to cut their output of wheat, cotton, pork, eggs, and vegetable oils.

PREDICTS MORE COMPETITION BY BRITISH MOVIES

Increased English competition for the American motion picture industry is indicated after the war not only in the British Isles but in the world market, Warner Brothers Pictures said yesterday in its annual report to stockholders. On the other hand, territories freed from Nazi and Japanese domination will be open again to the American movie industry, it said.

The company reported net income of $6,953,462 for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, or $1.87 a common share, against $8,238,483, or $2.12 a share, for the preceding year, after deducting a year's dividend on preferred stock, retired in August, 1943.

Inventories on Aug. 31 were $8,966,241 larger than a year earlier, mostly representing completed but unreleased motion pictures, the report said.

60,000 Shares of Dayton Rubber Stock Are Sold

Lehman Brothers yesterday sold 60,000 shares of Dayton Rubber Manufacturing company common stock at $23.50. Of the total, 50,000 shares were sold for the company which will use the proceeds to expand existing facilities. The other 10,000 shares were sold by J. A. MacMillan, chairman of the board, and his wife.

U. S. INGENUITY SHOWN IN VAST BEARING SHOPS

Disclose Vital Part in Motor War.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 10.—The full story of American ingenuity in the mass production of anti-friction bearings vital in the operation of every piece of military mechanism that moves on land, in the air, and by sea, was disclosed today by the army air forces.

War time developments in manufacturing technique were explained publicly for the first time during a tour of two of the biggest plants that contributed to the 1944 national production record of more than 100 million bearings for the aircraft industry alone.

"Tremendous Trifles" of War.

These plants, operated by the Hyatt division of General Motors corporation at Harrison, N. J., and by S. K. F. Industries, Inc., near Philadelphia, are sharing in even larger government orders to meet increased 1945 production schedules.

The tour served to emphasize the vital role played by these "tremendous trifles" of war, and to explain why the United States and Britain chose to conduct some of the biggest, deadliest, and most fiercely resisted air raids to knock out Germany's bearing industry centered in Schweinfurt.

These plants turn out more than 3,500 different types and sizes of ball and roller bearings, ranging up to 28 inches in diameter. Some of the most delicate operations are handled by women, with gray-haired grandmothers working side by side with bobby-socks girls.

One Tenth Inch Bearing in Gauges.

The smallest bearing used in aircraft precision instruments is only .1063 of an inch in diameter, with three steel balls in it, measuring .03937 of an inch. Without it, delicate instruments such as the fuel and manifold pressure gauge, turn and bank indicators, and artificial horizon would be unreliable, endangering the lives of aircraft personnel.

Ingenious methods are employed to assure accuracy. In assembling bearings for turbo superchargers, for example, women are required to wear gloves, and keep their hands under a sheet of glass. Dust or perspiration might ruin them.

One particularly delicate bearing is delivered for assembly in a plastic tube filled with fine oil, and shipped to aircraft manufacturers under that same protective system. In some operations, two of every three workers are inspectors who utilize sound amplifying and other devices to detect imperfections.

Must Withstand High Temperature.

Bearings turned out by the companies operate in aircraft at speeds up to 30,000 revolutions a minute and some of them, to meet modern war needs, had to be engineered to withstand temperatures as high as 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

This required the perfection of steel heat-treating methods to provide what metallurgists term "growth stabilization." It had been found that even the perfectly made bearing actually grew permanently, not just temporarily expanding from the heat, when operated at sustained high speeds.

A special lubricating system was designed to prevent overheating, and a new type of lubricant was atomized and carried to bearings that operate in a mist of oil.

As an example of the part played by bearings in modern military aircraft, army officers said that each gunsighting station in the B-29 Super Fortress has 92 ball bearing assemblies. The Flying Fortress uses 3,141 bearings. The famed Norden bombsight operates with 35 different sizes and types of ball bearings which provide its amazing precision.

War Teaches Wider Platinum Use

Newark, N. J., Jan. 10 [Special].—Experience gained in the use of platinum, platinum alloys, and platinum group metals will be applicable to post-war products and processes, a favorable prospect for the platinum industry, Charles Engelhard, president of Baker & Co., described as the world's largest refiner of precious metals, said today.

Use of platinum in the manufacture of jewelry has been prohibited to conserve the metal for war purposes. Canada is the largest producer of the metal; others are Russia, Colombia, South Africa, and Alaska.

"Platinum and platinum alloys are making important contributions to winning the war in numerous electrical and electronic devices such as magnetos, automatic controllers, radios, and other apparatus used in air, land, and sea warfare," said Engelhard's statement.

Vital for War Materials.

"In war industries platinum and platinum alloys are vital in producing many materials, including explosives, electro-chemicals, and special glass products."

Engelhard said the necessity for conserving platinum centered attention on palladium—a platinum metal—which is in sufficient supply. A substantial increase in demand for this metal for jewelry, industrial, and dental purposes occurred last year, he said.

"In the industrial field larger quantities of palladium are being consumed in electrical equipment, especially for the small contacts so widely used in instruments, regulators, relays, and similar devices for telephone and other equipment," he explained. "Palladium is being used as a catalyst to good advantage in a growing number of hydrogenation processes employed in manufacturing various pharmaceutical and organic chemical products.

Prices of Group Hold Stable.

"The three platinum metals—rhodium, ruthenium, and iridium—continued to be used mainly for alloying purposes," he said. "Research has established that ruthenium can be used with very satisfactory results as a hardener for either platinum or palladium, thus assisting iridium, which is subject to conservation regulations, as is rhodium."

Except for iridium, prices of all members of the platinum group were stable in 1944, he said. Platinum sold at $35 an ounce, palladium $24, rhodium $125, and ruthenium $35. Iridium sold at $165 an ounce up to July, and since then has been quoted at $120.

Architect Buys Building, Saves 9 Room Home

BY AL CHASE.

Samuel A. Marx, Chicago architect, bought the 12 story apartment building at 1325 Astor st., at the southeast corner of Banks st., to prevent his nine room and 5 bath apartment being remodeled into small apartments, it was learned yesterday. He was highest bidder of several who wanted the property and paid the New York Life Insurance company $300,000.

Samuel A. Marx.

Marx's purchase ended a long period of uncertainty and unrest among the 12 families which occupy the building over the possibility of being forced out thru purchase by interests planning to remodel it.

Pool Purchase Plan Dropped.

Recently a move was under way among the tenants for each to contribute $10,000 toward a pool to finance a cash and long term mortgage purchase. The plan was dropped when New York Life, which foreclosed a $400,000 mortgage and held title, announced it would sell to the highest bidder. Marx at once entered a bid and got the property. He will not receive title, however, until March, 1946, when the redemption period expires.

Marx said he bought the property for two reasons, to protect his home and as an investment.

Started as a Coöperative.

Built in the late 1920s from plans by Andrew N. Rebori, Chicago architect, at a cost of $850,000, plus $200,000 spent by individual tenants for decorations, it originally was operated as a coöperative project. Several of the tenant owners lost their equities in the depression and the insurance company foreclosed. The apartments now rent at $275 to $350 a month, Louis Sudler of Sudler & Co., agent of the property, said.

OPA INCREASES CEILING FOR FIVE STEEL PRODUCTS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—Increases in the ceiling prices for five basic steel products at the mill level, ranging from $2 to $5 a ton, effective tomorrow, were announced today by the OPA. The increases were described as interim, pending completion of an industry-wide cost survey.

OPA said the increases had no connection with a recent adjustment in steel workers' wages, but were based on labor costs in effect prior to the adjustment.

Hot rolled carbon plates, produced to sheared mill or universal mill width and length tolerances, were increased 10 cents a hundred pounds, hot rolled carbon steel sheets 10 cents, galvanized sheets, roofing, and sides 15 cents, nails and staples, other than galvanized, 25 cents, and rails, all types and grades, $3 a gross ton.

GRAHAM-PAIGE BUYS RIGHTS TO TILLING DEVICE

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 10 [Special].—Graham-Paige Motors corporation has acquired the manufacturing rights to "Rototiller," a farm machine which plows, harrows, and disks in one operation, and will produce the machines as soon as materials become available, Joseph W. Frazer, chairman of the board, said today.

The implement, which will be made in light and heavy duty models, will be the first of the company's projected line of special farm equipment, which includes a tractor.

Manufacturing and selling rights were obtained from Rototiller, Inc., Troy, N. Y., and the automotive company plans to use Rototiller's distributor and dealer organization to handle Graham-Paige's line.

Traction Unity Plan Extended on Igoe's Plea

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Members of the city council committee on local transportation, with apparent reluctance, recommended yesterday that the 1941 traction unification ordinance be kept alive until May 1. The action was taken at the request of Judge Michael L. Igoe of the federal District court, who is trying to work out a union of the surface and elevated lines within the ordinance provisions.

It was made clear, however, that the city intends to go ahead with its plan for municipal ownership of the traction companies, and to hold a referendum on the matter in early June. There was no dissent on this. The city already has taken the position that the 1941 ordinance is obsolete and no workable unification can be had under it.

Car Service Protested.

The committee heard numerous complaints of the service now being rendered by the surface lines. One of them was that street cars were being switched back before completing their runs, often delaying as much as an hour passengers bound for the outskirts of the city.

Ald. Orlikoski [35th] suggested that the managers of the lines be summoned to explain "breakdowns of schedules that should not be tolerated."

Atty. Jacob Grossman, representing the lines, admitted that the service was not always good, but blamed the man power shortage. He said the company was short more than 1,000 trainmen and that the existing force was working overtime and on days off to keep the cars rolling.

Ald. Merryman [45th] urged that women be hired to collect fares, as they do in London and other large cities.

1,119 Trainmen in War.

Joseph Kehoe, president of the street car men's union, said he didn't think it possible to get women for the work.

"Any woman who would take such a job when she could work in a nice warm war plant should have her head examined," he said. He agreed with Grossman that the necessary man power was lacking and added that 1,119 of the trainmen were on leave for military duty. He said that 60 per cent of the force was working overtime.

John Dooley, 5215 Gladys av., a volunteer witness, asserted passengers often had to wait an hour when a switchback caught them.

"I saw the Chicago fire," Dooley said: "I have watched the street car service since. It is worse than it was when we had horse cars."

Other complainants included Aldermen Cowhey [41st], O'Halloren [18th], Lancaster [37th], and Bohling [7th].

STOCKS RESIST SELLING, CLIMB TO NEW PEAKS

Volume Again Tops 2 Million Shares.

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—The stock market rolled up additional gains of fractions to 2 points today to send the averages to new seven year highs in the second 2 million share day in a row. Volume was 2,109,695 shares, against 2,261,940 yesterday.

News of the invasion of Luzon and the improved war position in Europe caused some early selling in steels and rails, but as this pressure disappeared the market went ahead as readily on good war news as it had on unfavorable reports.

Steels and rails recovered, and heavy buying came into such groups as rubbers, coppers, motors, and specialties. Western Union "A" and an assortment of radio-electronic shares which had been strong from the opening widened their gains. Closing prices generally were near the top levels. Western Union's 2¾ point rise followed a pleasing 11 month earnings report.

Rubber Gains Are Wide.

The scope and persistence of the speculative demand, said some brokers and analysts, was traceable in large measure to the big volume of idle money and inflation psychology.

Leading issues with gains of 1 to 2 points included Goodrich, United States Rubber, Goodyear, Anaconda, Douglas Aircraft, Chrysler, Johns-Manville, Emerson Electric, and New York Central.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite rose 0.3 to 59.9, highest since Sept. 16, 1937. In broad trade of 978 issues, 507 advances were registered against 245 declines.

MILWAUKEE LIENS RISE

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—A broad rally in securities of the Milwaukee railroad after approval of a plan of reorganization, spurred recovery in the bond market today altho profit taking was a retarding factor thruout the session. Trade was heavy.

Milwaukee Road bonds topped all peaks of recent years with gains of ⅜ to 5⅜ points. The widest advance was registered by the 5s of 1975 at 79⅞ on sales of $1,578,000. The 4¾s exceeded par for the first time in years, the 4½s touched par, and the general 4s approached it.

The main corporate list was hesitant much of the time as profit taking persisted among the recently strong issues and a general lightening of buying orders came in other cases. Rails generally were mixed to a shade higher.

CHICAGO TRADE AT PEAK.

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchange extended their advance yesterday in a turnover of 73,000 shares which equaled the 1944 trading peak. Volume leaders included Chicago corporation, unchanged, Armour & Co., down ⅛, New York Central, up ⅝, Radio Corporation, up ⅝, and Peabody Coal, up ⅞.

ELECT FREEMAN TO LEAD CHICAGO BUSINESS GROUP

Thomas B. Freeman, president of Butler Brothers, was elected president of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the annual election yesterday. He will succeed Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, who has headed the association for two years.

New officers elected were Arthur T. Leonard, vice president, City National Bank and Trust company, as vice president for revenue, and W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, as general secretary.

Taxes Put Lid on Profit, Says Banker Fenton

As a result of present tax rates earnings of Harris Trust and Savings bank have about reached a ceiling that will continue for some years, Howard W. Fenton, chairman, yesterday told stockholders at the bank's annual meeting. He said that the ceiling on profits created by existing taxes will continue at least for the duration, and perhaps longer.

He explained that the bank had certain carry-over credits in 1944 that cut down taxes, but that these credits will not be available this year.

The board of directors, members of which were reelected by the stockholders, announced several promotions among the bank's staff.

List of Men Promoted.

A. F. Miche was elected vice president; Woodward Burgert, Rufus R. Jeffris, and Leslie A. Wood, assistant vice presidents; Roswell B. Swazey, assistant vice president and manager of the municipal department; T. S. Kiley, assistant vice president and trust counsel; Arthur E. Urick, Howard B. Koch, and Richard E. Ramsay, assistant cashiers, and Lawrence R. Cooper, assistant secretary.

National Boulevard Bank of Chicago reported net profit in 1944 was $154,172, equal to $20.56 a share, compared with per share earnings of $16.40 in 1943. Total deposits of $46,369,168 on Dec. 31, 1944, compared with $37,314,892 a year earlier.

Joseph F. Wanberg, president of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Evanston, said the bank's net current operating earnings in 1944 were $96,238, against $83,615 in 1943. Deposits totaled $19,387,073 at the end of 1944, compared with $8,629,348 in 1940.

Mid-City Elects New Director.

Stockholders of Mid-City Bank of Chicago elected M. J. Fitzgerald, president of Standard Asbestos and Manufacturing company, to the board of directors.

New assistant vice presidents elected at the Industrial National Bank of Chicago were Howell E. Hammer, William B. Shapiro, and Wilbur C. Hargis. Charles F. Collatz was promoted to assistant cashier.

Barnet L. Rosset, president of Metropolitan Trust company, announced that William Waitkoff was elected assistant auditor.

The River Forest State bank elected Elmer W. Arch, already a director, to the new position of chairman of the board. Carl J. Weitzel, a director of La Salle National bank, and John A. Kiesert were chosen to fill board vacancies.

The Wheeling State bank added Joseph U. Witry, Chicago attorney, and M. Olsen, bond salesman, to its board. Edward J. Welflin, a director, was elected vice president.

GRAIN FUTURES MOSTLY EASY; RYE ENDS FIRM

Government offers to purchase No. 2 yellow corn at $1.19½ a bushel, the office of price administration ceiling, and buying of rye futures in expectation a survey of grain stocks on farms would show a much smaller holding than a year ago helped corn and rye prices yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Other grains were easy.

Corn showed resistance to selling pressure early, and altho the close was on a reaction from the top, last sales were ¼ cent a bushel higher to ⅛ cent lower. Rye broke about 1 cent early and finished ⅝ higher. Wheat was under pressure from the start and closed ¼ to ⅞ lower, May leading. Oats lost ⅛ and barley ⅝.

F.D.R. RETREATS ON U. S.-BRITISH OIL AGREEMENT

Promises Revision in Special Note.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—President Roosevelt today confessed defeat on a major administration foreign policy by asking the senate to return to him for revision the Anglo-American oil agreement, which had been so roundly attacked by the petroleum industry that it was conceded to have no chance of ratification.

In a special message to congress Mr. Roosevelt promised revision of the agreement, which had been pigeon holed by the senate foreign relations committee, to remove "grounds for misunderstanding."

The chief executive said that when he submitted the agreement Aug. 24 he believed it was "an important step forward in removing possible causes of friction in international trade in petroleum and promoting coöperation among nations in development of that trade."

Opinion Still Same.

Altho he insisted he still holds that opinion, he said that fears later arose as to the scope and effect of the agreement, some holding it would authorize acts by the petroleum industry inconsistent with provisions of existing law and others that it held potentialities harmful to the industry.

The President said he held these fears to be without foundation and that it would be unfortunate if an understanding between British and American petroleum interests would be delayed thru a misunderstanding. Therefore, he said, he was requesting the senate to return the treaty in order to make what "revision appears to be necessary to achieve its objectives and to remove grounds for misunderstanding."

In the senate the Presidential request was regarded as a surrender because the pact had been stymied. The agreement was an international one in which the administration had been dabbling for some months last year. It was sponsored by War Petroleum Administrator Ickes and had the blessing of former Secretary of State Hull.

Signed by Negotiators.

It was signed by negotiators here last August and promulgated as an instrument to assure the orderly development of petroleum resources for international trade and to provide a basis for a world wide multilateral oil accord in the post-war era.

Under attack of the petroleum industry, the agreement was halted in the senate foreign relations committee. There was some hope it might be brought out at this session.

This hope died, however, with the revelation of a joker in the minutes of the conferences at which it was drawn. This was in a provision which guaranteed that the British empire's commercial system would be maintained thru preservation of the empire's preference system.

On disclosure of the joker, Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] called for defeat of the pact and for careful scrutiny of future treaties to protect the rights of the American people.
